The following Report of the Select Committee on the Bill to amend the Indian Stamp Act, 1879, was presented to the Council of the Governor General of India for the purpose of making Laws and Regulations on the 19th January, 1888:—

LEGISLATIVE DEPARTMENT.

WE, the undersigned, Members of the Select Committee to which the Bill to amend the Indian Stamp Act, 1879, was referred, have considered the Bill and the papers noted in the margin, and have now the honour to submit this our Report.

From Chief Commissioner, Ajmere-Merwára, No. 801—690, dated 12th July, 1887 [Paper No. 6].
From Secretary for Berar to Resident, Hyderabad, No. 266G., dated 18th July, 1887 [Paper No. 7].
From Messrs. Morgan & Co., Attorneys, High Court, Calcutta, No. 5251, dated 23rd July, 1887 [Paper No. 8].
From Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Coorg, No. 1225—1107, dated 20th July, 1887 [Paper No. 9].
From Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Burma, No. 634—22S.S., dated 26th July, 1887, and enclosure [Papers No. 10].

From Officiating Under Secretary to Chief Commissioner, Central Provinces, No. 3848—216, dated 1st August, 1887, and enclosures [Papers No. 12].

From Secretary to Government, Bengal, No. 3430, dated 8th September, 1887, and enclosures [Papers No. 19].

2. We have made it clear that the only renewals on which stamp-duty is to be paid are renewals of fire-policies in respect of which, and of any previous renewal whereof, there has not already been paid full stamp-duty at the highest rate chargeable in respect of original policies of fire-insurance.

3. We have ascertained that it is sufficient to provide for fire-policies being drawn singly. We have proposed to amend article 49 of the schedule accordingly.

4. We have corrected a clerical error in the fourth sub-clause of clause (b) of the same article, and simplified the expression of the fifth sub-clause.

5. The Bill does not appear to us to stand in need of any other alteration.

6. We may observe that there is nothing in the Bill which will interfere with the practice, where it now obtains, of evidencing renewals of fire-policies from year to year by receipts only for premium paid. If full stamp-duty at the highest rate chargeable in respect of an original policy has once been paid, then the receipt evidencing the renewal will, if it acknowledges the payment of more than twenty rupees, be chargeable with stamp-duty of one anna only under Act I, 1879, Schedule I, article 52.

RESOLUTION ON THE ADMINISTRATION REPORT OF THE COMMISSIONERS FOR MAKING IMPROVEMENTS IN THE PORT OF CALCUTTA FOR THE YEAR 1886-87.

MUNICIPAL DEPARTMENT—CALCUTTA PORT TRUST.

Calcutta, the 31st January 1888.

RESOLUTION.

READ—

The Administration Report of the Commissioners for making Improvements in the Port of Calcutta for the year 1886-87.

During the year under review, the consolidated debt owing to Government was reduced by Rs. 1,13,346, and a sum of Rs. 96,300 was invested on account of the sinking fund for the debenture loans raised in 1881, 1883 and 1886. On the other hand, the Commissioners received from Government, in addition to advances already received by them amounting to Rs. 23,75,000, further advances to the extent of Rs 31,00,000, to enable them to proceed with the construction of the Kidderpore Docks. The total debt of the Port Trust on the 31st March 1887 was as follows:—

	Rs.
Consolidated repayable debt due to Government ...	46 43,335
Port Book debt not repayable	17,65,000
Due on 4½ debenture loan of 1881	10,00,000
Due on 4½ ditto of 1883	20,00,000
Due on 5½ ditto of 1886	30,00,000
Recoverable advances received from Government for Dock works to end of 1886 87	54,75,000
Total ...	1,78,83,335

Against the above debt, the Commissioners estimate the assets of the Trust, consisting of reserve funds, property in jetties, wharves, and other productive works, and block at the close of the year, at Rs. 2,59,29,803.

2. The income during the year under Revenue Account, exclusive of the opening balance of the year, Rs. 3,94,621, amounted to Rs. 23,98,183, against Rs. 21,66,136, the income of the previous year. The total expenditure, including payments on account of sinking funds and contributions from other ports to Part VII, "Port approaches," was Rs. 27,80,763. The account therefore closed with a net credit balance of Rs. 3,87,041 on the 31st March 1887. Under Capital Account the receipts, including the credit balance of Rs. 1,26,502 at the close of the year 1885-86, amounted to Rs. 40,35,203, and expenditure to Rs. 32,99,924. The expenditure was chiefly on account of the new Dock works.

3. During the year the tea warehouse at Armenian Ghât was completed at a further cost of Rs. 4,54,045. The sum of Rs. 1,78,920 was spent on alterations made in the petroleum wharf, and Rs. 41 351 on the Howrah foreshore.

Money having been advanced by Government, work on the Kidderpore Docks steadily proceeded. The sum of Rs. 20,41,718 expended on these works formed the largest item in the total of Rs. 27,68,426 spent on new works.

Both the income and the expenditure under Part I, "Jetties," increased, with the result that the net revenue was Rs. 4,763 less than that of the previous year. The income from exports slightly increased, and a sum of nearly Rs 50,000 was realized on account of the petroleum wharf. On the other hand, there was a decrease from "imports" due partly to the space available for trading ships being taken up by transports for Burmah, and partly to a reduction in the rents charged for the upper floors of the new warehouses. The earnings from the floating crane also decreased. The increase in expenditure was due to interest charges on capital expenditure, which much more than covered a saving of about Rs. 10,000 in working expenses.

5. The total amount of the receipts from the Inland Vessels' Wharves was Rs. 4,41,103 against Rs. 3,93,587, the receipts of the previous year, but an increase of Rs 45,159 in the charge for interest had to be paid out of this increased income, nearly thirteen lakhs out of the loan raised in the year

1885-86 having been spent on these wharves. The net revenue was thus Rs. 1,55,098 against Rs. 1,47,146 in 1885-86. It should be noted, however, that out of this net revenue Rs. 67,171 was paid on account of Sinking Fund on loans.

The receipts and expenditure on account of the Strand Bank Lands amounted to Rs. 1,71,450 and Rs. 1,05,778 respectively, against Rs. 1,73,342 and Rs. 1,06,371, the receipts and charges of the previous year. The collections from the Strand Bank Lands belonging to the Trust amounted to Rs. 65,672 as against Rs. 66,971 in the previous year.

There was a large increase in the gains of the Harbour-Masters' Department from the hire of moorings. This was chiefly nominal, and was due to the fact that an unusually large number of vessels which had entered the port during the previous year had their accounts adjusted during the year under review. There was also a saving of about fifteen thousand rupees in expenditure, so that the net revenue this year amounted to Rs. 94,806 as against Rs. 3,045 in the year preceding.

The income of the Harbour-Masters' Department amounted to Rs. 5,97,237 against Rs. 5,21,061, the income of the previous year, showing an increase of Rs. 76,176, nearly all of which was due to larger collections on account of mooring hire. The expenditure of the year was Rs. 5,02,351, or Rs. 15,665 less than the expenditure of the previous year, the principal saving being under Dredging Account. The net revenue amounted to Rs. 94,886

7. Only eight vessels met with accidents while in charge of Assistant Harbour-Masters during the year, none of which were serious, and it is satisfactory to observe that in no case was the Assistant Harbour-Master to blame.

8. The usual examination of the moorings was made during the year, and those found defective were replaced by new materials. Three new moorings were laid, viz. two fixed moorings at Budge-Budge, and one swinging mooring in the stream below Fort Point. The total number of moorings in the Port at the close of the year was 231, of which 180 were fixed and 51 swinging. The dredger was employed for 139 days during the year at a cost of Rs. 22,122, the rate per 1,000 cublic feet dredged being Rs. 18·3.

9. The number of vessels surveyed during the year under Acts V of 1862, and VI and VII of 1884, for hull and engine certificates, was 265. The number of visits paid to them was 698. The number of passenger and emigrant vessels surveyed under Acts VIII of 1876 and XXI of 1883 was 73. Thirteen boilers and condensing apparatus for emigrant vessels were surveyed under Act XXI of 1883. Thirteen vessels were measured for tonnage, and one for registration under the Merchant Shipping Act of 1854, and two vessels were measured for tonnage under the rules for measurement of inland steamers and flats. Besides these there were during the year surveys of 10 vessels belonging to the Port Commissioners and 17 miscellaneous surveys. Only one ship was found to be unseaworthy.

10. The following table compares the number of passenger and cargo boats surveyed and licensed, and the number of manjees licensed during the year with those of the previous year:—

	1886-87.	1885-86.
Passenger boats	1,661	1,808
Cargo „	5,861	5,913
Manjees licensed	8,986	9,009

11. The Port Commissioners' Railway continues to show satisfactory results. During the year under review the receipts amounted to Rs. 1,70,151, being Rs. 9,708 in excess of the receipts of the previous year. A considerable portion of the increase was due to the opening of the Jubilee Bridge at Naihatty, which brought additional traffic to the line. The expenditure, which was higher than that of any previous year, amounted to Rs. 1,26,649. The net revenue was Rs. 43,502. At the close of the year a new agreement was entered into between the Commissioners and the Eastern Bengal State Railway for the working, for a further period of three years, of the through traffic on the Commissioners' riverside line

12. The income under "Port Approaches," which is made up chiefly of contributions from other parts of the Commissioner's accounts, amounted to Rs. 4,74,387 against Rs. 4,27,943, the income of the previous year. The expenditure amounted to Rs. 4,05,281 against Rs. 4,94,133. Among the items of expenditure, Rs. 50,000 is shown as having been provided on account of depreciation. This amount has since been appropriated to make a first payment of £3,000 for a new light-ship which has been ordered out from England to form a reserve in case of emergency. The sum of Rs. 80,000, which had previously been set apart to provide for depreciation, will be similarly appropriated. The importance and necessity of making proper provision for depreciation have, however, been already referred to in connection with the budget estimates for the current year.

13. The channels leading to the port were kept clear, and the light-houses and light ships preserved in good condition throughout the year. As in the previous year, the only obstruction to navigation of any consequence was caused by the Nynan Tracts. A complete survey of the river from Jiggerkolly to Saugor, and thence to the Bell buoy, was carried out during the year, and this kept the surveying vessels all fully occupied. It was reported to Government at the end of the year that there were no stores at one of the Refuge houses, but this case must have been exceptional, as the present report shows that since the close of the year the houses were visited, and that the stores were found to be in good condition.

14. The thanks of Government are due to the Commissioners for their vigorous management of the affairs of the Trust.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

COLMAN MACAULAY,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

ESTIMATED OUTTURN OF BHADOI CROP AND WINTER HARVEST OF 1887-88.

No. 51 Agri., dated Calcutta, the 10th January 1888.

From—M. FINUCANE, Esq., Director of the Department of Land Records and Agriculture, Bengal,

To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Revenue Department.

I HAVE the honour to submit the report called for in your No. 408—9Fam., dated 8th February last, on the estimated outturn of the bhadoi crops reaped in August, September and October, and of the winter rice crop, the harvesting of which is now being completed.

2. The figured estimates of area under cultivation and of outturn of crops have no claim to statistical accuracy. They represent merely the opinions of local officers, who supplemented the meagre statistical information as to areas under cultivation with each crop to be found in official compilations relating to the districts of the Lower Provinces, by such further information as they could gather from zemindars, European planters and managers of Government and Wards' estates. Considering the necessarily imperfect manner in which such estimates as these have to be framed in Bengal, they must be accepted with caution, as being in reality little better than guesses. They may, however, as representing the best local opinions regarding the areas to which they relate, be of some use to traders.

3. The last rainy season was generally one of deficient rainfall throughout Bengal, and mainly for this reason the outturn of bhadoi crops was as a rule seriously short of the normal.

4. The outturn of the rice crop is reported to be less than the normal in 32 out of the 44 districts of the Lower Provinces. In five districts the present year's crop is reported to be normal, and in seven, some of which suffered from floods last year, the outturn will be better than in the preceding year. On the whole it may be said that the outturn will be somewhat less than the normal, but the deficiency will probably not be more than 2 annas.

5. Serious failure of the winter rice is reported from limited areas in the sub-divisions named on the margin, but it is not anticipated that any special measures of Government relief will be required in them. I have myself recently visited the State of Angul, in parts of which an almost total failure of the rice crop was reported, and, after enquiry on the spot, am of opinion that an 8-anna rice crop was harvested in the worst villages, and an average crop in many. I do not therefore think that there is any necessity for starting special relief works in that area at present, and doubt whether any such necessity will arise later on.

6. This report was due on 1st December, but I regret that, as Collectors' reports, though called for by the 15th of November, had not all been received by the 1st of December, when it was necessary for me to leave for Orissa, it was found impossible to submit it on an earlier date. A copy of my circular letter calling for reports on the state and prospects of the crops is annexed.

Rajshahye	Sudder	944	689	254	Aus rice ..	11 annas ..	The crops suffered much from early rains in the low lands. In the Nattore sub-division there was a deficiency of rain at the ploughing and sowing time and excess of rain afterwards. The flood brought on by the early rains is the main cause of the short outturn of the aus rice crop. The lands in the Sudder being on the whole higher, the outturn is comparatively better there than in the other two sub divisions.

* It is impossible t give any estimate of areas in this district The total number of houses in the district is 5,003, and allowing a jum for every house with an average of 2 acres per jum, with a full average crop o 100 acheea or 25 maunds per acre, the total outturn of jum paddy would be 700,000 maunds or about 50 maunds per house This year owing to short rainfall the outturn is estimated at eight annas, or half of an average crop. Cotton, the average produce per jum, is estimated at about eight maunds This year the crop promises to be a full average crop and if rain does not fall in Kartick, the crop will probably be a bumper one, or say 12 maunds per jum which would be a total of about 168,000 maunds, of which about 120 000 would be available for export at an average price of Rs 4 per maund, and which will more than compensate for the short rice crop. The area of plough land 6,400 acres, is altogether too small to affect the district in any way. The bhadoi crop covers about one-third of the whole or about 2,000 acres, and like the jum crop has been equally affected by the short rainfall in June, July, and August.

QUARTERLY INSPECTIONS OF THE KIDDERPORE DOCK WORKS.

Dated Calcutta, the 21st January 1888.

From—T. H. WICKES, Esq., and H. CLOETE, Esq.,

To—The Secretary to the Government of Bengal, Public Works Department.

WE have the honour to report that, in accordance with the orders conveyed in the Government of Bengal's No. 43M.P.I. of the 5th instant, we made the third quarterly inspection of the works in progress at the Kidderpore Docks on the 12th idem.

2. We enclose the usual tabular statement and index plan showing the work done during the quarter, and the total amount executed, which have been prepared by the Superintending Engineer in charge of the Dock Works.

3. The state of the works on the 31st of December last was as follows:—

TEMPORARY WORKS AND PLANT.

Arrangements have been made for laying a line of rails along the boat canal bank, and so connecting the Dock Works and the Akra brick-fields with the Eastern Bengal State Railway system, thereby relieving the block in the traffic on the existing riverside line and its extension to Akra.

PERMANENT WORKS.

Sixty-feet Lock.—Considerable progress was made with the excavation, 21⅓ lakhs of earth were removed during the quarter, and a good start was made in laying the foundations. The work is being pushed on vigorously.

Tidal Basin.—16½ lakhs of earth were excavated, and the construction of the walls will now shortly be proceeded with.

Dock No. 1.—One thousand four hundred and fifty-six running feet of quay wall were founded during the quarter, 7⅔ lakhs of masonry laid, and 8 lakhs of earth removed. This progress was attained, notwithstanding the difficulties that occurred from time to time owing to slips.

Boat Canal.—This work was resumed at the close of the rains, and 29 lakhs cubic feet of earth excavated.

Expenditure.—The total expenditure up to the end of the quarter was Rs. 71,10,286, of which Rs. 49,12,493 were on account of works and Rs 21,97,793 for land.

SANITARY.

The health of the work-people continued to be satisfactory. The average number employed was 7,816, amongst whom there were 34 deaths reported, giving a death-rate of 17·5 per thousand. The sanitary arrangements connected with the works are under the control and supervision of the Medical Officer of the Dock Works.

GENERAL REMARKS.

We consider that the progress of the work has been very satisfactory, and that, as far as can be judged from a quarterly inspection, the quality of the work is all that could be desired.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the last ten years. The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed as percentage, saturated air being represented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The numbers under rainfall are the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the sub-divisional station for the period in question during the past 10 years. The mean in the district heading in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one on which at least hundredth of an inch fell.

for the week ending Friday, the 27th of January 1888.

CALCUTTA, the 31*st January* 1888.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 27TH OF JANUARY 1888.

THE meteorological conditions of the past week in Bengal have been mainly dependent on the development and advance of an area of barometric depression which made its appearance over Northern India, and which afterwards drifted in a south-easterly direction over South Orissa and across the Bay of Bengal. On Friday the 20th, or the last day of the previous week, the weather conditions over the whole of India were fairly normal, except that a large low pressure area was appearing, the centre of which was south of Quetta and west of Jacobabad. On the 21st the area of low pressure moved to the east-south-eastward, and a large diffused depression existed over Sind, Guzerat, Central India and the Berars. On the 22nd the depression concentrated and became rather more local, and the centre appeared to the west of Ajmere and Jeypore. On the 23rd the depression travelled slowly south-eastward, and the centre was near Seoni in the Central Provinces, while on the 24th it had advanced to near Raipur. On the 25th and 26th the depression continued its east-south-easterly advance, and on the 27th it was near Gopalpur, and it subsequently crossed the Bay of Bengal to Akyab. This depression or feeble storm has naturally very materially influenced the weather in Bengal, and the usual north-east monsoon conditions became almost entirely reversed. The reversal of the conditions commenced in the western and northern districts and gradually spread over the eastern and south-eastern. Thus from about the 22nd skies clouded over and rain commenced to fall in South Behar and Chutia Nagpur; these conditions extended to parts of South-West Bengal on the 23rd, and on the 26th and 27th disturbed conditions existed over the whole province and moderate to heavy rain became general in all districts. At the same time the northerly wind current which had been previously blowing over Bengal became almost reversed, and light southerly winds were reported in many instances. Humidity also rose very rapidly, while the night temperatures increased, though the day temperatures still remained low. Thus at the close of the week dull gloomy weather with rain and decidedly low day temperatures prevailed generally over the province.

Barometer.—Pressure was increasing at the commencement of the week, but from the 24th a rather rapid fall set in, owing to the advance of the depression. The falling barometer then lasted till the end of the week. The mean pressure for the whole week for the whole province has, however, been in excess of the normal by 0·02 inch. The excess pressure has, however, been largest in the north of the province, where at Durbhunga it has equalled 0·057 inch, while in the southern districts the excess has been generally small, and at False Point the pressure during the week has been even slightly in defect, thus showing that the southern districts of the province were being most affected by the advancing depression.

Temperature.—The mean temperature for the week has in most districts been largely below the normal; thus in Chutia Nagpur and South Behar the defect of the actual from the normal mean temperature has been between 4° and 5°, in North Behar and South-West Bengal the defect has been about 3°, and in East and North Bengal it has equalled about 1°, though in Orissa the small defect of 0·6° has been registered. For the whole province the mean temperature of the week has been 2·4° below the normal.

As has been previously stated, the day or maximum temperatures have shown the greatest deficiency owing to the cloudy weather and rainfall, and thus at some stations the average maximum or day temperature for the week has been 7° and 8° below the normal, while at Hazaribagh and Gya the defect has been between 8° and 9°. That the defects have been principally in the day temperatures is seen from the figures in the following table, where the average maximum, minimum and mean temperatures for the week at nine typical selected stations in different districts of the province are compared with the normal values for the same period. It will be seen that the average maximum or day temperature of these nine stations has been 5·8° below the normal, while the average of the night or minimum temperature has been only 0·6° in defect.

Rainfall.—The causes of the occurrence of the general rainfall during the week have already been discussed. Rainfall has been heaviest in Chutia Nagpur, South-Behar and South-West Bengal, where the amounts have averaged almost an inch; in Orissa and East Bengal the falls have equalled an average amount of nearly two-thirds of an inch, and in North Behar a general fall of about half an inch has been received. The rainfall has been smallest in amount in North Bengal, where, up to the close of the week, the average fall had only amounted to 0·15 inch. For the whole province there has therefore been a general average fall of 0·64 inch.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Friday, the 27th of January 1888:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

1. That during the week ending 7th January 1888, the birth and death-rates of the principal Municipalities in Bengal amounted to 21·0 and 26·9 per 1,000 of population, respectively, as opposed to 25·6 and 30·7 per 1,000 respectively, in the preceding week ending 31st December, indicating a very considerable decrease in the registration of both.

2. That they were registered in the highest proportions by the following Municipalities:—

		Naraingunj	33·1
		Hughli	30·9
		Howrah	30·3
		Burdwan	29·0

3. That, contrasted with the results of the preceeding week, it appears that there occurred a sensible decrease of mortality from fever and bowel-complaints, notably from the former; fractional decreases in fatal results from cholera and the maladies grouped under the head of "Other causes," and no variation in fatality from small-pox and injury:—

4. That in local incidence of the diseases above named, while no Municipality presented noticeably high mortality from small-pox, bowel-complaints and injury, the following Municipalities exhibited the death-rates noted opposite them from cholera, fever and "other causes."

RESOLUTION.

In Home Department Resolution, dated the 12th February 1886, cited in the preamble, on the subject of the scheme for the establishment of six Government scholarships tenable in England by natives of India, it was provided that each scholar should be required to bind himself by a written engagement to submit to such regulations as may from time to time be framed by Her Majesty's Secretary of State for the guidance of the scholars during their stay in England.

With reference to this provision, the Secretary of State was asked to lay down such regulations as may be deemed necessary, and the following rules have been prescribed by His Lordship :—

Rules for Indian Government Scholars in England.

1. Every scholar shall, on reaching England, at once present himself at the India Office and report his arrival in writing.

2. Every scholar shall, without any unnecessary delay, inform the Secretary of State to which University he intends to proceed, and shall at once take steps to enter himself at the College he has selected, or (with the special permission of the Secretary of State) as a non-collegiate student.

3. Every scholar shall, within four weeks of reaching England, submit for the approval of the Secretary of State a statement showing the general course of study he proposes to follow; and the course approved shall not be changed without the sanction of the Secretary of State.

4. Every scholar shall, at the end of each University term, submit to the Secretary of State a certificate from the proper College or University authority, showing that his residence, conduct, and progress in study have been satisfactory during the term.

5. Every scholar shall at all times obey such instructions as he may receive from the Secretary of State.

6. Subject to a due compliance with the above conditions, the allowance, at the rate of £200 a year for three years, will be paid monthly in advance by the India Office, commencing from the date of the scholar's reporting his arrival in England.

7. Every scholar will forfeit his scholarship who, not being disabled by illness or prevented by any other cause which the Secretary of State may consider sufficient, fails to complete a residence of three years in England, or who is guilty of misconduct or disregard of the orders of the Secretary of State. If a scholarship be forfeited, the scholar will lose his claim to a free return passage to India, and will further become liable to refund the cost of his free passage to England.

The Governor-General in Council requests that steps may be taken to cause a copy of these rules to be furnished to each selected scholar on his nomination.

ORDER—Ordered that a copy of this Resolution be forwarded to the Governments of Madras, Bombay, and the Punjab for information and guidance.

In the Kissengunge sub-division very little wheat is grown, and it is imported from the west by a long and difficult journey by road, hence high prices as compared with Arrareah. The Sudder sub-division is a large grain mart, and prices are kept down by trade competition. * Rise in price due to temporary local scarcity and unusual demand. † Fall in price attributable to new crop coming in.

CALCUTTA AND SUBURBAN MUNICIPALITIES AMALGAMATION BILL.

His Honour the President said:—Before calling upon the Hon. Sir Henry Harrison to make the motion which stands in his name, I have a few suggestions to offer to the Council as to the best method of proceeding with the business before us. I have noticed that the amendments which have been printed are rather confusing. We have the same amendments proposed in different words by different members of the Council, and we have also the same amendments proposed two or three times in different sections of the Bill. But on looking into the amendments I found that they all group themselves into two or three different heads, and by grouping them in this way we shall be able to raise debates practically on the different heads to which the amendments belong, and then we can put to the vote the amendments separately under each head; and with the permission of the Council I propose to do so. For instance, the first question raised in the amendments is that of the amalgamation of the Suburbs with Calcutta. Technically speaking, these amendments fall under Chapter I, which is not now before the Council. Chapter I being, as I fancy is usual in drafting, the chapter of definitions, is left to the last. I think in all Select Committees it is usual to leave the settlement of the definitions virtually until you have the whole Bill ready. On the other hand, it will obviously be unreasonable to go on discussing the constitution of the Municipality without allowing the question as to the amalgamation of the Suburbs to be raised, because the whole object of the Bill is really to provide for the amalgamation of the Suburbs with the Town; and if amalgamation is to be refused, why the whole Bill will go. It will be observed that amendments Nos. 1 to 4 deal with the question of amalgamation, and that amendments Nos. 7 to 9 are dependent upon that question. I, therefore, propose that that question be first discussed. That might, if the hon. member agrees, be discussed under amendment No. 7 which stands in his name, and in that case I would take amendment No. 7 first. On the other hand, although not strictly in order, I shall not in the least object to amendment No. 1 being put as it is, although that part of the Bill is not before us. But as at present advised, I propose that we should take amendment No. 7 first and raise a debate as to the amalgamation on that amendment.

The next group of amendments touches the question of the number of the Commissioners and the proportion of nominees. It is difficult to separate these two questions; they are mixed up in the amendment and in the drafting of the Bill, and I do not see how they can be taken separately. It will be observed that amendments Nos. 10 to 17 all touch upon that point. Then amendments Nos 18 and 19 are separate, and they do not come under any of these groups: and again amendments Nos. 21 to 23 are all amendments touching a subsequent point, not as to the number of Commissioners, but as to how they are to be distributed. So that leaving out amendments Nos. 17 and 18, we may divide the amendments into three groups—1st, as to amalgamation; 2ndly, as to the number of Commissioners and proportion of nominees; and 3rdly, as to the distribution of the Commissioners, and I shall ask the hon. member who proposes the first three or four amendments to deal first with the question of amalgamation, and when that has been discussed I will put his amendment to the vote. I shall then ask that the question of the number of the Commissioners and the proportion of nominees be brought forward; and thirdly, the question as to the distribution of the Commissioners, and I shall then put these to the vote. That is what I propose to do with the approval of the Council.

The Hon. Sir Henry Harrison moved that the further preliminary report of the Select Committee on the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the municipal affairs of the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta be taken into consideration in order to the settlement of the clauses of the Bill.

The motion was put to the vote and carried.

The Hon. Sir Henry Harrison also moved that the clauses of Chapter II, Part I, of the Bill be considered for settlement in the form recommended by the Select Committee.

The motion was put to the vote and carried.

The Hon. Dr. Gooroo Das Banerjee moved that in section 5 the words "and all rights and interests in immoveable property situated within the area by this Act added to the Town of Calcutta, which are now vested in or held in trust for the Commissioners of the Suburbs of Calcutta" be omitted. He said:—This implies that I oppose the principle of amalgamation on which the definition of the Bill is founded, but technically speaking that definition is not before the Council. But as Chapter II, Part I, is before the Council, and as section 5 refers to that Chapter, my amendment that this portion of section 5 be omitted, implies that the scheme of amalgamation on which this section and the subsequent section, and the other provisions of Part I, Chapter II, are based, should not be accepted. In moving this amendment I am bound to say that I speak with some hesitation and diffidence, seeing that my views are opposed not only to opinions which are certainly entitled to very great respect, but may be taken to be opposed to already settled and accepted principles. Nevertheless there are certain objections against the principle which, to my humble apprehension, appear so strong that I deem it my duty to place them briefly before the Council for their consideration. First, I submit that the scheme of amalgamation fails to secure the object for which it is intended. That object is to improve the sanitary condition of the Suburbs of Calcutta. Now the scheme proposed is not one of mere federalization of the suburbs and the town, but one of complete amalgamation between the two, with a uniform rate of taxation all round. That means that taxation in the Suburbs is to be at least doubled if not trebled. Now this sudden pressure of increased taxation on the poor population of the Suburbs, a population consisting for the most part of poor clerks, petty shop-keepers and labourers, will inevitably drive a considerable number of them to places beyond the boundary, places which, as we all know, are less suited for purposes of habitation than those where the present crowded bustees are now located. Then, again, we shall have much less efficient conservancy arrangements than we have under the present Suburban Municipality. The result will be that, instead of crowded bustees in the places where they now are, we shall have almost equally crowded and filthy bustees springing up under less advantageous circumstances for purposes of municipal administration, and the diseases which now prevail in the area to be amalgamated will spread in an aggravated form in places in which it will be impracticable to reduce them by adequate conservancy arrangements. The town therefore will continue to be as contaminated by adjacent crowded and filthy bustees as it now is.

Then, secondly, I submit that the present scheme will impair the efficiency of the municipal administration of the town. The scheme adds to the present town with an area of a little over 6 square miles and with a municipal income of about 28 lakhs of rupees per annum, an additional area of about 12 square miles with an additional income of at most 6 lakhs. It is impossible to understand how this can help affecting materially and prejudicially the efficiency of the present Town Municipality. Nor will it affect the administration merely by reason of the amount of pecuniary resources. I venture to think that the time of the higher officers of the Calcutta Corporation is fully occupied in the work they now have before them, and it is not likely they will have sufficient time to undertake the additional work which will necessarily be placed in their hands by the amalgamation; but if they have spare time in their hands, no doubt the northern portion of the present town needs all their time and energy being devoted to its municipal improvement.

Thirdly, I submit that the scheme of amalgamation will be attended with injustice and hardship in the area proposed to be taken up. The rate of taxation being uniform all round—the taxation in the Suburbs, as I have already said, being increased two-fold, if not actually three-fold—it will naturally raise expectations in the Suburban residents to have the same municipal advantages given to them that the present town enjoys; and no doubt they will be justly entitled to all those advantages. But will it be possible for the new municipality with every possible economy to give them anything like those advantages? It is difficult to see how an income of 34 or 35 lakhs with an area of over 18 square miles can do what an income of 28 lakhs has done for the present town area of 6 square miles, and this after making all due allowances for differences in respect of density of population in the town and Suburbs.

In the next place the proposed amalgamation will destroy the homogeneous character of the present town. At present the municipal boundaries of the Town of Calcutta are co-extensive with the ordinary civil and criminal jurisdiction of the High Court. Under the proposed scheme, part of the municipal town will be subject to the ordinary original civil and criminal jurisdiction of the High Court, and another large part of it will be subject to other jurisdictions. And this will be no mere theoretical anomaly, but will lead in many cases, as in the case of prosecutions for municipal offences, to appreciable practical inconvenience. The municipality will have to keep two sets of officers—one to conduct prosecutions in the Calcutta Police Court, another to prosecute offenders either in the Sealdah Joint-Magistrate's Court or in the Alipore Court.

Lastly, I submit that, whilst the proposed scheme is open to these objections, it is not after all necessary. When I say this, I do not for a moment mean to say that the sanitary condition of the Suburbs does not stand in need of immediate improvement, or that it is anything like what it should be. I quite agree with those enlightened members of the European community who first drew public attention to the subject, and to whom our best thanks are due; but what I do submit is that improvements need not be effected in this sudden and forced manner by creating such a large disturbance in the existing state of things, but that it might be effected by slow degrees under existing arrangements. The failure of the Suburban Municipality to cope with the evil up to this time need not make us despair. In the first place the evil complained of is due to certain inevitable causes. I do not mean to say that under measures of sanitary improvement, well directed, the death-rate in the Suburbs may not be reduced; but I beg leave to point out to those who criticise the administration of the Suburban Municipality, that there is one cause of that death-rate which is independent of the sanitary condition of the Suburbs as far as it can be affected or altered by any municipality. The population of the Suburbs consists, as I have said, of poor clerks and shop-keepers and labourers, and as it is well known that they do not enjoy the means of living in a style such as the majority of the residents of the town, they must necessarily fall easy victims to disease. Death must create greater havoc amongst the poor than amongst the wealthy. Therefore poverty must be remembered as being one of the factors in the case, and so far as it is a factor the Suburbs cannot be improved unless the condition of the residents is improved. Then there is another matter to be borne in mind. The newly constituted municipality has hardly yet had a fair trial. The Suburban area is being divided into tolerably manageable wards, and the constitution of the Suburbs placed on a popular and broad basis. If it is allowed to have a longer term of trial, and if, as the Government of India suggest, power is given to the Government by this Bill to alter the limits of the municipality from time to time, the existence of this power in the Local Government will produce a most wholesome influence on the municipal administration of the Suburbs, and will make the Suburban Municipality strain every nerve to effect improvements, for they will find that necessary to ensure their own existence. If in addition to this they have aid from the Government, and if the Calcutta Corporation augment the income of the municipality by occasional contributions in accordance with an amendment which I shall have the honour to move in its turn, under these favourable conditions the Suburban Municipality may produce the desired effect, slowly though it be, yet surely; and then, as I suggest, if power is vested in the Local Government to alter the limits from time to time, the ultimate remedy, viz. amalgamation, may be resorted to if all this fails, and then without its being open to objection. Then nobody will be able to say that the Suburban Municipality has not had a fair trial, or that the people of the Suburbs have been subjected to taxation without necessity. No one will feel the inequity of the measure, and the people will submit without opposition. Until, however, the Suburban Municipality has had this fair trial, I submit that the forcing of this measure will be attended with hardship, either real or imaginary; and in either case it will give rise to discontent, which ought to be avoided as far as possible.

The Hon. Babu Kali Nath Mitter said: In this matter I am in this position, that I am to a certain extent responsible for the introduction of this measure, because when the Chairman of the Corporation proposed to make certain modifications in the administration of the town so as to aid the Suburban Municipality by extending the water-supply and drainage system, I objected to it on the ground that, while the Suburbs would be benefited, they would not pay the same rates as the town. I therefore recommended that certain parts of the Suburbs be amalgamated with the town so that the measures which the Chairman proposed might be given effect to. That amendment of mine was carried, and that, so far as the Corporation of Calcutta is concerned, is how the matter was disposed of. Therefore I consider myself pledged to support this measure of amalgamation. I was also a member of the Committee which the Government was pleased to appoint to consider this matter, and in that Committee I also gave my assent to this proposal. I did so after the fullest consideration, and I am not prepared now to withdraw from that position. I think it is a deplorable state of things that a person living on one side of a road should not have the same advantages which persons on the other side of the road enjoy; that, although to all intents and purposes the former are members of the town proper, yet as far as sanitary and other measures are concerned, they do not get the same benefit. That is the strongest argument for amalgamation. Then again my hon. friend, the mover of this amendment, forgets that the Government is going to relieve the Corporation of Calcutta from contribution to the Police Fund. That will amount to about 2¾ lakhs of rupees, and this sum will enable the Corporation to raise by loan large sums of money which will certainly bring about a decided improvement in the area to be added to the town. I believe that as far as the Commissioners of the present Corporation are concerned, they will be obliged to devote this sum to the improvement of the Suburbs. Therefore there will be this additional fund at the disposal of the new Corporation should the amalgamation take place. My hon. friend seems to be under the impression that the sanitary condition of the Suburbs will not be improved by the amalgamation. I, on the other hand, hold a totally different opinion. I think that if there be one body mainly responsible for looking after the affairs of the Suburbs and the Town, it will be bound to look into the wants and grievances of every inch of ground entrusted to its care; whereas if you have different bodies they will be guided by their own interests, and not look to the benefit of their neighbours. In illustration of this, I would refer to the question of the water-supply pending between the Suburbs and Calcutta. Although a certain arrangement had been come to, pipes had been laid down, and the Commissioners of Calcutta had done everything for the Suburbs which they had undertaken to do; yet the completion of the scheme, as far as the Suburbs is concerned, is as distant as ever. Therefore it seems to me that the general principle of having one body to administer to the wants of this vast area will be decidedly beneficial. No doubt a very large area is going to be added, but my hon. friend forgets that the area of the Bombay Municipality is 27 square miles or thereabouts, and of the Madras Municipality 21 square miles; why, then, the metropolis of India should be confined to an area of 7 square miles I cannot understand? Of course the question of finance is a very serious one, and ought to be considered in all its bearings The only definite relief which the Government proposes to give in favour of the Corporation will go to a great extent in doing all that is necessary. But a still further sum will be needed. Therefore there is a proposal that the Commissioners should be authorised to raise a duty on petroleum, and it will be unfortunate if that proposal is eliminated from the Act. The object of this amalgamation is to take in the urban portions of the Suburbs. It is very desirable that the urban portions of the Suburbs, which to all intents and purposes are at present little towns, such as Entally, Bhowanipore and Kidderpore, should be brought within the town limits; instead of having all these small towns in different directions, it would certainly be better to have one large town. The death-rate of the Suburbs is appalling, and the town to some extent suffers from it. Of course I know that you cannot go on increasing the area of the town for ever, and there must be a Suburb beyond the line we propose to take. But when you find that small towns are springing up in the Suburbs, areas which should properly be part and parcel of the metropolitan city, they ought to enjoy the same benefits which the town proper enjoys. On these grounds, I am sorry I cannot support the amendment.

The Hon. Dr. Mohendralal Sircar said:—In addition to the reasons advanced by the hon. mover of the amendment, which are entitled to great weight, I oppose the proposed amalgamation on sanitary grounds, the very grounds on which an amalgamation is sought. By amalgamating the Suburbs, or at least the very large portion of the Suburbs contemplated by the Bill, we shall be compelled to extend our underground system of drainage which includes sewerage into this vast area, and I must say that I contemplate with horror such extension and multiplication of our underground sewers. Already the underground sewers were having a most baneful influence on the health of the town Disease generally, and fevers in particular, were becoming more virulent than they ever were before, assuming year after year more of a typhoid or typhus character; and I am afraid that by extending this system to the Suburbs, we shall be gradually converting that vast area into a most prolific source of disease of the typhoid and typhus character. On simple sanitary grounds, therefore, I am obliged to oppose the amalgamation of the Suburbs with the present city. If you can possibly exempt the Suburbs from the extension of the underground system of sewerage, I may have no objection to the amalgamation.

The Hon. Sir Henry Harrison said:—I suppose the Council will expect me to say a few words on this amalgamation scheme which lies at the root of the entire Bill. I admit that the hon. mover of the amendment has adduced many strong and important reasons for his amendments, he has shown many difficulties in the way of amalgamation; but at the same time it seems to me that what he has not done is just what the Council must do, viz., that he has not weighed the reasons for and against amalgamation, and shown to us how the reasons for the amalgamation are either in themselves insufficient or can be met in any way. Fundamentally the reason for the amalgamation is the manifest inferiority of the health of the Suburbs compared with that of the town. It is perfectly true that he referred to that later on in his speech, but it will be desirable if I state it to the Council in a few words. The ordinary death-rate of the Suburbs as compared with that in the town is as 3 to 2. The death-rate in Calcutta itself is very high, but if we deduct from that rate the deaths from ordinary causes not zymotic, we then come to the death-rate in Calcutta from preventible diseases, which is about 14 per mille against a death-rate in the Suburbs of something like 30. That means more than 2 to 1. Something must be done to remedy this; but the moment we approach questions of improvement, such as the extension of the water-supply, the influence of the Salt Lakes, and other conservancy measures either in the Suburbs or in Calcutta, we are met by the difficulty of co-operation or effective control on the part of the Suburbs. The Hon. Babu Kali Nath Mitter has not in any way exaggerated the breakdown of the Suburban Municipality in the matter of the extension of the water-supply. I do not think it possible that the same source of water-supply can be utilized by two bodies whose interests are different; and as regards the Salt Water Lakes it is alleged by the Suburban Commissioners and by some other people who take an interest in sanitary matters, that the health of the Suburbs has been materially damaged by the works carried on there by the Calcutta Corporation in the neighbourhood of their eastern boundary. We naturally have mainly looked to our own interests in the operations which we have carried out. If it is true that the health of a portion of the Suburbs has been damaged by the operations near the Salt Lakes, then, obviously, it is only when they belong to us that their complaints will command our attention. It is extremely important that the Suburbs outside Calcutta in its restricted sense should have a proper system of water-supply and drainage under the control of an efficient Municipal body, and these improvements are far more likely to be effected by an Act of this kind than if they are left to a body like the Suburban Commissioners, whose jurisdiction extends from Chitpore on the north to Garden Reach on the south, with a large intervening area which is included in the town. The hon. mover of the amendment has admitted that the Suburbs stand in need of improvement, but he protests against the sudden improvements which are to be forced upon them under this Act. I wish I could anticipate any probability of sudden improvements. I am afraid it will be a question between gradual improvements if the Act is passed and the entire absence of improvements if the Bill is thrown out. I was moreover disappointed that the hon. member did not show how his gradual improvements are to take place. He speaks of contributions from the Government and from the Town Corporation, and this is precisely what the Bill proposes to do. The Government proposes to remit the police rate, which will amount to some 3 lakhs annually; and the municipality will no doubt contribute in many ways by the assistance and supervision of their officers, who will give part of their time to the work. It can hardly be said that the Suburbs have an efficient Health Officer or Engineer at present The Government will give assistance, but is it not natural that when the Government gives its assistance it should be desirous of giving it to a more organised body than the present one? So that, so far as assistance is concerned, it is precisely what it is now proposed to do. The general conception underlying the Bill is that the Calcutta Corporation should be placed in funds to the extent of 3 lakhs more than they now have at command yearly, and that this amount should be devoted to the improvement of the Suburbs. Also that the Suburban taxation should be raised to the Calcutta limit, on the understanding that the extra taxation shall also go for their benefit: thus on the whole it may be said that 5 lakhs more will be available every year to expend on the Suburban area than at present. Here is some tangible scheme of improvement put before the public. By uniting all these Suburbs under one authority, and having 5 lakhs available more than at present, the Suburbs no doubt can be improved. Can they under any other system, if so, what? As to the objection that the Act would involve the introduction of the underground drainage in the Suburbs, there is nothing in the law to provide for this. It was a matter which would be left to the consideration of the Corporation. If it was not wise, why should not the hon. member raise his potent voice in the Corporation of which he was so distinguished a Member to object to the scheme being extended? A most important question for the new Corporation would be whether the underground drainage should be extended to the entire Suburbs or only to a portion of it, and it was very likely that a portion of the Suburbs would be included within the drainage system; but that was a question to be considered under the Act and not an objection to the Act. The next objection was that the taxation would be doubled, and that this would drive the poor people outside the limits of the new town. That would be an objection which might be held if the limits were very narrow, but the limits we propose are so large that I am inclined to think that these poor fellows will have nowhere to go, consistently with their work in Calcutta, outside those limits. I hope that, so far from harassing these men, they will be less harassed by taxation than before, for special provisions are introduced to keep them and the tax-payers apart. As regards taxation, the objection cuts at the root of all improvement which costs money; without increased taxation where is it to come from? If it comes from the Government it means taxation in some other quarter, and it will be hard to show any reason why the people of other places should be taxed to improve the Suburbs. If the Suburbs are to be improved they must pay for the improvement, as it would be impossible to do it without raising taxation. I think that the argument that the Suburbs will suffer is the least well-founded which can be adduced, because the whole outline of the scheme is the benefit of the Suburbs at the expense of a free gift from the Government. Government is giving up more than 3 lakhs annually, and this sum is to be devoted to the improvement of the Suburbs. So that it really comes to this, that Government is making a present to the Suburbs of some 3 lakhs, to which the condition is attached that it shall be put under a better administration than that which it now has. Therefore I am bound to submit that under the circumstances amalgamation is a necessity, and that the objections against it are more than outweighed by the reasons in favour of it.

The Hon. Dr. Gooroo Das Banerjee said in reply:—The hon. member in charge of the Bill told the Council that I did not very clearly distinguish between what I implied by a sudden and forced change such as the Bill involves, and my concession that the Suburbs urgently needed improvement. I admit that the urban portions of the Suburbs require improvement, but the improvement which is required is only of a sanitary nature. Amalgamation with the town means that the town rates should be levied, as, for instance, the lighting rate, which is by no means essential to the sanitary improvement of the Suburbs. Here is a distinction. The people are poor, still they ought to pay for the sanitary improvements urgently required, but they need not pay the lighting rate as an urgent necessity; as regards lighting, they can afford to wait for a few years. There are other matters of detail in taxation which may be adduced in illustration, and if the amalgamation scheme did not involve an uniform rate of taxation all round, but allowed of varying rates of taxation according to the wants of particular localities, I would not object to the amalgamation scheme. Another point to which I have to refer is the very comprehensive nature of the scheme. It was remarked that the inclusion of the whole of the Suburbs within the town will make it impossible for the poor residents of the Suburbs to go away from the town area. That makes the hardship all the greater: you tax the poor and make it impossible for them to find a place where they can go to escape the taxation. If it were really so, the hardship would be greater, but in truth the hon. member in charge of the Bill is not so hard as that, as he leaves ample space for the poor to go to and to create crowded and filthy bustees in. I refer to what is known as the island area, the area between the Circular Canal and the new canal, which is left out of the scheme. That is by no means a very convenient locality for purposes of habitation, but the poor will go to it and create crowded and filthy bustees there. It was remarked that whilst I pointed out objections to the scheme, I did not show how the necessary improvement would be effected, and it was very forcibly argued that the water-supply and other matters requiring co-operation between the municipal administrations of the two areas are measures which cannot be conveniently carried out unless the whole area is placed under one administration. The difficulty, however, is not insurmountable. First in reference to the water-supply; it is true that the measure has not been carried out as quickly as it ought to have been. It took a long time and has not been completed yet, but the reason was because there was the amalgamation scheme before the Council. If the Suburban Municipality is allowed to continue, and the amalgamation scheme is given up, the water-supply will now be carried out without any further discussion or delay. As for differences arising in future, they might be provided for by a short Act providing for the appointment of statutory arbitrators who would decide on matters of difference between the Calcutta and Suburban Municipalities. If such a measure were passed, in future matters which required co-operation between the two municipalities would be arranged without any great difficulty.

The Motion being put, the Council divided:—

Ayes 2.	Noes 10.
The Hon. Dr Gooroo Das Banerjee.	The Hon. C. H. Moore.
The Hon the Advocate-General.	The Hon. Babu Kali Nath Mitter.
	The Hon. G. Irving.
	The Hon. Moulvie Abdul Jubbar.
	The Hon. Sir Alfred Croft.
	The Hon. Sir Henry Harrison.
	The Hon. T. T. Allen.
	The Hon. C. P. L. Macaulay.
	The Hon. H. J. Reynolds
	His Honor the President.

So the motion was negatived.

The Hon. Dr. Gooroo Das Banerjee moved that the following definition be substituted for the definition of "Calcutta" in section 3 of the Bill; and that in lines 3 and 6 respectively of section 15 for the word "twenty-five" the word "twenty-one" be substituted:—

"'Calcutta' includes the area enclosed by the following limits, namely—the southern and western bank of the Circular Canal from the river Hooghly to the northern side of the Eastern Bengal State Railway bridge, thence along the northern and western edge of the said Railway line, and of the Railway line joining it with the South-Eastern State Railway line, thence along the western edge of the South-Eastern Railway line to the point where it meets the Tiljullah road, thence along the southern edge of the said road to its junction with the Ballygunge Circular Road, thence along the southern and western edge of the Ballygunge Circular Road to the point where it meets the Puddopoker road, thence along the southern and western edge of the Puddopoker road and along the southern edge of the Pakoortollah and Chaoolputty road to the point where the last-named road meets Tolly's Nullah, thence along the eastern and northern banks of Tolly's Nullah to the river Hooghly, and thence along the left bank of the Hooghly to its junction with the Circular Canal, or by such other limits as the Local Government may, from time to time, fix according to the provisions of this Act; but not—

(a) Fort William,
(b) The Esplanade,
(c) That part of Hastings north of the south edge of Clyde Row which has hitherto been excluded from the Municipality of the Town of Calcutta."

The meaning of this amendment in other words is this, that with the limited area indicated above, the number of wards should be 21 instead of 25. The boundaries of the new town ought to be defined in one of the definition clauses of the Bill, as in the above amendment. Before proceeding to explain my objection against the boundary given in the Bill, and my reasons for proposing the boundaries which I suggest, I ought to point out to the Council what the proposed boundary includes, and what the boundary indicated in my amendment is. [The hon. member here exemplified his amendment by reference to a map.] At a glance the Council will see that the boundary proposed in the Bill is by no means a convenient practical boundary. It has a rugged edge all along the Suburbs, whereas the boundary I propose adopts the Circular Canal in the north and its counterpart, Tolly's Nullah, in the south, and the intermediate boundary is much less rugged and is almost straight. If the amalgamation scheme is to be carried out at all, it is only on the ground of the sanitary improvement of the Suburbs, and because the more efficient Municipal administration of the Suburbs requires it. One can understand that there is reason in insisting on incorporating the urban portions of the Suburbs, those portions which are more thickly populated than the rest and which require more efficient arrangements for conservancy, and more efficient Municipal administration in other matters, than the remaining portions. Therefore, as far as the reason of the thing goes, it only requires the incorporation of the really urban portions of the Suburbs. Does the proposed boundary in the Bill include that only, or does it not include a great deal more? I do not wish to be hypercritical, but taking a broad view, I say that it includes the greater portion of the Suburbs which we must agree to accept, but there are other large portions which are not at all of an urban character. In the south and south-west the proposed boundary includes large areas scarcely of an urban character; areas in which there is hardly a pucca building, except a few garden-houses here and there, very sparsely distributed, and portions which do not by any means require any complicated system of Municipal conservancy. The proposed boundary then is not necessary for the purpose. But the matter does not stop here. It is not only unnecessary, but it is likely to prove injurious to the efficiency of the Municipal administration of the Town. When you take in the really urban tracts, you relieve the Suburbs of some burdens which the Suburban Municipality is not well able to discharge, and though you throw additional burdens on the town, you give it a good return in the shape of rates and taxes. But by taking in the outlying tracts you add to the burdens of the town, without giving any adequate compensation from such portions in the shape of additional taxation. Further, the proposed scheme of amalgamation will give rise to hardship, injustice and discontent, for whilst you tax the people uniformly all round, you cannot conveniently do for the larger area what you may do for the smaller. If you take only the limited area which I suggest, there will not be that difficulty in giving the additional area the municipal advantages which the present town enjoys that there will be if you take in the whole of the area proposed by the Bill.

I shall follow the suggestion thrown out by the hon. member in charge of the Bill, and weigh the relative conveniences and inconveniences of the two proposals in order to strike a balance. I know it may be said on the other side that my scheme leaves out Watgunge and a portion of Kidderpore in the south, which are of an urban character and are thickly populated; that it also leaves out the docks which require more careful and more efficient municipal administration. It is true that my scheme leaves out these two parts, and errs by taking in too little; but the other scheme errs by taking in too much, and the question is on which side is the balance of convenience? I venture to think that there is a natural presumption in favour of the existing order of things. It has not been shown that Watgunge is in the same bad condition as Entally, and the portion of the suburbs between the Circular Road and the Circular Canal, and the burden will be on those who say that it is necessary to take in these additional areas also by reason of their dense population. Then, again, there is an obvious objection that this measure takes in areas which evidently ought not to be taken in. I have also the advantage of having a practically more convenient boundary as compared with the boundary proposed by the Bill. On the whole, therefore, the balance of convenience is on my side. And then it should be borne in mind, as my amendment implies, that power is left in the hands of the Local Government to alter the boundaries from time to time If the docks after their completion should happen to require more efficient municipal administration than the Suburbs can provide, there will be no difficulty in the Local Government ordering the limits of the town to be altered so as to include the docks, and at the same time not to include the large non-urban area now proposed to be taken. There is some difference between fixing the boundaries by Statute and fixing them by order of the Executive Government. The Executive Government may, through the agency of any municipality or other convenient agency, have roads laid out which may serve as a boundary. For the present that has not been done, and I think I am right in saying that a good portion of the unnecessary area that has to be taken up is being taken up because in no other way can a convenient boundary be obtained which would be consistent with the inclusion of Kidderpore and the docks. The Executive Government will be under no similar difficulty. It may have a road laid out, so that the Kidderpore Docks may be brought within the limits of the town without including any non urban tracts. I submit that all that can be desired under the present state of things may be done if my amendment is accepted.

The HON. SIR HENRY HARRISON said:—I understand that the question we are now discussing is not what the limits of Calcutta should be, because it is possible that the Select Committee or some member of the Council may yet see their way to move a modification in the boundaries now shown in the Bill which it may be right to adopt with advantage. What is now proposed is a most radical modification which would entail the reduction of the wards from 25 to 21. The effect of rejecting this amendment will be to reject the hon. member's boundary, and leave the whole question of the boundary to be settled hereafter. It is very inconvenient that the Council has not before it a proper map which every member may refer to, but the notice of amendments has only been circulated within the last 24 hours. I think, therefore, I am right in assuming that if the amendment be rejected, the question of boundaries will still remain open to be finally settled when we proceed to Part I of the Bill.

[HIS HONOUR THE PRESIDENT remarked that the rejection of the amendment before the Council would certainly not prevent the Select Committee from altering the definition of "Calcutta," or any member of the Council from proposing a new amendment when the question comes before the Council.]

The HON. SIR HENRY HARRISON continued:—On that understanding I must certainly ask the Council not to accept the amendment now before it. It would mutilate the amalgamation scheme. By the line which the hon. member has drawn, Calcutta will not extend to the south of Tolly's Nullah; consequently Alipore, Kidderpore, Watgunge, and the whole of Garden Reach will be omitted. By the hon. member's scheme we would go to the head of the docks and there stop. Such a policy would be suicidal. What is most necessary is that the Municipality should have the opportunity of watching over and regulating the formation of those blocks of houses which must inevitably spring up around the docks. As far as the Port Commissioners are concerned, there can be no doubt that everything will be done with proper attention to building regulations and their surroundings, but outside that limit there is a certainty that houses will spring up in a miscellaneous way, and it will be found impossible hereafter to arrange and group them in proper order of streets. The building regulations we are now proposing will prevent in the future the chaotic manner in which houses are now springing up in the town, and these regulations should in the localities surrounding the docks be enforced ab initio. It would, therefore, be a matter of the greatest inconvenience if the docks are not now brought within the limits of the town. The difficulty of fixing the best boundary lies in this, that it is impossible to fix a good line, consistently with the inclusion of the docks, which does not take in some agricultural tracts. If any better line can be found, I shall be very glad to accept it; but allowing for the connection of the docks with Sealdah, the Select Committee as at present advised cannot find any better line. The opening of the docks will certainly bring a considerable population to their neighbourhood. When I was in Bombay three years ago, I particularly enquired how the difficulty of dealing with rural lands was got over, and I was informed that there was no difficulty. The lands being assessed at a low rate paid but little, and the advantages in the way of roads and lighting were found sufficient by way of return for the taxation levied on it. In conclusion, I would say that to accept this amendment, by which the docks, with Kidderpore and Watgunge, would be outside the town, would be altogether erroneous.

The Hon. Dr. Mohendralal Sircar said:—I cannot understand why the Kidderpore Docks should be brought within the Municipality of Calcutta. Suppose that after a time another system of docks may be necessary and actually established outside the new limits, should we come to the Legislature and ask that they be declared to be within the limits of the town? Why should not the municipal administration of these docks be confided to some other municipality than that of Calcutta? Why so heavily burden the Calcutta Corporation with it? I support the amendment so far as the definition of the limits of Calcutta goes, but I oppose the reduction of the number of wards.

The Motion being put, the Council divided:—

Ayes 2.	Noes 11.
The Hon Dr Gooroo Das Banerjee.	The Hon. C H. Moore.
The Hon. the Advocate-General.	The Hon. Dr. Mohendralal Sircar.
	The Hon. Babu Kali Nath Mitter.
	The Hon. G Irving.
	The Hon. Moulvie Abdul Jubbar.
	The Hon. Sir Alfred Croft
	The Hon. Sir Henry Harrison.
	The Hon. T T. Allen.
	The Hon. C. P. L. Macaulay.
	The Hon. H J. Reynolds.
	His Honor the President.

So the motion was negatived.

The Hon. Babu Kali Nath Mitter said:—My amendments Nos. 6, 11, and 16 are so intimately connected with each other that I shall move them together. They are as follows:—

(6). That in lines 3 and 10 respectively of section 4, for the word "seventy-five" the word "eighty" be substituted.

(11). That in line 1 of section 7, for the word "seventy-five" the word "eighty" be substituted; and that for the word "fifteen" the word "twenty" be substituted.

(16). That in line 1 of section 8 the words "of" and "fifty" respectively be omitted, and that after the word "remaining" the word "sixty" be inserted.

For the purposes of the present discussion, I shall assume that the boundaries proposed in the Bill are the boundaries, or something substantially the same. That being so, the present town will have an area of 12 square miles added to it. The present Corporation consists of 72 members, of whom

24 are nominated and 48 are elected. The Bill under which the present constitution was conferred was introduced in 1875, and took fully two years to pass into law. Then the question of numbers was very fully discussed, and as a compromise 72 Commissioners were ultimately agreed to. There was a proposal to fix the number at 60, but that proposal was negatived. At present the town is divided into 18 wards, in some of which 3 Commissioners are elected and in others only 2. If the number of Commissioners stands at 75 as proposed in the Bill, the inevitable result of dividing it into 25 wards, unless my qualifying amendment is adopted, will be that each ward will return 2 members. On this subject we have had several representations submitted to the Council. There are representations in favour of my amendment, and there are also representations against it. The British Indian Association urged that the number should be fixed at 80. They say: "Bearing in mind that the Suburbs will contribute 7 new wards to the town and that two representatives for each of them would give an addition of 14 to the present number of 72, the total should be 86, but as slight reductions in some of the smaller wards will not be objectionable, the Committee would fix the total at 80." That is the figure I propose should be fixed. The Indian Association also fixes the number at 80. Again, the Corporation of Calcutta in discussing this Bill said: "The Commissioners have recommended 90 as the number." As far as I have heard the hon. member in charge of the Bill on the former occasions on which he addressed the Council, I understand he will have no objection to 80 Commissioners, because they would act as an appellate body before whom all questions of importance will be discussed. So that on the question of convenience or inconvenience, I do not think there will be any great inconvenience if the number is increased from 75 to 80. It would only be a difference of 5, but it will have great importance attached to it. Then, as I have said, there are representations against the number of 80. The Chamber of Commerce say: "But the Committee believe that experience has shown the present to be an unwieldy number of representatives, and they would support the suggestion that the number of Commissioners should be reduced rather than increased." There was also a representation from the Calcutta Trades' Association, and in the 7th and 8th paragraphs of their letter they discuss this question. They say: "In thus advocating the due recognition of the claims of the European community, the Committee of the Association are actuated by a desire to secure for the future municipality of Calcutta the services of a number of men eminently qualified to take part in the municipal government of the city. It has hitherto been found impossible, for reasons which are only too well known, to induce a sufficient number of such men to come forward." What those obvious reasons are perhaps we shall be favoured by the hon. member on my left (Mr. Irving), but the reasons are not obvious to me. On the contrary, I shall be able to show that there has been little or no interest taken by this body in returning members to the Corporation. They go on to say: "But it now behoves the Government, in view of the strong conviction which exists in the minds of the European community that their interests should be effectually safeguarded, to enact a municipal law that shall make it possible to introduce into the personnel of the new Corporation a fair proportion of European Commissioners. The numerical strength of the Corporation, as laid down by the Bill, is the next point to which the Committee desire to invite the attention of His Honour the Lieutenant-Governor. They are still of opinion that a body of seventy-five Commissioners will be unnecessarily large, and would therefore suggest that the number be limited to sixty." I would also point to the letter of the Secretary to the European and Anglo-Indian Defence Association. They complain of there being no adequate European representation, and they give a schedule showing how they would like to see the Commissioners elected. They say that wards 17 and 18, with a population of 11,000, should be amalgamated and should return 2 Commissioners, and that wards 1 and 3 with a population of 51,000 should have 2 members: that wards 15 and 16, with a population of 16,000 should have two members, and that wards 2 and 5 with a population of 62,000 should have only one member. If this is adequate representation, the number of Commissioners can no doubt be reduced, but to my mind it is anything but adequate representation. My proposal is that, with the number of 80, the nominated Commissioners be fixed at 20, and that 60 be distributed amongst the wards. Wards Nos. 1 and 3, 5, 7 and 9, 12, 13, 15, 16 and 17 should return three Commissioners each, and the remaining wards two Commissioners each. There would be this advantage that wards 12, 13, 15, 16 and 17 having three Commissioners each would each be able to return one member of other nationalities, and you would thus have five more members of other nationalities elected, and as the Government instead of nominating 15 Commissioners would nominate 20, there might be five more Commissioners who would be Europeans, and therefore these ten Commissioners would not be either Hindus or Mahomedans. That it would be so there could be no doubt. At the last election in ward No. 12 the last member elected was Mr. Hallett, and if instead of two Commissioners in this ward we had 3, one European Commissioner would certainly come in. The last member elected in ward No. 13 was Dr. Chambers, and again in ward No. 15 Mr. Chick had come in; in ward No. 16 Mr. Doucett, and in ward No. 17 Mr. Gore Brown. So that in these five wards you would be able to elect one of the other nationalities to make up the number. The objection which might possibly be taken is that, in some of the wards, such as 1, 3, 5, 7 and 9, Hindus would come in. But in the other wards 12, 13, 15, 16 and 17 other nationalities would come in So that my proposal does not in the least affect the interests of the other nationalities The number of nominated Commissioners should be fixed at 20, that is to say, one-fourth of the whole number. I know that the hon. member in charge of the Bill is very much opposed to this reduction. He thinks that the interests of minorities would be very much affected if there was a reduction of five in the number of nominated Commissioners. On the contrary, I shall show that it will do nothing of the sort. If the Council would look at the returns of the four elections which have taken place, the fact will be as clear as possible. When the elective system was first introduced, the number of Hindu voters was 4,556, the number of Mahomedan voters 289, and of other nationalities 199. That showed that the other nationalities took no interest in the elections. The Hindus in the first election returned 41 members, the Mahomedans returned 3 members, and the other nationalities 4. In the next election in 1879 the Hindu voters numbered 6,025, and yet the number of Hindu Commissioners returned was reduced to 39, the Mahomedan voters increased to 604, and kept the same number of Commissioners, the other nationalities advanced to 377, and returned 6 members. Did that show that the other nationalities took any interest in the elections of 1879? Then in 1882 the Hindu voters numbered 9,194, but returned only 32 members; the Mahomedan voters were 850 and returned 5 members; other nationalities had 1,363 voters, and returned 11 members. In 1885 the Hindu voters were 7,827, and returned 27 members; the Mahomedans were 1,064, and elected eight Commissioners, and the other nationalities mustered 1,105, and returned 13 Commissioners. Does not this show conclusively that in proportion as particular communities took interest in the elections they were able to return a larger number of Commissioners? I do not think that 1,105 voters is anything like the largest number which these other nationalities can muster. I believe that number could be multiplied manyfold. It seems to me that the system of elections should not be condemned by those who do not try to work it out properly. Until they really take an interest in the elections, they cannot expect to be elected. At the last elections, to the credit of the Health Society it should be said that they were able to persuade 1,100 persons to register themselves as voters, and the inevitable result was that the number of Commissioners of other nationalities rose from 11 to 13. In the Bill which was introduced in 1876, the Legislature intended to fix the number and proportion of Commissioners in the following way. They intended the number of Hindu Commissioners to be 27, of Mahomedan Commissioners 9, and of other nationalities 18, and 18 were to be appointed by the Government, of whom Hindus and Mahomedans should be 9, and 9 should be appointed from other nationalities. That was how the Select Committee of the Council settled the Bill in the first instance. It was pointed out then that that would introduce a very individuous distinction in the law and was not necessary. Sir Stuart Hogg was violently opposed to the introduction of the elective system, and it is an unfortunate coincidence that Sir Henry Harrison is also violently opposed to the expansion of that system. I hope the majority of the Council will oppose Sir Henry Harrison on this occasion, as they opposed Sir Stuart Hogg then, and I have no doubt that a few years experience will show that Sir Henry Harrison has made a mistake.

Agitation has been raised from time to time against the administration of the town by the Corporation. It was said that the wants of the town were not attended to, to the extent that they should be. It was further stated that the Hindu Commissioners who took a paramount interest in the affairs of the municipality had proved themselves obstructive, and that but for them many other things might have been done. This was a matter on which I feel some delicacy in speaking; but if the reports of the Army Sanitary Commissioners for different years are looked at, I should not have the least hesitation in saying that persons capable of understanding these matters will give their testimony in favour of the Corporation, and not against it. If an Englishman who had been through the northern portion of the town 12 years ago saw its condition now, he would be amazed at the improvement which has since been made. There are in fact parts of it which it would be impossible for him to recognise now. I myself had occasion lately to see a friend living at a place near Suken's Street. When I first went to the place a few years ago, there were large areas there without any buildings, except here and there some nuts. But to my surprise when I, the other day, entered the lane, I found buildings on both sides of it, and experienced the greatest difficulty in recognizing my friend's dwelling. So that it is not too much to say that the affairs of the Corporation have on the whole been satisfactorily managed by the present Corporation. Testimony has been borne to this fact by the British Indian Association, and I submit that the testimony of the persons representing that Association goes a great way; they are persons who live in the northern portion of the town, and are therefore able to speak from their own experience. If the verdict on the administration of the past ten years shows that the affairs of the Corporation have been successfully managed, I say that it is only right and proper that the further extension of the elective system should be conceded, so that it might be looked upon as a mark of confidence in the Commissioners who have administered the affairs of the town. If Your Honour's predecessor, Sir Richard Temple, notwithstanding the strenuous opposition then raised by the hon. mover of the Bill, was prepared to reduce the proportion of nominated to elected Commissioners to one-fourth, it is not too much to expect Your Honour now to do so. Sir Richard Temple then said :—

"There is one point I wish to mention and to leave the decision entirely in the hands of the Council. It has been impressed upon me by the second of the two deputations which came to see me that it would give great satisfaction if, in the elective sections of the Bill, the proportion of Municipal Commissioners to be appointed by the Government should be reduced from one-third to one-fourth. I have just received a letter from the Chairman of the Indian League, which presses upon me the same view as that which was urged by the very large deputation to which I have referred. That deputation comprised many gentlemen of rank, wealth and station, besides the members of the Indian League, and they certainly urged the point very much upon my attention I understand that they attach very great importance to it. I myself do not see it in the same light. It does not very much matter whether the proportion of nominated Commissioners is one-third or one-fourth, as far as the Government is concerned; it is not a point on which the Government is particularly interested. Certainly the Government has no desire to obtain the power of appointing members who would be, as it were, Government nominees; that is not the object with which the section has been introduced. The object of the Council in introducing that section is this, that in the event of the elections not sufficiently representing certain sections of the community, particularly the Mahomedan section of the community and the European section, the Government should have the power of redressing the balance. It was for the purpose of this redressing of the balance that the proportion of one-third was taken. I am myself so far sanguine that the elections will on the whole nearly represent the different sections of the community, that I am quite willing to reduce the proportion from one-third to one-fourth, if that shall be the pleasure of the Council."

On that occasion the late Hon. Kristodas Pal and the hon. member opposite (Mr. Reynolds) voted for the proportion of one-fourth, but the majority of the Council was against it. I submit that it is wise now to make the extension which was then denied. In bearing testimony to what has been done, Sir Henry Harrison on one occasion spoke of the good work done by the elected Commissioners. The point, however, in which he considered they had failed was this, that in large questions of improvement they had not come up to the point he had expected. No doubt my hon. friend, from his position in the Corporation, was able to give his views in this matter with great confidence; but I have also been in the Corporation since the elective system was introduced, and my experience on this point is at variance with that of my hon. colleague. I think all large questions of importance have been passed as much with the co-operation of the elected Commissioners as with the co-operation of the other members. I can only recall to my mind three instances where, as far as I am concerned, I believe the majority went wrong. But with these exceptions, I do not remember a single instance in which I had reason to regret what had been done. It has been my privilege to be very often in opposition to the Chairman of the Corporation, and it has been my satisfaction in many cases to find my opposition successful; but it was only with reference to three matters that I have regretted the vote of the majority. Of course it is quite possible to conceive there were occasions in which there might have been difference of opinion, but there are many questions in which there should be no difference of opinion, and on such occasions difference of opinion is to be regretted. It is said that a great deal of time is wasted. There is no use in mincing matters, and if you will pause to consider what that means, you will come to the conclusion that it means absolutely nothing. The Town Council meets almost every Saturday; one-and-a-half or at most three hours are taken up; meetings of the general body of Commissioners are on an average twice a month, and they occupy between two and four hours each time. If my hon. friend (Mr. Irving), who represents the Calcutta Trades' Association, will say that their constituents are not prepared to make these sacrifices, my answer then is that they ought not to have anything to do with the Corporation. I do object that members of the Corporation should, just at the time of voting, attend meetings only when personal questions or questions of great moment are to be considered, without giving any thought to the consideration of the subject, and out-vote those who have taken great interest in the matter. That is a danger to which the Corporation should not remain open. I believe I speak the sentiments of my Hindu and Mahomedan colleagues in the Corporation when I say that they would be well pleased to have European Commissioners who take an interest in the affairs of the municipality. It is a fact well known that European gentlemen who take interest in the affairs of the Corporation are listened to with the greatest respect. Therefore it is idle to say that the Hindu or Mahomedan Commissioners would object to have European gentlemen as their colleagues. On the contrary, they are welcomed if only they take interest in the work. On one occasion Sir Henry Harrison, speaking of the elected Commissioners, was pleased to say that they generally acted in a spirit of parochialism. I very much regret that he has said so. I think his largest supporters have been amongst the elected Commissioners, and most of the important measures have been carried through with their aid. And I believe that the elected Commissioners are not fairly open to that charge. It is strange, however, that while he has said so much of the elected Commissioners, he had nothing to say as to what the nominated Commissioners have done. It is not simply that it is necessary that the Government should retain certain powers in its hands, but the object in retaining such powers should be to enable it to secure an adequate representation. It is not too much to ask you sufficiently to trust the people of Calcutta to elect those who will be able to be of service to them. And remembering that by the present Bill it will be for the Chairman to prepare a list of voters, the difficulty at present experienced of European gentlemen not registering themselves for the purpose of voters will disappear, and consequently they will be able to return a larger number of the Commissioners than as heretofore.

I have already trespassed very long on the time of Your Honour and that of my hon. colleagues; but as this matter is one of very great importance, I hope I shall be excused.

The further consideration of these amendments was postponed.

The Council was adjourned to Saturday, the 4th February, 1888, at 2-30 P.M.

Letter from the Trustees of the Indian Museum, No. 286, dated the 19th December 1887.
Letter from the Government of India, Revenue and Agricultural Department, No. 915M & E—63-12, dated the 12th December 1887, with enclosures.

By the Resolution of the 2nd May 1885, cited in the preamble, an Executive Committee, consisting of the gentlemen named in the margin, was appointed, and funds were placed at its disposal for the purpose of making arrangements for the Bengal Court in the Colonial and Indian Exhibition of London, 1886. In view of the character and magnitude of the duties connected with these arrangements, it was considered that, although falling within the recognized functions of the Director of the recently established Agricultural Department, they might with advantage be entrusted to a Committee rather than to a single officer, and the Committee as at first constituted was, in the following July, enlarged by the addition of certain members, with the object of enlisting the co-operation of the mercantile community, and thus ensuring an adequate representation of important commodities and manufactures. The Committee's report, reviewed in the Resolution of the 15th July 1886, had been submitted in the preceding April after the collection of exhibits and their transmission to London, and on the separation of the members, its place was taken by the Secretary of the Bengal Economic and Art Museum. On the 1st April 1887, however, that Museum was made over to the custody and control of the Trustees of the Indian Museum, and the post of its Secretary having been abolished, the work in connection with the Indo-Colonial Exhibition was transferred to the newly appointed Assistant Curator, and has since remained in the hands of that official under the control of the Trustees. In their letter of the 9th December 1887, referred to above, the Trustees represented that the work involved a considerable amount of correspondence, and they suggested that, now that the exhibits returned from England had been disposed of, they should be relieved by Government of all that remained to be done.

Hon'ble Colonel S. T. Trevor.

Hon'ble A. P. MacDonnell.

Mr. M. H. Jackson, Member and Secretary.

2. The accounts of the London Exhibition, so far as they relate to Bengal, have been received from the Government of India, and a sum of Rs. 15,121-5-11, representing the price of the exhibits sold, has been placed at the disposal of this Government for distribution to the owners of such exhibits, including the Local Government. The duties which now remain to be performed are as follow:—

(1) the final adjustment of the accounts of the expenditure incurred by the Bengal Executive Committee in connection with the London Exhibition;
(2) the disposal of certain returned exhibits;
(3) the distribution of the money recovered by the sale of exhibits; and
(4) the settlement of any claims that may be made for compensation for lost or damaged exhibits.

In these details are involved which cannot be satisfactorily dealt with by Government, and the Lieutenant-Governor is of opinion that they may best be entrusted to a Committee, which, he is accordingly pleased to direct, shall consist of the following gentlemen:—

Mr. M. Finucane, President.
„ A. Pedler.
„ M. H. Jackson.
„ T. N Mukharji, Secretary.

The records and proceedings of the Bengal Executive Committee, which are now in the office of the Economic Section of the Indian Museum, will be placed at the disposal of the Committee thus appointed; and to it will be transferred all correspondence on the subject pending before Government, together with the sum of Rs. 15,121-5-11 received from the Government of India for distribution. It is requested that immediate steps will be taken in the matter.

ORDER—Ordered that this Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette, and that copies of it be sent to all members of the Committee appointed, to all Commissioners of Divisions, and to the Trustees of the Indian Museum.

The District Board of Mozufferpore have ordered the collection of materials and the preparation of the necessary plans and estimates.

2. In reply, I am directed to state that the Lieutenant-Governor is pleased to accept the offer on behalf of the District Board of Mozufferpore. * Means for 6 days.

Explanation.—Summary.—The normal means of air pressure and temperature are the arithmetical average or means of the reading during the same period for the last ten years. The humidity of the atmosphere is expressed as percentage, saturated air being represented by 100. A clear sky is denoted by 0 and an overcast sky by 10. The number of rainy days are the numerical means or average of the rainfall in that district determined from the returns sent in by the sub-divisional station for the period in question during the past 12 years. The rainfall of each station in the district sending in returns divided by the number of stations. A rainy day is one on which at least hundredth of an inch fell.

for the week ending Friday, the 3rd of February 1888

CALCUTTA, the 7th February 1888.

SUMMARY OF THE RAINFALL AND METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 3RD OF FEBRUARY 1888.

THE meteorology of the week ending the 27th of January had been important from the fact that a well defined barometric depression had marched in a south-easterly direction across the whole of India. It was first noticed near Quetta on the 23th, and on the 27th it had almost reached Gopalpore on the north Madras Coast. The storm had brought disturbed weather over the whole of Northern India, and also in Bengal. At the plains stations moderate to heavy rain had fallen, while along the Himalayas snow fell for several days in succession, and at some stations the falls were reported to be very heavy. At the close of this week, therefore, weather conditions over Bengal were decidedly disturbed; the skies were heavily clouded over a large part of the province, rain had been fairly general, humidity was high, the day temperatures were low, though minimum temperatures were nearly normal, and a light irregular wind current prevailed over the whole province. On the 28th, or the first day of the present week, the barometric depression above referred to had passed into the Bay of Bengal, and on the 29th it was approaching the east coast of the Bay, and its centre was not far from Akyab, while on the 30th it had apparently passed inland into Upper Burma, or had perhaps broken up, and it ceased to exert any further influence on the meteorology of India. With the continued south-easterly movement of the depression, conditions rapidly changed in Bengal; on the 28th rain fell pretty generally in East Bengal and at the stations in and near the hills in North Bengal, while a few showers also fell in Orissa, but after this date skies cleared rapidly, temperature and humidity decreased, and pressure rose very generally, while a strong and very cold northerly wind current flowed over Bengal, the wind current being of a particularly low temperature, owing apparently to the cooling effect of the accumulation of snow on the hills and to the rainfall over Upper India. In fact during the greater part of the week under review the cold weather conditions in Bengal have been present in an exceptionally pronounced form, and temperature has been particularly low, though towards its close it commenced to rise rapidly.

Pressure.—The mean pressure for the week has been largely above the normal in all districts, and taking into consideration only those stations which have submitted observations for a series of years, and which therefore yield reliable averages, the average pressure over the whole province has been 0·072 inch in excess of the normal for the week. The northern districts of the province continue to show the same fact of relatively high pressure when compared with the remainder of the province and, thus at Purneah the excess pressure has been 0·1 inch and at Durbhunga it has been 0·098 inch.

Temperature.—At the commencement of the week temperature fell with great rapidity and became exceptionally low, and at some stations during the first four days there was a fall in the minimum temperature of from 10° to 15°. Over the whole province for the week temperature has been 3·8° in defect of the normal, though the defect has been most pronounced in South-West Bengal, North Behar and Chutia Nagpur, where it has amounted to nearly 5°.

The day temperatures have been exceptionally low over the whole province during the week, and at some stations, such as Purneah, the maximum temperatures have been nearly 10° below the normal. The distribution of the temperature during the week is best seen from the figures in the following table, where the average maximum, minimum and mean temperatures for the week at nine typical stations in different districts of the province are given and compared with normal values for the same period. It will be seen that the average of the day or maximum temperatures at these stations has been 6·8° below the normal, while the night temperatures have been only 2·9° below it:—

Rainfall—Has been confined practically to East Bengal and Orissa and to the hill districts of North Bengal. East Bengal has received an average fall of about two-thirds of an inch, and Orissa about a fifth of an inch, but the falls elsewhere only average a few hundredths of an inch. The heaviest rainfalls reported were 5·14 inches at Cox's Bazar on the 28th, and nearly two inches at Kutubdea and Ruma on the same day. The Mymensingh district, on the other hand, received no rain.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Friday, the 3rd of February 1888:—

The results of observations at the Alipore Observatory are not rigorously comparable with the registers of past years (at the Park-street Observatory). The barometer is about 3 feet higher at Alipore, and, other things being equal, reads therefore ·003 lower. The diurnal range of temperature is also greater at Alipore, and the mean temperature apparently about 2·5° lower; and, finally, the thermometer which has furnished the record of temperature at the Surveyor-General's Office during the last 20 years and upwards is found to read 0·6 higher than the Kew standard thermometer, which is the standard of reference at the present Observatory.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

A special census of the Europeans in the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken, as the census of this section of the community, taken in February 1881, was not reliable owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The number of the rat remains as before, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table, except "Ages," the ratios under which have been omitted, inasmuch as the census of the Europeans above alluded to cannot be employed as a basis of calculation owing to the results of the census under this head not having been recorded under the authorised form of age classification.

CALCUTTA AND SUBURBAN MUNICIPALITIES AMALGAMATION BILL.

THE HON. SIR HENRY HARRISON moved that the clauses of Chapter II, Part I, of the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the municipal affairs of the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta be further considered for settlement in the form recommended by the Select Committee.

The motion was put to the vote and carried.

HIS HONOUR THE PRESIDENT said—On Saturday last we left off at the end of the speech of the Hon. Babu Kali Nath Mitter on the proposal that the number of the Commissioners be increased to 80. The first motion in to-day's list of business is that of the Hon. Dr. Mohendralal Sircar with reference to the boundaries. I have been in communication with the hon. gentleman, and he has informed me that he is willing to withdraw that motion. I am much obliged to him for having done so, as it will be inconvenient to discuss that question now, and he will have the opportunity at a future stage of the Bill to propose any alteration he desires in the boundaries. Besides the amendment now before the Council, there are other amendments on section 4 in the name of the Hon. Mr. Irving and the Hon. Moulvie Abdul Jubbar. I will call upon the Hon. Mr. Irving to move the amendment No. (2) which stands in his name.

THE HON. MR. IRVING said:—In moving the amendments on sections 4, 7, and 8 which stand in my name, I will briefly refer to them in their order.

The object of the amendment on section 4 is to reduce the number of Commissioners from 75 to 60. It is generally felt, I believe, that a Municipal Commission of 75 members is much too large to be effective and manageable, and that a smaller and more compact body would be better for all practical purposes. The Commissioner of this division, in his letter of the 2nd instant, remarks on sections 7 and 8: "I think the number of Commissioners may very well be reduced from 75 to 40. The object of a Municipal Corporation is work, not debate; and I think that 40 members will make a more practical working body than 75." In large towns in England a smaller number of representatives than that proposed for Calcutta is the rule. Liverpool has one to every 10,000, Manchester one to every 11,500, and Glasgow one to every 15,500 of the population; while in Bombay, taking the population at 800,000, they have one to every 11,111; whereas, taking the population of Calcutta at 582,000, 60 Commissioners would give one Commissioner for every 9,700 of the inhabitants. The proposed reduction in the number of Commissioners would tend in some measure to limit the long and fruitless discussions for which fault has been frequently, and I think justly, found with the present Commissioners, and would therefore economize time, accelerate business, and enable busy men to take a fair share in the government of the city.

Similarly, in moving that the words '60 and 20' in section 7 be substituted for '75 and 15,' I beg very briefly to state that the arguments and position as regards substituting '60 for 75' are the same as those urged in respect to section 4. The proposal to give the Government 20 instead of 15 appointments, or one-third as is now done, is one which commends itself to the European community generally, and inasmuch as it would enable Government to redress more effectually the inequalities of representation among the various classes, it is a very desirable provision.

Sir Henry Harrison, in his able note on the constitution of the future Metropolitan Corporation, is very decided in his view as to the necessity of retaining in the hands of Government the power of nominating one-third of the Commissioners, in order to enable it to adjust representation between the various classes. The additional special constituencies referred to in section 8 would only give the European and Eurasian communities that assurance of getting their own representatives returned to which they are fully entitled. The Mahomedan population is also seriously under-represented, and the Government nominations, if adequate, would do much to remove this cause of complaint. It is undoubtedly a great injustice, in a community like that of Calcutta, that any one race or class should practically rule all the others, and neither the Europeans nor the Mahomedans are satisfied with the present arrangement.

Europeans in India should remember that superior numbers do not constitute a dominant race, and that mere weight of numbers ought not to entitle one class to override all others. This is strongly urged by the European community which I represent, feeling as they do that they are now shut out from their fair share in the control of City affairs. Instead, therefore, of increasing the number to be elected by the general community, and thus enlarging the power already held by the practically governing race, it is on every ground desirable that Government should have, as hitherto, the nomination of at least one-third of the Commissioners, and that in addition to the ten Commissioners to be elected by special constituencies. This arrangement would go far towards securing a fair balance of representation, and would give satisfaction to the most intelligent classes of the community.

Then in section 8, I propose that the word '30' be substituted for '50.' In placing this before the Council, I must refer to section 15, where it is proposed that there should be 25 wards in the enlarged town, in place of which I have proposed 15 wards, and my present proposal, if accepted, would give two Commissioners to each ward. As, however, the hon. member in charge of the Bill is, I understand, in favour of still fewer wards, if any change is to be made, I would readily accept any modification, say ten wards with three Commissioners to each. But that after all is a detail, and does not affect the main question of the number of elected Commissioners. I have already asked for a reduction in the total number of Commissioners, and this carries out further that idea. In Calcutta, where the natives, as pointed out by Sir Henry Harrison, are to the Europeans and Eurasians as 16 to 1, it is a certainty that the great majority of elected Commissioners will belong to the more numerous class. In the report of the amalgamation Committee at page 9, the following statement occurs: "Taking two important classes, the commercial class and the Mahomedan population, no one can fail to be struck with the very small proportion of the elected Commissioners which these return."

Without some such safeguards as are proposed, the European, Mahomedan, and other interests will be overborne to a degree which I think would be prejudicial to the interest of the whole city. Therefore, if 30 Commissioners are elected in the ordinary way, that will amply provide for the great Hindu section of the community, and will give them their fair proportion of members in the Corporation, and their proper and legitimate influence therein. More than this should not be granted, for any further concession would only be to the prejudice of the other important sections of the community.

The Hon. Sir Henry Harrison said:—I understand that we are now discussing the two questions of the number of the Commissioners, and what proportion of them should be elected by the several wards or local areas. The further question as to whether that proportion of members which is not to be elected by wards, which at present stands at one-third, should be divided as provided in the Bill into 15 members to the Government, and 10 to selected constituencies, or whether they should be appointed in any other way, is a question which will stand over for a subsequent amendment. That being the case, we find that the proposal we are now discussing of having 75 Commissioners, of whom two-thirds should be elected and one-third be nominated in some form or other, is the one which has attracted perhaps more attention than any other part of the Bill, judging by the representations which have been received on the subject by the Council; and seeing the very large measure of attention which this question has attracted—it being no exaggeration to say that it forms the subject of one-half of all the reports which have been received from various bodies—it can hardly be considered unreasonable if we devote considerable attention to this matter. It is looked upon as the cardinal hinge of the proposed Bill. This proposal has been made the subject of criticism in two directions. The British Indian Association, the Indian Association, and some other bodies, urgently press that at least three-fourths of the Commissioners ought to be elected. On the other hand, most of the European Associations press with equal urgency that the proportion of nominated Commissioners should be increased rather than decreased.

The Hon. Babu Kali Nath Mitter has been the exponent of one set of opinions; the Hon. Mr. Irving of the other. I shall devote my attention, first, to the Hon. Babu Kali Nath Mitter's amendment as regards the total number of Commissioners. The Hon. Mr. Irving was perfectly right in saying that in most places the number was not so large as 75; 64 was a very usual number. In France the normal number was 36, which was in some places enlarged owing to local circumstances. At the same time I attach very little importance to this point. I do not believe there will be any practical difficulty in working, whether the number of Commissioners be 75, or 60, or 80, because we know that the time taken up by discussion does not depend on the total number of Commissioners present, but upon those Commissioners who wish to speak: and in a Corporation of even 40 members, the leading Commissioners would, for the most part, be returned, and these would take an active part in the discussion as at present. I do not think that in this respect there would be any great difference in a body of 40 members, and a Corporation of 80 Commissioners, of whom 15 or 16 would, as a rule, take part in the discussions. Practically, therefore, I attach little importance to the number of the Corporation. We only revise the work of the Committees in general meetings of the whole body of Commissioners.

Next as regards the division of numbers between the different electoral bodies. On this point the main argument of my hon. friend seems to be this: that the elective system was introduced twelve years ago against the strong opposition of Sir Stuart Hogg, and against the opposition of a great portion of the European community, and yet it has proved a success; and if it has proved a success, why not extend that principle? Is it not fair after twelve years of success to extend it? But the argument is not stated in a way to entitle it to any logical value. Suppose for the sake of argument that the elective system has proved a success, regarding which opinions are undoubtedly divided, what follows would be this—that a Corporation composed of two-thirds elected Commissioners and one-third nominated Commissioners had done its work fairly well. From this the inference might just as logically be that we should increase the proportion of nominated Commissioners as that we should increase the proportion of elected Commissioners. The real argument derived from the admission of success is, leave well alone. But the hon. member no doubt means more than that. He means that the elective element in the constitution of the Corporation has proved successful, and that therefore the elective principle in it should be expanded. On this point my own belief is that most persons will form their judgment of success or failure according to the preconceived inclinations with which they regard it. Those who do not wish it well will think it has not been successful, and those who were predisposed in its favour will load themselves to believe in its success. But I am hopeful that this difference of opinion will in a great measure disappear if we deal with the question in a specific way. I admit that from some points of view it should be considered a success. In the first place, by the elective system we have attracted to the Corporation a number of Commissioners who have taken the greatest possible interest in the work—Commissioners who have been most assiduous in their attendance at meetings, who have looked into matters with care and scrutiny such as is hardly found in any other department. They have set their face resolutely against all extravagance, they have thrown the light of discussion on every detail. In fact it has led to the administration of the municipality being carried on much more in the light of day than it would have been as far as other members are concerned. On questions of contracts and expenditure in detail they have paid an attention to the work which was hardly paid before. In the next place the system has had the advantage of bringing in a number of men who owe their position entirely to something outside Government, not to nomination. They feel that they depend for their position on those who have returned them, and who naturally look to them to represent their views, and therefore they bring with them the light of real public opinion of a certain class—a comparatively small class in numbers, but a very influential class indeed, and it has been a great advantage that we should have the opinion of a class of this kind pressed upon us, so that we know what they want and what they object to. Thirdly, we have persons who represent local areas. This has led to many good results. Previously the Town was looked upon very much as a whole, and the wants of the Town as a whole were considered. Now the desire for large improvements has decreased, and the Commissioners are more interested in local wants. This has to some extent worked well, and the large increase in the value of property is in no small degree due to the way in which local improvements have been attended to. Fourthly, the elective system has been successful in this, that people know that they have a Commissioner who represents them, and when they have a complaint, if it is not immediately attended to by the Executive, they appeal to get the assistance of their Commissioner. This has some beneficial results; it causes some degree of self-reliance in the people when they know that they have some one to whom they can go if they do not get immediate redress. The last and most important result is this The elected Commissioners, who had taken so much interest in the affairs of the Municipality, have themselves improved much by experience in the work. I have seen very great improvement in the tone and method and manner of doing work by the Commissioners who have become familiarised with their labours. In this review I think that I have given a very fair account of the work of the elective Commissioners, but after all said is not the rôle which I have described precisely the rôle of opposition? We all know that administrative affairs suffer if there is no effective check; and whether we look at the official world as it exists in India, or at the Government as it is in England, worked by party, it is a well-recognised fact that, if there is no adequate check, there is danger either of the work going on too fast, or there is danger of its not being as economical as it might be. The rôle which the elective Commissioners for the native wards have at once assumed is precisely that of checking, watching and controlling in every way, in seeing either that no expenditure is incurred without sufficient reason, or that projects of improvement are not undertaken which cannot be fully justified. They have in fact been the brake-power in the municipal train. But a train cannot progress by brake-power alone, nor can a city thrive by opposition alone. It is also necessary that you should have motive power, and this is precisely the one point in which the Corporation has been deficient. The motive power has been too weak, while the opposition power has been very strong. Were time of no importance I could prove this contention conclusively, but I hope the Council will accept my experience as a matter of testimony rather than desiderate proof. In a body like the Corporation, the Executive alone is in a position to push on the work. The Chairman therefore requires that the extremely powerful criticism and opposition which is brought to bear to his proposals should be met by an equally powerful backing up, where a sufficiently good explanation can be given of what is required to be done. Over and over again this has been wanting—the Executive Government of the Town is working with a minority, and everybody knows what a compromising position that would be. I might go through the budget year by year and show that the Chairman has to make out a very powerful case before he can get sanction for expenditure: and he is thus much handicapped in his proposals for improvement. I cannot put the case more succinctly according to my own view than to say that the motive power in the Corporation has been too weak. That being so, the question is how has it been possible to work the machine. The way in which it has been possible is mainly by the Chairman first of all using his powers of persuasion and trying to induce Committees to do what he considers necessary, a course which I must in justice say very often succeeds, or appealing to a general meeting. In general meetings of the Corporation he no doubt on the whole succeeds in carrying his point more easily than in Committees, and the reason is because in general meetings there are a larger number of Commissioners disposed to support him who do not take any part in the ordinary Committee work of the Municipality. The position of the Chairman is always stronger in general meetings than in Committees of the Corporation. The difficulties which I have described were much more insuperable in the earlier days of the Corporation. When I first joined as Chairman, I found the difficulty of doing more than just carrying on the work of the Municipality greater than it is now; and all who take an interest in municipal affairs will bear me out that there has been a conspicuous and signal improvement latterly as compared with the earlier period. To this many reasons have contributed. In the first place, the Commissioners have improved by experience; secondly, the proportion of Commissioners of the nationalities which were at first weakly represented has increased. The hon. member laid before the Council the figures of four elections. He showed that whereas in 1876 the Hindus elected 41 out of 48 elective Commissioners, in 1885 they were able to return only 27 out of 48. I could not define the object with which the hon. member cited these figures. I do not know whether he regarded it as a misfortune or a good fortune to the Corporation. He showed that the checks on the majority had been acting better, but had this resulted in benefit or the reverse; if in benefit why did he wish to diminish these checks? In 1875 three checks were designedly chosen—first, there was the check of the one-third of nominated Commissioners; secondly, the check that in the European wards a larger measure of representation was conceded than in the native wards, especially in the wards in the north of the Town. Though the European wards were smaller in population than the native wards, they were given proportionally a larger number of representatives; thirdly, there was the check in all the wards of the cumulative vote which were allowed three members. It has been correctly stated that in 1882, and again in 1885, the Europeans and Mahomedans became aware of the power which they possessed under these two last-named checks, and the consequence was that 1,105 European voters returned 13 Commissioners, 1,064 Mahomedans returned 8 Mahomedans; whilst 7,827 Hindus returned only 27 members. So far, well and good. The question is, has that been advantageous or not? I say that undoubtedly it has been a great advantage, and that it was one of the factors which operated to the carrying out of more work during the last few years. Does not that prove that if the Corporation is to work well, you must not have an opposition which is too overwhelming? I welcome cordially an effective opposition, but I equally contend that, if the opposition consists of more than half of the members, then the difficulty of working is greater than it should be. It is on that ground I submit that what has really been proved is exactly the opposite of what should have been proved for the hon. member's contention. The elective system has been a success as far as that it has organized an effective opposition and check to extravagance. It has failed in so far as that opposition has been numerically too strong. At first its numbers were so large that it brought every thing to a dead lock. As it has decreased, things have progressed more fairly. Consequently, I am perfectly justified in saying that it is only owing to the fact of the one-third nominated Commissioners having furnished some counterpoise to the preponderance of the opposition that the success of the Corporation has been secured, and it is hardly too much to say that this has been the hinge on which the success of the Corporation has turned. If so, what could be more erroneous than to propose that this most important factor should be weakened—that that which required strengthening should be weakened, and that which was already too strong, should be further strengthened. On these grounds I am constrained to say that it would be very unfortunate if the Council came to the conclusion that any larger proportion of the members of the Corporation should be elected by local areas.

Passing now to the opposite point of view, it is more difficult to maintain my ground. I do think there is a great deal of force in what the Hon. Mr. Irving has urged, and I believe a part of the greater success of the Bombay Corporation has been due to the greater proportion of the nominated Commissioners. In Bombay the Corporation started with only 64 members, of which one-half only were elected by local areas. When the number was increased in the present Bill from 64 to 72, still, as before, only one-half were to be elected by wards, 16 were to be nominated by the Government directly, and 20 by constituencies which, with the exception of the Chamber of Commerce, were under the control of the Government; probably in Calcutta also, had we 12 years ago proceeded a little more slowly, we should have made more decided and continuous progress, and parties would have been better balanced. But it is a very different thing when you have a tabula rasa, and when you have a foundation already laid. In the work of legislation, gradual construction on existing foundation is the safest. We have existing lines to work upon, and unless we are prepared to say that the Corporation will not work on these lines, it is undesirable to change them. I am not prepared to say that the proposed constitution is unworkable. Firstly, I think that there are two or three details in this Bill which will a little strengthen the party of progress if adopted, such as not allowing Ward No. 12 to lose its second member, and the plural system of voting. And then as regards the power of nomination, this gives a power which the Government has never used to the fullest extent. It has never so used the power of nomination exclusively to strengthen the motive power in the Corporation, and this ought to be tried before the fundamental proportions are changed. Even using the power of nomination as hitherto exercised, I am bound to say that if all the members nominated would attend the general meetings, there would be sufficient motive power to enable the Corporation to get along. Again, if I had any hope that the European members would take the same interest as the native members, I should be more disposed to yield to the Hon. Mr. Irving's argument, but I am afraid we must put this aside as really out of the question. I believe that to some extent they have been kept away from the meetings by finding that they are in the minority, but at the same time they have also found that it was quite impossible for them to give the same attention to the work of the municipality as those who have ample leisure, and to whom it is almost a pleasure. There are a certain number of leisured gentlemen amongst the Native Commissioners who have often come two, three or four times a week to Committee meetings to do work which is certainly not of transcendental interest, but the ordinary humdrum work of the municipality. Now is it possible to hope that we can get European gentlemen, who have their business to attend to, and to whom time is money, to attend and take part in work of this nature? If we cannot hope for that, we must fall back upon the present lines. The Chairman must as heretofore do the work with six or eight Commissioners willing to meet him two or three times a week, and carry on business with pain on a system of reasonable compromise. The Chairman has at times to give way, and the Commissioners at times give way, and provided there is an appeal to the general meeting, with fair prospects of success, the Chairman may expect to get sufficient concessions made to enable him to carry on the work of the Corporation at marching speed if not an express speed. It is my belief that, even if we were to go so far as to have a majority of Europeans in the Corporation, we should still find that in Committee meetings the majority would be Native Commissioners. For these reasons, although there is great force in the arguments used by the Hon. Mr. Irving, I think we ought to follow the old lines as laid down in the Bill, which allow two-thirds of the Commissioners to be elected by the wards; and I therefore trust the Council will, on the fullest consideration, adhere to the proposals before them in the Bill.

The Hon. Mr. Macaulay said:—Though I cannot hope to contribute anything of value to the discussion at this stage, I consider that as a member of the Select Committee, which has framed the section in the form in which it has been presented to the Council, I should not give a silent vote when the vital question of the constitution of the municipality is being settled. And for myself I am glad to have the opportunity of explaining the apparent incongruity of voting against the amendment of my hon. friend Babu Kali Nath Mitter, which involves an extension of the principle of election, while I am myself primarily responsible for the clause of the section which will give that principle a still larger extension. Briefly, I oppose the amendment of the Hon. Babu Kali Nath Mitter, on the ground that, although it involves the expansion of the principle of election, it involves not the expansion, but the contraction, of what is much more important—the principle of representation; I oppose the amendment of the Hon. Mr. Irving on the ground that it involves the contraction of both: and I will afterwards support my own proposal on the ground that it involves the expansion of both. I venture to think that the different members have the same end in view. Their object is a common one. It is the search for a scheme under which all interests in the Town will be represented in proportion to their importance. If this object can be attained, without any violent disturbance of principle on other points, by a system which will provide for election only, and will exclude nomination, I will gladly support it. But this being impracticable, the question is, will three-fourths elected by the general body of the rate-payers, as proposed by the Hon. Babu Kali Nath Mitter, or one-half as proposed by the Hon Mr. Irving, be likely to attain the object in view? To take first the proposal of my friend, the Hon. Babu Kali Nath Mitter. I have read with great care the minute of dissent which my hon. friend has appended to the first report of the Select Committee, and I have listened attentively to the very able speech in which he has laid his amendment before the Council. But I cannot agree that the arguments of those who hold that the proportions proposed by my hon. friend will not secure the adequate representation of minorities has been answered. I do not think that my hon. friend Sir Henry Harrison has properly understood the object of the hon. mover of the first amendment in quoting the figures which he has submitted to the Council. I understand his object to be, not to show that the increase in the number of European Commissioners is a matter of good fortune or of evil fortune to the municipality, but to show that the strongest class do not wish to keep all representation to itself to the exclusion of other classes. But, however this may be, it is an undoubted fact that the elected portion of the Commissioners do not represent fairly all sections. It is useless to point to the gradual increase in the number of Europeans in the Corporation. The fact remains that the representation of the Hindu population, and of what I may call the non-commercial classes, largely preponderates, and I think that this preponderance should not be increased. To guard against misunderstanding, I wish to state my distinct opinion that the working of the elective system in Calcutta has been a decided success. I cannot agree with my hon. friend Sir Henry Harrison in thinking that, if we were beginning to legislate for an elective system, we might take the Hon. Mr. Irving's proposal for electing only one-half. I think that, looking to the experience we have had of the working of the system as a whole, we should be fully justified, were we in the position of our predecessors, the legislators of 1876, in taking the proportion of two-thirds elected by the ratepayers. For this reason I will certainly oppose my friend the Hon. Mr. Irving's amendment. The elective system has brought forward men like my friend the Hon. Babu Kali Nath Mitter, men of ability and business habits, who have done excellent service to the community, and I think that all friends of Self-Government must rejoice that these men owe their positions, not to the voice of nomination, but to the suffrages of their fellow townsmen. But I submit that that is no reason for putting aside the other considerations to which I have adverted. That one part of the constitution has succeeded is no reason for stimulating it further at the expense of the rest. It is because I think that the first amendment will weaken what I consider the all-important principle of representation that I ask the Council to reject it.

The Hon. Dr. Gooroo Das Banerjee said:—With the most earnest desire to make concessions to the European community to secure their co-operation in the municipal affairs of the town, I cannot support the amendment of the Hon. Mr. Irving. It has been urged that the fact of the number of Commissioners being large, causes a long time to be consumed in discussions in the Municipal Board, and that this prevents able commercial men from taking part in the administration of the affairs of the municipality. But it should be borne in mind that the duties of the Municipal Commissioners are not merely of a deliberative character sitting at meetings of the Board, but their duties should also be of an inspectional nature. A Municipal Commissioner should inspect the ward he represents, so that he may be able to ascertain its wants and requirements, and for the due discharge of duties of this class the number of Commissioners necessary to represent a ward efficiently must be a matter of consideration; and seeing that the dimensions of these wards are by no means small, I submit that one Commissioner for each ward will hardly be adequate representation. I see no force in vague, undefined speculative reasons, but I think it a most practical reason that it would not give the Commissioner sufficient time to inspect his ward efficiently. Therefore, though on the whole a larger number of Commissioners might entail greater sacrifice in time, on the other hand we have, to compensate for it, greater efficiency secured in one respect; and if the members of the European community are pleased to bear this in mind, I hope they will not grudge any additional sacrifice of time that the number of Commissioners proposed in the Bill might entail. I may also add that if the charge on the score of loss of time is well-founded, the members of the European community taking part in the administration of the municipality may by the moral force of their opinion and example help in removing that ground of objection. For these reasons I submit that the number of the Commissioners ought not to be diminished to 60. Then as regards the proportion of nominated Commissioners, whilst fully sharing the sentiments uttered by my hon. friend, the mover of the first amendment, that so far as is consistent with other interests, the elective principle should be expanded. As I am opposed to the representative principle embodied in section 8 of the Bill, which gives the right of representation to voluntary Associations like the Chamber of Commerce and the Trades' Association, I do not think it will be fair to reduce the number of nominated Commissioners. I would leave it where it is, but oppose the right of election by voluntary Associations.

The HON. MR. MOORE said:—I rise to support the amendment moved by the Hon. Mr. Irving. I have so recently come into direct contact with Municipal affairs that I candidly confess I have no fixed principles on the subject of municipal representation, and I can therefore only be guided by the safe and simple rules of common sense which plainly point to the advantages to be derived from reducing numbers to the smallest quantity consistent with fair representation of the interests involved. I have heard no arguments to show that the reduction of the number of Commissioners to 60 would produce inadequate representation, and the strongest argument in favour of the changes proposed in the amendment seems to me to be the statement made by the hon. member in charge of the Bill that, owing to the opposition being in a majority, the motive power in the Municipality is wanting, which seems to prove that the decrease of the one class and the increase of the other, as suggested by the Hon. Mr. Irving, would be in the best interests of the Municipality.

The HON. DR. MOHENDRALAL SIRCAR said:—I do not understand how the motive power can be overbalanced by an effective majority. The motive power is furnished by combining the functions of the Corporation, and it is the carrying out of those functions which is entrusted to the Executive. The elective members should certainly watch how the functions of the Corporation are carried on. There we have the motive power and not in the action of the Executive. So I cannot understand how the motive power can be wanting if the elective element is strengthened. Then as to loss of time to the Commissioners, I think that economy of time is not always economy of work. Then again as to the success of the elective system that has been advanced as an argument by my hon. friend, the mover of the first amendment, I do not see how that argument has been rebutted by the hon. member in charge of the Bill. If it has been shown, and I think conclusively shown, that the elective system has proved a success, I do not see any reason why we should not have further extension. The life of the elective system depends upon a larger proportion of elected members, and if the system has already proved a success, why should not the proportion of elected members be increased? With these observations I will support the amendment of the Hon. Babu Kali Nath Mitter.

The HON. BABU KALI NATH MITTER said:—I shall try to be as brief as possible in my reply. In the first place it is a matter of regret to me that my hon. friend, the mover of the Bill, did not understand how I wanted to make out that because the present system has proved a success, therefore it is necessary that there should be a further extension of the elective principle. I think the answer is as clear as it can be. Previous to 1876 the system then in vogue was nomination. The Government thought fit to introduce the elective system, and if that has worked well, I think it is a strong argument that there should be further extension of that system after the experience of twelve years. In English towns it is one of election throughout; there is no nomination whatever, and that is not to be forgotten in dealing with this question. When the present system of election was introduced, it was thought proper to retain in the hands of Government powers which are inconsistent with English precedent. Then nobody grudged such retention of power. But now, as the system has worked well—and on behalf of myself and my colleagues of the elective portion of the Corporation, I sincerely thank the Hon. Mr. Macaulay for the admission that, so far as his individual opinion is concerned, he considers that the elective system has proved a success—I think that a system analogous to the system which prevails in England should, as far as practicable, be established. Then again the hon member in charge of the Bill did not understand why I put forward the results of the last two elections. How he could have misunderstood my intention, it is impossible for me to say. It is as clear as anything can be. The point I wanted to establish is this, that the greater the interest taken by the several nationalities, the greater the number of Commissioners returned by them; that in the first election, as the Hindus took the most prominent interest, they were able to return the largest number of representatives. Then at the subsequent elections, as other constituencies took larger interest, they were able to return a larger number of members, and consequently the Hindus suffered, and the use which I wish to make of these facts is, that we should leave the returns to be regulated by the result of the elections. If all the constituencies in the Municipality took the interest in the elections which they ought to take, they should be able to return a due proportion of members, and then particular interests would not suffer. If the elected members of the Corporation had done all that the hon. member in charge of the Bill was pleased to say of them, I think it is only right and fair that their number should be further increased. They should not be told, you have done all this, still there is mistrust that if your number predominates, you will not do all that you have done. I do not think that is a right principle at all. It is pretty well known that the Hindus pay the largest rates in the town. I had a statement prepared of 100 of the largest rate-payers, barring the Government, and from that statement it appears that 55 out of the 100 are Hindus, and therefore it is only right that their number should predominate in the Corporation. But from the figures I gave on the last occasion, the Council will see that at the last elections the number of Hindu Commissioners was exactly the number which the Select Committee which considered the Bill of 1875 proposed, viz. 27, and it cannot therefore be said now that there is a preponderance of the Hindu element in the Corporation.

Now, with reference to what has fallen from my hon. friend Mr. Irving, it seems to me that he has not in any way controverted my argument. He has not pointed out how 60 Commissioners would be sufficient to represent the different wards of the town, or how it would be adequate representation. He has fixed the number at 60, and said that there should be one Commissioner for each ward, or if there were only 10 wards, that there should be three Commissioners for each ward. But would it not be better to have only two wards, one constituting the whole of the northern portion of the town, and the other the southern portion, and have only three Hindus, three Mahomedans and three Europeans? That also would not be adequate representation, and therefore I submit that it would be a retrograde measure either to reduce the number of the wards or the number of Commissioners as proposed by my hon. friend. I myself attach great importance to the number of the Commissioners being increased to 80. As seven additional wards are to be added to the town, it would, in my opinion, be a mistake simply to add three to the present number of the Commissioners.

The Hon. Babu Kali Nath Mitter's motion, that in lines 3 and 10 respectively of section 4, the word 'eighty' be substituted for 'seventy-five,' being put, the Council divided:—

	His Honour the President.

So the motion was negatived.

The Hon. Moulvie Abdul Jubbar moved that in line 1 of section 7, for the word "fifteen" the word "twenty-five" be substituted. Also that the last paragraph of section 8, beginning with the words "and ten shall be elected" till the end of the section, be omitted. He said:—In bringing forward the motion which stands in my name, I would, with Your Honour's permission, take up together the two amendments which I propose. They are so closely connected that I think they need not be dealt with separately. Sections 7 and 8 of the Bill now before the Council have in view a change in the constitution of the Municipal Corporation of the Town of Calcutta. At present two-thirds of the members of that corporate body are elected by the rate-payers and one-third appointed by the Government; but the Bill proposes to limit the power of nomination by Government to one-fifth of the number of Commissioners. The existing system, as it is, is by no means favourable to the interests of the Mahomedan residents of this City and the Suburbs, and the change which is now intended to be introduced will make them the greatest sufferers. The Mahomedans constitute 28 per cent. of the population of Calcutta and 38 per cent. of that of the Suburbs, but in Calcutta we have only 12 Mahomedan Commissioners and in the Suburbs 2. These figures, as they stand, do not at all show a fair proportion; and if Government had not exercised its power of nomination in favour of the Mahomedans, the number of Mahomedan Commissioners would have dwindled to almost nothing. It may plausibly be said that as the Mahomedans do not come forward and exert themselves for election, they are themselves to blame for this state of things; but, Sir, no man with a sense of self-respect would offer himself as a candidate when he has very little chance of success. The Mahomedans are the most conservative people under the sun, and often demur to receive innovations of any kind. Their confidence in Government is unshaken. They continue to believe that all public interests are safe in the hands of the Government, and they have not, as far as I know, ever asked for the privilege of managing public affairs. Government has introduced representative municipality in this country, and it behoves Government to see that the interests of the different nationalities are adequately represented on the Municipal Boards. India is neither England nor France, where the Government has to legislate for, and to attend to the interests of, one and the same nation. The Indian Empire comprehends many nationalities, notably the Hindus and the Mahomedans, and the Government cannot rightly allow an undue preponderance of one race over the other in representative institutions. Representative municipality is an exotic plant in India, and it can only flourish under the fostering care of Government. Representative municipality will not be a blessing to all unless all interests are adequately represented, and, under the circumstances of the country, Government ought to reserve in its hands ample means of removing inequalities. The masses of the people have no idea of representative institutions, and for anything that may go wrong in the management of the affairs of the Municipality, they will speak in dispraise of Government. So for the sake of its good name, if not for anything else, Government should continue to select a considerable proportion of the Commissioners. The framers of the Act of 1876 fixed the proportions of elected and nominated Commissioners after careful deliberation, and I see no cogent reasons for upsetting their decision.

Now, Sir, while on behalf of the Mahomedans I am anxious that the proportion of nominated members should not be reduced, neither I nor they mean that such influential bodies as the Bengal Chamber of Commerce and the Calcutta Trades' Association should not obtain an adequate representation in the Calcutta Municipality. Calcutta owes its position among the great cities of the world to the capital and industry of its European community, and I shall not be so indifferent to its future welfare as not to desire the appointment of the members of that community to its Municipal Board, but what I object to is the policy of granting to self-constituted Associations the statutory right of election in municipalities. If such a policy is once adopted by the Legislature, it would give rise to numberless claims which Government would find it difficult to disallow. In these days when we are deluged with Associations, Unions and Societies bearing high-sounding names, it might be imagined to what end the policy embodied in the Bill would lead. I am afraid the result will be that, while Associations will monopolise the municipal franchise, the majority of the poor tax-payers will go unrepresented. Some of the hon. members of this Council might remember that when the Port Trust Amendment Bill was before it, an Association by the name of the Bengal National Chamber of Commerce came into existence and claimed the same right of election as had been granted to the Bengal Chamber of Commerce. It is not, Sir, that my co-religionists, whom I have the honour to represent in this Council, apprehend any harm to them from the influence of the European element in the Corporation, but they oppose on principle the recognition by law of voluntary Societies, the number of which is subject to fluctuation. There could be no just or reasonable ground for complaint should Government appoint as many European gentlemen as would secure a proper balance of power in the Corporation, but I am sure many Associations would grumble should some of them be singled out for the concession which the Bill contemplates to make. I will now conclude by reading a passage in the letter addressed by the oldest Mahomedan Association in Calcutta, the Mahomedan Literary Society, and a short paragraph from the letter from the younger Association, the National Mahomedan Association. The senior of them, the Mahomedan Literary Society, said:—"The Committee are of opinion that the number of Commissioners to be appointed by Government under section 7, namely 15, is inadequate. Under the Act of 1876, Government has the power of appointing 24 Commissioners, and it is well known that this power has been exercised from time to time most judiciously by appointing members of the different communities in order to ensure a proper representation of their interests in the Corporation. The desirability of enabling members of the Mahomedan community to take part in the municipal affairs of the town has always been recognized. Whenever the Mahomedan element has been found to be insufficient on the Corporation, the balance has been in some measure restored by the appointment of Mahomedan Commissioners by Government. The practical effect of now reducing the number from 24 to 15, the Committee apprehend, would be to fetter the hands of Government in respect to the appointment of an adequate number of Mahomedans. The Committee therefore beg to suggest the substitution of the word 'twenty-five' for the word 'fifteen' in section 7." The younger Association, the Central National Mahomedan Association, said:—"The Committee also thinks it will be expedient to reserve a larger number of nominations in the hands of the Local Government."

The Hon. Dr. Gooroo Das Banerjee said:—I will support the amendment which has just been moved on very nearly the same grounds on which the hon. mover of the amendment has based it, and for one or two additional reasons. I will first take up the latter of the two amendments, namely, that the last paragraph of section 8 be omitted. That clause provides that ten Commissioners shall be elected in accordance with rules to be framed by the Lieutenant-Governor—four by the Chamber of Commerce, four by the Trades' Association, and two by the Port Commissioners. This I consider to be objectionable as well as unnecessary. It is objectionable in the first place, because it recognises by Statute voluntary Associations regarding the constitution of which there is no certain stability. Any one of these Associations may represent to-day the entire community which it professes to represent, but next year it may cease to represent that same class adequately. Secondly, it is objectionable because the recognition of three out of a large number of similar Associations would make an invidious distinction which may give rise to discontent. Thirdly, these Associations, which after all are Associations of individual members, have the right of voting through the individual members of which they consist. Therefore already the commercial interests are represented through the votes which these individual members have. And if in addition we give the right of representation to these very individuals taken collectively, we will be giving the right twice over to the same individuals. And then I submit that, that with the former of the two amendments this provision of section 8 is wholly unnecessary After all it appears that the total number of nominated Commissioners and the representatives of certain bodies comprises one-third of the whole number, that is 25, and I fail to see what difference it will make whether the whole of that number, 25, is left to be nominated by the Government; or whether 10 of them are elected by certain specifically named bodies, and the remaining 15 only by the Government. No objection has hitherto been raised as to the exercise of discretion by the Government as far as the commercial interest is concerned. As long as no such objection is raised, I submit it will be better far to let the whole number be nominated by the Government than to reduce the number to be appointed by Government to 15, and to leave these particular Associations to elect 10. It is quite possible that in the general elections the commercial interest may be adequately represented. In that case it will certainly be unfair that the commercial classes should have the still further privilege of electing the 10 members mentioned in the last paragraph of section 8 to the prejudice of other minorities which have an equally fair claim to representation. It would be better, in order to meet all possible contingencies, to leave the nomination of the whole number to the Government, so that the Government might be in a position to supplement the representation of the commercial interest if necessary, or to give a large proportion of the 25 nominations to other minorities, such as the Mahomedan community as occasion might require. I submit that no class of interests will suffer by allowing the whole number, 25, to be nominated by Government, whereas there is every probability of other interests suffering if the Government nominations are reduced to 15, and these voluntary Associations are allowed the right of electing 10 representatives.

The Hon. Sir Alfred Croft said:—I had very much graver doubts, when I entered the Council to-day, as to the wisdom and the desirability of introducing this clause empowering certain Associations to elect members of their own body,—much graver doubts than I have now, since I have had the advantage of hearing the speech of my hon. friend, the Chairman of the Corporation, and the reasons which he has advanced as to the necessity of strengthening the party of progress in the Municipality. The result of giving to the Chamber of Commerce, the Trades' Association, and the Port Commissioners the right of electing 10 members will, I am convinced, be to strengthen that party which Sir Henry Harrison says so much stands in need of strengthening. The possible consequences to the Mahomedan community of reducing the number of nominations that remain in the hands of the Government have been dwelt upon in a very serious way by my hon. friend, Moulvie Abdul Jubbar. Still I understand that in distributing its nominations, whether they be 15 or whether they be 25, the Government habitually exercises its power with reference to the comparative strength of parties as determined by the result of the preceding elections, and with the object of redressing any inequalities that may have arisen. If therefore the European element in the Municipality has been strengthened by the addition of 10 members elected by these bodies, the Government would be justified in appointing additional members from any other section of the community which, in consequence of that fact, might stand in need of strengthening. But there is another point to consider. I am not inclined to attach any great importance to the distinction of Europeans as such, or of Mahomedans and Hindus as such. Distinctions of this kind do not seem to me to be relevant to the constitution of the Municipality. We have been told that there are two elements in the Municipality,—the party of progress, constituting a motive power, and the conservative party or party of criticism; and that on the just balance of these two parties the success and strength of the Municipality depend. It is probably by considerations of this kind that the Government would be guided in making its appointments; and if so, the question of Mahomedan, or Hindu, or European would not arise at all in that form. Another difficulty has been raised on the ground that these bodies are self-constituted Associations. It has been stated that the giving of the right of election to these Associations will create difficulties hereafter, in dealing with the claims of other Associations of a similar character. But there is one consideration which will bring these difficulties within very narrow limits, namely, that of the qualifications on which the right should be based. It seems to me that the only qualifications that can be recognised are the owning or occupation of property, or the paying of taxes, or the having in some other way a close pecuniary interest in the good government of the town, in the application of the Municipal Fund to the best purposes, and in the promotion of trade and commerce. If you put it in that way you at once get rid of a large number of Associations which are not connected with the objects I have named, as for instance literary Associations generally. It is true that the three Associations named in the Bill have no statutory character; but as a matter of common notoriety they have so defined and permanent a character that we can well recognise their existence. And with regard to the other contention that the votes will be given twice over, because the members of the Chamber of Commerce and of the Trades' Association have the right to vote in their individual capacities and collectively in the Associations of which they are members, I consider that the two qualifications differ materially. As occupiers of houses and as payers of taxes they have a right to their individual votes; as a body associated for a very definite object, namely, the promotion of trade or commerce, they are entitled to representation on very different grounds. It seems to me, therefore, that the contention against double voting falls to the ground.

The Hon. Sir Henry Harrison said:—Although this is not a question to which I attach very great importance or look upon as vital to the Bill, still as I am disposed to concur with the amendment, the Council will probably like to hear my reasons. I assume that, though in charge of the Bill, I am at liberty, if I think any proposal in it mistaken, in supporting an amendment which proposes to alter it. Whether my reasons are sufficient or not, I must leave the Council to judge. I think it but fair to recognise the fact that the system of nomination by Government is the system in possession. All the arguments for not disturbing the proportion of two-thirds, or for building so much on the present foundation, apply here to leaving the nomination as heretofore in the hands of Government. Secondly, it is an advantage to leave the hands of Government free. The object of leaving to the Government the nomination of one-third of the Commissioners is admitted on all sides to be mainly to secure better representation, that the Government may reduce inequalities as far as they are produced by the elections. In this case the Government would have greater power of doing so if all the nominations were left in their hands than if 10 nominations were taken away. On the other hand, I most distinctly say that if the representatives of these bodies can be induced to work, they are just the persons we want. As far as the Port Commissioners are concerned, they are entitled to have their own representatives on the Corporation if only by reason of the large amount of rates they pay. As far as the Chamber of Commerce is concerned, the endeavour has hitherto been to try to induce the leading members of that body to sit on the Corporation, but unfortunately nearly always the endeavour has been unsuccessful. As far as the members of the Trades' Association are concerned, there is greater willingness to work, I suppose because the affairs of the town more intimately concern them; whereas the Chamber of Commerce feel their interest greater in the work of the Port Commissioners. We have had many members of the Trades' Association who were willing to take as much part in municipal affairs as is necessary for the well-being of the Corporation: some of them indeed have done very good service. Of members of the Chamber of Commerce we have hitherto had few, for the reason that gentlemen engaged in business cannot afford the time. We have only had one member of the mercantile community who has really been able to be on the Municipal Corporation and to work successfully, and that was Mr. George Yule, and probably he was one of the best members we have ever had on the Corporation. If other members of the Chamber will pay the same amount of attention to the affairs of the Municipality as Mr. Yule did, it would be an enormous advantage to the Corporation. The Port Commissioners would probably elect commercial members of their body to represent them on the Corporation, and the Chamber would naturally feel bound to do the same. But there is considerable fear that two or three valuable votes might be lost, because if it turns out that out of the whole body not more than one or two can afford the time necessary to sit out meetings and give their votes on critical occasions, then the other seats will be wasted, or we should practically have the 25 nominated Commissioners reduced to 20. This is one practical difficulty which will in all probability arise. It has often happened that some one who seems likely to make a good Commissioner if he could only give the time necessary, is at first willing to do so, but when the time comes he finds that he has something more important to do. I have in my mind two or three instances of gentlemen who would have made most valuable members if they would only have attended, but experience proved that they would not. For that reason I would prefer that the Government should have the whole of the nominations, and I am quite certain that if only 4 or 6 gentlemen connected with the Chamber of Commerce could be induced to come forward, there would be no doubt of their being welcomed.

I am also bound to say that considerable weight is due to the argument that voluntary Associations do not always so fully represent the interests they are designed to represent. As far as the Trades' Association is concerned, we know that they have always represented the trading interest, but we know perfectly well that in the case of the Chamber of Commerce it has not always been so. Up to about two years ago four or five of the leading firms in commerce would not become members of the Chamber, and therefore they would not have been chosen to represent that body. And it is perfectly within the sphere of possibility that a time may come when the body, which is the lineal descendant of the present Chamber, may represent only a portion of the large and influential firms of the town; and if that should be so, you would put the elections into their hands and take it away from the others. For these reasons, I would prefer to see all the nominations left to the Government.

Then I come to what is by far the most important and the strongest argument of all, that though this system of special constituencies has a great deal to be said for it, if it is introduced it ought to be introduced on the grounds of the strictest equity to all; and I am constrained to say that so far as it appears to me this has not been done. I concur with Sir Alfred Croft that it is of no importance whether we have Mahomedans on the Corporation or not. They form a kind of middle party. In some respects Mahomedans naturally agree with Europeans, and in some respects they side with the Hindus. They are appealed to on both sides, as they are open to conviction, and the weight of their opinion is as often thrown on one side as on the other. They represent also a very important population of the town, and it is probably not incorrect to say that the people who carry on the minor descriptions of business in the town are very largely Mahomedans. And looking to the fact that under our elective system the Europeans get a proportion of members much larger than the Mahomedans do, the Mahomedans will more particularly suffer from the operation of the last clause of section 8. If any special constituencies are desirable, Mahomedans should certainly not be left out in the cold. I do think that it is extremely desirable that the Bill should go forth with the strictest appearance of impartiality to all interests as far as possible, but I cannot say that this clause bears that stamp to my mind. All parties are satisfied with the Government nominations. The Corporation themselves, who have voted on this question twice, have almost unanimously expressed their preference for nomination by Government. There can be no possible question that the very last possible body that would be overlooked in nominations would be the commercial and trading interests. At the same time all would get their fair share, and there is no doubt the Mahomedans would feel their position more secure if the Government retain all the nominations in their hands. And to me it certainly does seem that if we are selecting special constituencies, to ignore Mahomedans is a flaw which I for one much regret.

His Honour the President said:—I had not intended to take any part in the debate on this question, at all events at the present time. But from the remarks which fell from the last speaker, I presume that I should do well to explain my position in reference to this section. The section is one for disposing of a certain number of nominations which have hitherto been in the hands of the Government, and transferring them to certain elective bodies. My hon. friend Sir Henry Harrison said that he hoped the fact of his being the member in charge of the Bill would not be in any way a hindrance to his voting according to his conscience. I wish to make it clear that I am in no way the keeper of my hon. friend's conscience. But more than that, his remark induces me to state most distinctly that on this point I have not the slightest desire to influence any one's vote. My own position in reference to the point under discussion is one almost of indifference. I feel very much as Sir Richard Temple said when the question was originally before him—the question whether one-third or one-fourth of the Commissioners should be nominated—that he really cared neither one way or the other, and was quite willing to leave it to the Council to decide. The only purpose to which nomination could be properly put was to redress anything like a monopoly of representation. For that purpose I hold it to be a very valuable power in the hands of the Government. I cannot but feel the force of what the Chairman of the Corporation has said that the tendency will probably be for the majority of the elected Municipal Commissioners to become more and more the representatives of a single class. By "class" I do not mean either Hindu, Mahomedan or European, but people of one way of thinking and of one set of habits, and it is in that point that the danger of a tyranny of the majority is always more likely to lie. I should be anxious, in regard to municipal representation, as in political representation, to provide in a fair way for minorities, to introduce diversity of thought, in any bodies of this kind. If the elective representatives are all professional men, I should like to bring in representatives of the wealthier classes who are not willing to stand for election. If the whole were of one religion, I should like to bring in men of another religion. And the same as to particular interests. If the elected Commissioners represented one special interest, I should consider it my duty to nominate persons of another interest. But I quite agree with my hon. friend, Sir Alfred Croft, that the question ought not to be considered as a question of Europeans quâ Europeans, or Mahomedans quâ Mahomedans, or Hindus quâ Hindus. It is not from the point of religion, but from the point of view of earnestness of direction towards progress or towards reform which they would be likely to bring into the body of the Corporation that the question of what class a candidate belongs to has to be considered, and I think that is what my hon. friend, Sir Alfred Croft, meant, and that Sir Henry Harrison has a little misunderstood him. I must take the opportunity to say that I was sorry to see the remark made by the British Indian Association that the native Commissioners are to be repressed in every way, and that we are practically destroying the influence of the natives. Can anybody suppose that if the proposals made by the Select Committee are adopted, the influence of the native Commissioners will be in any way destroyed or repressed? I should have thought that had it been possible to have the heads of the great European firms as representatives of trade and commerce, it would be a help, a strength and an honour to the Corporation. My own fear is just the contrary, that you will never be able to get the representatives of commerce to go out of their way to bring their knowledge and practical ability to bear on the affairs of the town. I wish it could be otherwise.

To come back to this particular point, my own position is this. The proposal of the Select Committee will have the effect of whittling away to a certain extent the power of the Local Government in regard to making nominations, and for that reason I shall vote for it. I think that as time goes on, it will probably be found more and more possible to keep down the proportion of nominations left in the hands of the Government; but at the same time I am not insensible of the objections which have been brought forward to the proposals of the Select Committee as to their particular distribution. There is something in what was said that there is no guarantee that these bodies, whatever they may represent to-day, will represent the same interests hereafter. And if you once stereotype the particular distribution, you will have to go through a long and disagreeable process to alter it. At the same time the Select Committee have given the subject serious thought; and I am not sure that any better proposal can be made. It would be unseemly for me at least to vote for bringing the whole of the nominations back to the hands of the Government, but I have not the slightest wish to influence any hon. member from voting as he wishes.

The Hon. Mr. Macaulay said:—After the speeches of His Honour the President and my hon. friend Sir Alfred Croft, I have little to say, as most of the objections which have been brought against the clause have been answered. I should like, however, to assure my hon. friend, the mover of the amendment, that there was not the smallest idea in the minds of those responsible for the framing of the clause of injuring the interests of Mahomedans; and I must say that I have had some difficulty in understanding how my hon. friend and the Mahomedan Literary Society have come to persuade themselves that there was any such idea. My hon. friend has expressed his high appreciation of the importance of commercial bodies in Calcutta, and of the benefit which the town has derived from commerce Is he prepared to say that 10 is too large a number of Commissioners for Government to nominate to represent them, and if so, where is the danger to Mahomedans in reserving this number out of the 25 to commercial bodies? My hon. friend opposite, Dr. Gooroo Das Banerjee, said that the proposal is unnecessary, because no one has objected to the present system as unfair. He forgot, however, that it had been found to be inconvenient; and this brings me to my hon. friend Sir Henry Harrison's objection, which I myself consider the very strongest point in favour of the clause as it stands. Sir Henry Harrison argued that because hitherto, with one distinguished exception, members of the Chamber of Commerce have not regularly attended meetings, therefore there is a danger that those now to be elected by them will not, and that thus valuable votes will be lost. But would not the Chamber be more likely to find men among the commercial community willing to take a part in the management of the town than the Government? The objection to the present system is that Government has difficulty in finding men willing to be nominated, and that those nominated are unwilling to take a share in the work. I can say from my own experience that I have had, on the occasion of one vacancy, to write to four gentlemen in succession on behalf of Government before one could be found to fill it. I maintain that the Chamber will be better able than Government to find commercial men with a taste for Municipal work and a willingness to serve, and that those elected would feel a sense of responsibility which would impel them to discharge duly the functions entrusted to them. I therefore ask the Council to accept the clause as sound in principle and convenient in practice.

The Hon. Mr. Moore said:—I beg leave to say a few words on this subject so far as it refers to the Chamber of Commerce. I support the hon. member who has just spoken in voting for section 8 entirely on the question of principle, in doing which I believe I am reflecting the feelings of the class I specially represent As I understand it, the highest authorities in connection with this Bill have conceded that the paramount interests concerned are commercial, and there can be no doubt that the paramount commercial interests are those represented by the Chamber of Commerce. The hon. member, in charge of the Bill has expressed a doubt whether the Chamber of Commerce will always fully represent these interests, and he has quoted a precedent against it, the correctness of which I must admit. But it is my deliberate opinion that a similar state of things will never occur again, and that it may be accepted that the Chamber is, and always will be, thoroughly representative. The Hon. Babu Kali Nath Mitter has, however, twitted Europeans with shewing an indifference to municipal affairs amounting to cancelment of their claims for consideration; but I find in the papers before us innumerable memorials about this Bill from European Associations which I submit betoken a condition of active agitation totally incompatible with apathy. It has been further alleged that they shew an unwillingness to serve as Commissioners, and in regard to this the Hon. Babu Kali Nath Mitter has said that they will never sacrifice five hours of their time discussing important affairs; but the view of Europeans is that the Municipality takes five hours to do what might be done in one, and what they will not do is to waste four hours of valuable time. This I know from personal experience has been the main cause which has deterred European merchants from accepting nominations to the Municipality. They are not backward when representatives are required to act upon the Committee of the Chamber, upon the Port Trust, and other commercial associations, all which represent public and not merely personal interests; but the predominant feature of these bodies is to get through the largest amount of work in the briefest space of time, and if a larger infusion of the European element will work a reform in this direction in municipal procedure, and bring the meetings of the Corporation into practical compass, I do not believe there will be any difficulty in getting merchants to do their duty as citizens in municipal matters as they do in reference to matters commercial.

The Hon. the Advocate-General said:—It seems to me that this discussion is of very little importance after the declaration of the Hon. the President that he intends to support the amendment, because, under the existing law, the Local Government is competent to appoint ten Commissioners from the three bodies mentioned. He may make rules, and if representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and the other two bodies are selected according to such rules, His Honour may appoint them. Instead, however, of nominating members executively the Bill proposes to effect the same object legislatively. It is very important that commercial interests should be largely represented in the Municipal Corporation, and it becomes a small question whether the Government having made up its mind to appoint a certain number of commercial men did so under rules provided for their election, or gave these commercial bodies themselves directly the power to make the election. It is a question whether the power of the Government to nominate should in part be given over to three public bodies who possess and represent important interests in municipal administration. I often hear complaints made by different sections of the community as to the want of representation of particular sections of the community in the Municipal Corporation. We are not here to legislate on sentimental considerations, or to regard feelings in the matter; our duty is to constitute an administration which will be effective, and there is scarcely the slightest doubt that the commercial element is essentially necessary for administering the affairs of the town in which they must be very largely interested. That being so, and it being quite plain that members of the commercial community must be selected, what becomes of the argument of the hon. member who opposed the amendment that the Mahomedan community will suffer? The interests of the Mahomedans could not possibly suffer by the appointment of ten mercantile gentlemen. If there are Mahomedans who are largely interested in trade and commerce, their interests will be well represented by members nominated by the three public bodies. The objection that the Mahomedans will suffer in consequence of the commercial interest being represented as proposed is without foundation and a mere sentiment. If it be supposed that their interests will suffer, although we may regret the circumstance, we cannot let that consideration interfere with the admitted necessity of strengthening the commercial interest in the Municipal Corporation.

The Hon Mr. Irving said:—The Calcutta Tradeâ' Association has now been in existence upwards of fifty years, and no doubt its Members are all busy men; and though they have probably less time to spare than members of the Chamber of Commerce, yet I am certain that many of them are quite willing to give up a certain portion of their time for a public purpose of this kind.

The HON. BABU KALI NATH MITTER said :—There seems to be some misapprehension on this subject. I have no objection to members of the commercial community being represented in the Municipality. All that I said on the last occasion was that if they took an interest in municipal administration, they would become valuable members. I was opposed to this proposal of the Select Committee on the ground that it would be an invidious distinction conferred upon a few public bodies out of a large number of similar Associations. As to the observation made by the hon. member in charge of the Bill that the Mahomedan community will suffer, I think it came from him in an awkward manner, seeing that he is the most enthusiastic supporter of the principle of plurality of votes which directly goes to the principle of election, and will operate to the detriment of that community. I think the Mahomedans may fairly say: "Save us from our friend."

The HON. DR. GOOROO DAS BANERJEE moved that in line 3 of section 8, for the word "resident" the words "residing or personally carrying on business" be substituted. He said :—On reasonable principles the grounds upon which one ought to be allowed the right to vote are—first, the payment by him of a certain rate of taxation, and secondly, his having an interest in the administration of the Municipality. Now, there may be many rate-payers who may pay a large amount of taxes to the Municipality, such as fees for licenses to carry on certain professions, and yet they may not reside in Calcutta in the strict sense of the term. So far as the first condition is concerned, viz., the payment of a certain amount of taxes, they evidently satisfy it. Then as to the second condition as to whether they have any interest in the administration of the Municipality although it may not be strictly true that they reside within the town, yet they may reside within it for 15 out of the 24 hours in the day. In such a case to preclude them from voting merely because they do not, in the strictest sense, reside within the limits of the Municipality would be hardly just. That is an anomaly which ought to be removed.

The HON. SIR HENRY HARRISON said :—I do not attach any very great importance to this question, but on the whole I think it better to leave the Bill as it stands. As long as the Suburbs and Calcutta were under entirely different bodies, a very large number of persons came into Calcutta from the Suburbs for purposes of business. Now, these persons will all be in Calcutta, and therefore the amendment will be almost inoperative; but under the amendment some persons living out of the enlarged Calcutta, such as at Howrah, or up the line would still get a vote for the business which they carry on in Calcutta, and it is on the whole but fair that those who do not reside within the limits of the Municipality should leave the administration of its affairs to those who do.

So the motion was negatived.

The Hon. Mr. Irving, in moving the omission of clause (f) of section 8, said:—The Amalgamation Committee, at page 9 of their Report, in speaking of the University, remark: "We do not say that the class who constitute it do not find adequate representation under the existing system, but the University has clearly a large interest in the metropolis, and it forms a most honourable and highly qualified constituency."

There can be no doubt that most of the fellows and many of the graduates are already qualified in virtue of their being rate-payers. And although this is not the case with a certain proportion of the younger graduates, I can see no sufficient reason for giving them a vote apart from the primary qualification derived from the payment of rates. Graduates pass through the University annually in hundreds, and might, in course of time, if not immediately, cause a serious disturbance of the balance of voting power in certain wards.

I may remark that the Mahomedans are at one with the Europeans on this question, so that the proposal is refined down to a concession to the Hindus, who already possess so disproportionate a share of voting power. I therefore move that clause (f) of section 8 be omitted.

The Hon. Sir Alfred Croft said:—As I intend to support this amendment, I had better explain my reasons for doing so. It would be quite out of place for me to refuse, and I have no intention of refusing, any legitimate claim that may reasonably be put forward on behalf of fellows and graduates of the University. But I have not been able to satisfy myself that this particular claim is a reasonable one. No question of course can arise as to the fitness of graduates to vote, and no one can dispute that they would vote with intelligence and discretion. I am sure that the tendency of the graduate vote would be to return as Municipal Commissioners men of high character and position. But it seems to me that the question is not solely one of fitness. I doubt whether the question is at all one of fitness directly. The question of fitness does not enter into those which I consider the leading clauses of this section, clauses (a) to (e), which give the right to vote to the owner and occupier of houses, to those who pay rates and taxes, and to those who carry on any trade or business; and these I conceive to be the only true and safe principle on which to proceed in deciding the qualifications for a voter Clause (f) proceeds on an entirely new, and as I consider, a wrong and faulty principle. It is this: that the persons who pay the taxes are not competent to decide how those taxes should be spent without calling in men of superior learning to help them. Or else it means that men of superior learning have a claim to dispose of funds to which they themselves have not contributed. I quite agree that it is possible to conceive cases where the possession of a degree might reasonably be held to give a man the right to vote, for instance, in the election of members of Parliament, where the questions for consideration are the most weighty and varied that men can have to deal with. But when, twenty-five years ago, an attempt was made to introduce the Graduate vote, the sense of the nation at once rejected it as a 'fancy franchise.' It seems to me that the only safe principle, beyond which it is dangerous to go, is to give the right to vote according to the interest which the voter has in the prosperity of the town and the development of trade and commerce. It may be said that the vote may safely be conceded to graduates, because they are a very deserving and enlightened class of men. But cases may arise very soon where giving the graduate vote might cause injustice. Section 36 of the Bill defines the objects upon which the municipal fund is to be spent, and I believe that under one of its clauses the establishment and maintenance of free libraries might possibly be included. Again, there is an amendment before the Council in favour of supporting schools for primary and technical education Both these objects I consider not only laudable, but entirely within the scope of a Municipality; and it is pretty certain that the Graduate vote would generally be given in their favour. But I hold that we are not entitled to call in the assistance of the Graduate vote. For if free libraries are to be established, or primary and technical schools to be maintained, the persons who should decide this question are those who will have to pay the bill and no others.

But putting aside the question of principle, I come to the form which the clause assumes. The qualification is given to fellows and graduates. Now the corresponding clause in the Bengal Municipal Act gives the franchise to graduates and licentiates of any English or Indian University; but that form is not adopted in the present Bill. The Bill proceeds on the assumption that fellows and graduates of the University of Calcutta have in some way a close connection with Calcutta. That position I cannot accept. The University of Calcutta is not localised in that way. If it has any local existence, it exists wherever its influence extends; that is to say, wherever its affiliated Colleges are situated, wherever its examinations are held, wherever its graduates reside. It is true that the Senate House of the University is situated in Calcutta. The Senate House does not belong to the University, but to the Government. Still, in so far as the University pays rent in the sense of providing for the repairs of the building, and also pays the municipal taxes, the University as such might claim a vote in consequence of such payments. In that point of view there was in the first draft of the Bill, according to which graduates were to vote in the ward in which the Senate House is situated, some slight and far off connection with the leading principle of the Bill; though giving a vote or ten votes to the University is a very different thing from giving it to the hundreds if not thousands of University Graduates who reside in Calcutta. But in the present draft the vote is given to graduates for any ward in which they reside; and thus the last thin link of connection with the principle of the Bill is snapped. You give the qualification for learning alone and for nothing else. If that is so, I must protest altogether against the Graduate vote being limited to graduates of the Calcutta University. Why should not the Universities of Bombay and Madras be included? Why not include graduates of the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge, in which the standard of learning is not lower than in the University of Calcutta? These objections, it is true, are met by an amendment of the hon. member opposite. But there are others no less cogent. There are many men of learning in Bengal whose learning was acquired at a period prior to the establishment of the Calcutta University. If so, why not give a vote to those senior scholars who, to the same amount of learning, have added age and experience? Again, in determining the franchise for a Municipality, the very persons who might be expected to exercise the vote with the greatest benefit to the public would be those who have taken degrees in Medicine and Engineering. The questions with which a Municipality is chiefly concerned are questions of health and engineering, such as water-supply and drainage. And yet because the University, by a slight and trifling technicality, calls such persons licentiates and not graduates, they will be excluded from the franchise and not be allowed to vote. To give exceptional privilege to graduates in Arts and Law, subjects with which the Municipality is not concerned, is not consonant with sound principle.

The Hon. Sir Henry Harrison said:—I think that so far as this clause stands it is a matter of small importance. Its present value entirely arises from the principle which it involves, whether you will allow intelligence to be a qualification for voting, or must you insist on the payment of rates also. My hon. friend, Sir Alfred Croft, has admitted that graduates will probably give a very good vote indeed. My view is that when we are looking for constituencies to elect members, we want constituencies which will return good members. Generally speaking we want to combine intelligence with wealth. Intelligence without wealth is not a desirable factor. Wealth without intelligence is also undesirable, because all the proceedings of the Municipality are conducted in English. But where you have a high standard of intelligence, an exception may be made. To omit this clause will be to place high intelligence in a more illiberal position than elsewhere. I find in the Bill now before the Bombay Legislature that they propose to give two members to the fellows of the University alone, as well as votes in the wards to all graduates. With regard to the argument that we have left out licentiates and also graduates of other Universities, I have not the slightest doubt that every member of the Council who will vote for the clause in this Bill will welcome the addition of such voters if any one proposes it. The proposal which at one time was mooted of giving members to the University did not find favour. Then it was proposed to give graduates votes in the ward in which the University is situated, but it was objected that the effect would be to turn out the other members of that ward. If we leave this clause out of the Bill, we shall be admitting ourselves to be more illiberal towards education than is the case in Bombay or in the mofussil municipalities, and I shall be sorry if that is done.

The Hon. Dr. Gooroo Das Banerjee said:—I oppose this amendment, because the arguments in support of it are based on the erroneous assumption that in allowing graduates to vote, we shall be allowing persons to vote who are in no way connected with the payment of taxes A graduate may be contributing to taxation, but yet not up to the minimum amount prescribed by the Bill. In most cases he does satisfy the condition of being a rate-payer, only not to the minimum requirement. The possession of a degree which is a sure test of intelligence should be taken, in the case of a graduate, to supplement the deficiency in the other qualification, viz., the paying of rates. The two taken together should make up for him what is made up in other cases by the payment of a certain minimum rate of taxation.

Resolution, dated the 10th June, 1884, issued by this Government to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, and the Heads of Departments, calling upon them to consider how skeleton maps could best be utilised to show, by shades of colour or in other ways, such administrative features as might in their opinion be conveniently illustrated by means of maps.

Letter from the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, No. 449A, dated the 28th June, 1887.

As far back as in 1882 the Government of India, in their Resolution of the 2nd November of that year, quoted in the preamble, suggested the more general use in Administration Reports of illustrative maps corresponding in size with the pages of the reports themselves. The Survey Department, it was ascertained, were prepared to supply skeleton maps of the kind required, and the Board of Revenue and the Heads of Departments in these Provinces were requested to consider what features of the administration dealt with by them could best be indicated in the manner proposed.

2. The Lieutenant-Governor considers that the object in view is a desirable one, and has determined to give immediate effect to the suggestion made by the Government of India. The replies of the Officers and Departments consulted are generally in favour of the proposal, but it has been urged by the Board of Revenue that it is calculated to occasion delay in the submission of reports and to entail considerable expense. With regard to the anticipated delay, the Lieutenant-Governor, however, is of opinion that, if the preparation of the maps be taken in hand with forethought, not when the reports which they concern are complete, but as soon as the statistics which they are designed to illustrate have been compiled, there will be no difficulty in submitting them in proper time, and it must be clearly understood that the dates hitherto prescribed for the submission of reports must continue to be adhered to. It may on occasion be found necessary to despatch the maps at a later period to be bound up with the reports, but this procedure should be entirely exceptional, and is to be avoided. In the matter of expense it must also be distinctly understood that no addition can be made to existing departmental grants on this account, and that whatever is done must be done within the limits of budget provision.

3. Sir Steuart Bayley does not desire to indicate once for all any stereotyped plan on which maps should be prepared, but must leave it to the Heads of Departments themselves freely to use their discretion in the matter, so as to illustrate by this means the special features of the particular branch of administration treated during the year under report. The person writing a report will generally be the best judge of the question what statistical information can on each occasion be embodied in maps with the greatest advantage. It may be observed that the Sanitary Commissioner proposes to indicate, by shades of colour or other appropriate devices, the extent to which operations have been carried on in different localities, the progress of disease, the intensity or persistency with which it has prevailed, the local circumstances which have influenced its prevalence and procedure, its effect on the population, and other cognate matters; while the Director of Public Instruction desires to show the general spread of education as tested by the proportion of scholars to population, the spread of secondary and higher education on the same principle, the spread of secondary and higher education among Muhammadans, and the spread of female education. These suggestions are cited as illustrations of the principle on which the maps should be prepared.

4. For the purposes above set forth, it is thought that maps of the Province on a scale of 80 miles to the inch, or of 64 miles to the inch, are quite sufficient. Either of these scales should be adopted, and it is desirable that one or other of them should be used in preference to any larger scale which would involve the folding up of, and less ready reference to, the maps. In certain cases it may not be practicable to show what is aimed at with distinctness except on a larger scale, but ordinarily the 80-mile or 64-mile scale should suffice, and no map of these Provinces on a larger than the 32-mile scale should accompany the annual report of any Department.

5. The Board of Revenue and the Heads of all Departments will be authorized to indent direct on the Survey Department for their requirements, and the latter will be requested to make arrangements to supply such indents as speedily as possible.

ORDER.—Ordered that the Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette, and that copies, with copies of the correspondence annexed, be forwarded to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, and the Heads of Departments for information and guidance, and to the Surveyor-General for information.

Ordered also that a copy be forwarded to the Government of India, in the Home and Revenue and Agricultural Departments, for information, with reference to the Resolution in the latter Department No. 64G, dated the 2nd November 1882.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

„ 69, „ 6th January 1887.

In the letter to the Government of India, cited above, No. 3389, dated the 3rd August 1887, the distinction between 'Service' and 'Licensed' Pilots is explained with special reference to the application of the 55 years' retirement rule. The pilots commonly known as 'Service' Pilots are members of the Covenanted Bengal Pilot Service, and are permanent servants of Government. They were at first paid fixed salaries, but were afterwards allowed to exchange these for a percentage of the pilotage fees earned by them; and those of them who did so were said to have "gone on the free list." All the Service Pilots are now paid in this manner. They are also compelled to retire at the age of 55 under a stringent rule which permits them to retain office only in special cases with the sanction of the Secretary of State.

The position of the Licensed Pilot Service is quite different. This portion of the service was established in 1856, because the members of the regular service were unable to cope with the work. They have no privileges as regards pension or allowances when on leave, and they did not receive their licenses for any particular term of years. Although, however, the licenses may be technically revocable, Government has respected their claims as far as possible, and has passed rules for the purpose of equalising promotion in the two branches. There is no actual rule necessitating the retirement of these pilots at any particular age, but the practical effect of the orders which have been passed in particular cases has been to extend to them the general rule applicable to the Uncovenanted Service, under which the retirement of an officer is not enforced if the Lieutenant-Governor considers him fit to perform his duty.

3. The annual report of the Port Officer for 1886-87 shows that for the last 10 years the average tonnage of the shipping visiting the Port has increased, while the average number of vessels visiting the Port has decreased. A comparison of the two quinquennial periods—1877-78 to 1881-82 and 1882-83 to 1886-87—shows that the average tonnage of vessels entering the Port rose from 1,567 tons in the former to 1,870 tons in the latter period; while on the other hand the average number of vessels entering the Port fell from 1,058 to 1,038. In the year 1886-87 the average tonnage of vessels entering the Port was 2,002, while the number of vessels was 1,020. This increase in the average tonnage, combined with the decrease in the actual number of ships, has necessarily given an increasing share of the work to the senior pilots; and while the position of the junior pilots has grown steadily worse, the higher grades, or at least the Branch Pilots and the elder members of the Senior Master grade, have been earning large incomes. Nor is this inequality in earnings the only evil result; for the juniors, by this enforced idleness, are likely to lose their knowledge of the river, and their confidence in handling a ship. A remedy for this state of things has twice been sought in a redistribution of tonnage amongst the different grades of pilots. The following table shows the alterations which have been made:—

	Tonnage up to 1881.	As fixed in 1881.	As fixed in 1885.
	Tons.	Tons.
Branch Pilots	Above 1,600 ...	Above 1,700 ...	2,000 tons and upwards
Senior Masters ...	800 to 1,600 ..	801 to 1,700 ...	800 to 2,000 tons.
Junior „		801 to 1,350 ..	800 to 1,450 „
Mates	Up to 800 ...	Up to 800 ...	Up to 900 „

The Committee appointed in 1881 also showed that 60 pilots would be sufficient to work the shipping in the Hooghly, and suggested that from 1886 the number should be reduced to that number. This suggestion, which commended itself to the Lieutenant-Governor, was approved by the Government of India.

4. The last redistribution of tonnage took effect from the 1st February 1885; but it is clear from the subjoined table that the increase in the average tonnage of the ships has more than counterbalanced the effects of it:—

Year.	Number of vessels of the tonnage available for the grade.	Average monthly number of vessels actually piloted by each pilot.	Number of pilots at work on 1st January, excluding special pilots.	Average monthly earnings of an individual of each grade for each month of actual work

* The Senior Masters may, however, pilot also the vessels shown as available for the Junior Masters' grade

For the purpose of improving the position of the Junior Masters and the Mates, the time of service in the Junior Master's grade has been reduced from 5 to 3 years; while Government has undertaken to pay the actual expenses, within certain limits, of Mate Pilots proceeding to the Sandheads in search of work. It is clear, however, from the figures given above, that much more than this is required. The Lieutenant-Governor has accordingly decided to refer the whole question for consideration and report to a representative Committee, to be constituted as follows:—

The Hon'ble H. J. Reynolds, C.S.I., Chairman of the Port Commissioners, Calcutta ... ... Chairman.

Mr. J. L. Mackay, nominated by the Bengal Chamber of Commerce.
Captain A. W. Stiffe, Port Officer, Calcutta.
Mr. F. T. Rayner, Senior Master Pilot.
„ F. T. Paine, Mate Pilot.
} Members.

As the Government of India has desired that the question of compulsory retirement raised in Mr. Daly's case should be considered in connection with these questions, this subject also will form the subject of a report by the Committee.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

COLMAN MACAULAY,

Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph, and from observations made at 6h, 10h, 16h, and 22h.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

CALCUTTA, the 14th February 1888.

SUMMARY OF THE RAINFALL AND METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 10TH OF FEBRUARY 1888.

THE weather in Bengal during the previous week had been characterised by exceptionally low temperatures, and by the presence of the cold-weather conditions generally in a strongly pronounced form. At the close of that week, however, temperature had commenced to increase very rapidly, and this was accompanied by a rapid fall of pressure, and on the 4th the fall at some stations equalled about a tenth of an inch. The falling pressure and increasing temperature continued on the 5th, but conditions were reversed on the 6th, and a rapid rise of pressure was recorded which was succeeded on the 7th by a fall in the mean temperature of from 3° to 5°. This was, however, only a temporary reversal, and on the 7th, 8th, and 9th pressure steadily fell, the fall on the 9th being rapid, and on this day a distinct area of low pressure was developed over Orissa and the neighbouring parts of West Bengal. This diffused depression afterwards drifted in an easterly direction, and on the 10th pressure was low over South-East Bengal.

The first sign of the commencement of the disturbed conditions was that on the 8th the sky clouded over rapidly in the western districts of the province, and on the 9th the formation of the depression was accompanied by general rain over South-West Bengal and Chutia Nagpur, while showers also fell in Orissa and South Behar. On the 10th, with the movement of the depression in an easterly direction, rain became general over the whole of the province, except Benar and parts of Chutia Nagpur. On both days falls of an inch and upwards were rather numerous. With the rainfall which occurred at the end of the week a rapid diminution of temperature took place, and from the 9th to the 10th at several stations maximum temperature fell more than 10°, while at Raneegunge the fall was no less than 15°. The changes then of meteorological conditions during the week have been large and sudden, pointing clearly to the existence of slightly disturbed conditions throughout the week.

Pressure.—The pressure variations during the week have already been alluded to, and it will be seen that on the whole there has been a decided fall. Thus during the previous week the mean pressure of the province had been 0·072 inch in excess of the normal. During the present week the mean excess has been reduced to 0·025 inch, but the mean pressure has been almost normal at such stations as Calcutta and Burdwan, showing clearly the effect of the low pressure area before referred to.

Temperature.—The variations of temperature have also been large, but on the whole temperature has risen decidedly during the week, and when the average maximum or day temperatures for the week in the different districts are compared with the averages of the previous week, it is found that there has been an increase of nearly 6° or an average increase of nearly a degree per day; in North Bengal the increase is as great as 8°, while in North Behar it is only 4°. The mean minimum or night temperatures have also increased during the week by about 5°, the extreme variations being from an increase of 7° in North Bengal to one of about 3° in South Behar and Chutia Nagpur. In the previous week temperature was largely below the normal, but the rapid increase during the present week has brought the mean temperature of the province above the normal by 1·5°. In North Bengal temperature is more than 3° above the normal.

The actual variations of temperature from the normal are best shown by the figures in the table below, where the average maximun, minimum and mean temperatures for the week at nine typical stations in different districts of the province are shown, and compared with the normal values for the same period. It will be seen that while the mean maximum temperature at the nine stations has been 1·1° below the normal value, the average minimum or night temperature at the same stations has been 2° in excess of the normal.

Rainfall—Has been heaviest in Orissa and South-West Bengal, the stations in these two meteorological divisions having received an average fall of from one to one-and-a-quarter inch, in Chutia Nagpur the fall has averaged about three-quarters of an inch, and in East Bengal about half and inch. The fall has been decidedly smaller in North Bengal, where it only averages three-tenths of an inch, while in Behar the fall has been so small that it has not averaged even a tenth of an inch.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Friday, the 10th of February 1888:—

A special census of the Europeans in the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken, as the census of this section of the community, taken in February 1881, was not reliable owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The number of the native census is as below, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table, except "Ann," the ratios under which have been omitted, inasmuch as the census of the Europeans above alluded to cannot be supposed as a basis of calculation owing to the results of the census undoubtedly not having been recorded under the authorised forms of correspondence.

General remarks on the fluctuation of principal staples carried over the East Indian Railway during five weeks ended 31st December 1887.

INCREASES.

Coal and coke.—There was an increase in the weight of upwards coal with a decrease in the earnings, and in downwards coal there was increase in both weight carried and freight earned. The decrease in the earnings of upwards despatches is due to lesser demands from the North-Western Railway, and the increase in downward traffic to heavier despatches to Sealdah, Chitpore and other stations on the Eastern Bengal State Railway vid the Jubilee Bridge; also to greater demand for coal for brick-burning.

Jute, raw.—Chiefly due to despatches from the Eastern Bengal State Railway vid the Jubilee Bridge.

Ghee.—The increase was chiefly in despatches from Howrah for linseed for immediate shipment to Europe.

Cocoanuts.—Due to reduction in charge for carriage.

Gram and Pulses—Other grains.—The increases shown under these staples are due to despatches from stations on the Loop Line and Dinapore district to stations in the North-West, owing to the scarcity referred to in the report for November having continued during the period under review.

Rice (husked and unhusked).—As with the staples referred to in the preceding paragraph, the despatches of rice were principally upwards to meet demands in the North-West for food-grains; hence this increase.

Government stores.—This increase was almost entirely in ammunition from Howrah.

Lac.—The increase was principally in despatches from Mirzapur owing to an active speculative demand from home.

Iron.—Due to improved demand in Calcutta for despatch to up-country marts.

Oil.—Chiefly in kerosine oil from Howrah.

Railway material, Foreign.—This increase was principally in despatches from vid Jubbulpore for the Indian Midland Railway.

Saltpetre.—The increases were in despatches to Calcutta partly for shipment to China.

Seeds.—The increase was chiefly in linseed to Howrah for export to Europe.

Sugar, refined and unrefined.—The principal increase was in the despatches from the Oudh and Rohilkhund Railway to this Company.

DECREASES.

Cotton.—The serious falling off in this important staple can only be attributed to the partial failure of the cotton crops owing to the heavy rains.

Piece-goods, European.—The decrease was principally in despatches from Howrah to stations on the North-West and the Punjab, and may be ascribed to the high prices ruling there for food-grains.

Indigo.—Succeeding a larger increase in November as compared with November 1886.

Turmeric.—Due to absence of demand.

Other fibres, raw.—Due to lesser demand in the Calcutta market.

Fruits, other kinds.—There was an increase in weight carried attended with a decrease in earnings; the former was due to short lead traffic in myrabolams from stations on the Jubbulpore line to Bombay, and the latter to the falling off in betel-nut traffic from Howrah.

Wheat.—This decrease is in continuation of those shown in all the previous months of the half-year, and is due to want of stocks.

Brass and copper.—Due to rise in the price of copper, owing to the French speculation.

Salt.—The decrease was chiefly in the despatches from Howrah.

Tobacco.—Due to ordinary fluctuation of trade.

The following notification is published for general information.

COLMAN MACAULAY,
Secretary to the Govt. of Bengal.

No. 771, dated Calcutta, the 11th February 1888.

NOTIFICATION—By the Govt. of India, Dept. of Finance and Commerce.

THE following rules made by the Governor-General in Council in exercise of the power conferred by the Indian Salt Act, 1882, are published under section 29 of the said Act :—

Preliminary.

1. These rules are applicable to the districts of the Orissa Division only.

Manufacture, Storage, and Sale of Salt under License.

2. No person who is not duly licensed in the manner hereinafter provided shall manufacture salt.

3. Any person wishing to manufacture salt shall apply for a license to the Assistant Commissioner of Salt Revenue in charge of the Division in which it is desired to carry on the manufacture, who may grant or withhold it as he shall see fit.

4. Each such license shall contain the name of the person to whom it is given ; shall specify the limits within which such manufacture shall be carried on, and the places where the salt so manufactured shall be stored ; shall expire on such date as may be stated therein ; and shall be subject to the following conditions :—

i.—The provisions of the Act and of all Rules duly made under it shall be strictly observed by the licensee, his agents, and servants.

ii.—None but good salt, capable in the judgment of the Assistant Commissioner of bearing the duty fixed from time to time by the Governor-General in Council under section 7 of the Act, shall be manufactured. The Salt Revenue Officer in charge of any Salt Store may refuse to permit the removal of any salt stored therein which he may consider not to be so capable, pending the decision of the Assistant Commissioner. All salt adjudged by the Assistant Commissioner to be inferior shall be destroyed in his presence, or in the presence of such officer as he may depute for the purpose, in such manner as he may direct.

iii.—On or before the first day of each month during which or any part of which—

(a) the manufacture of salt is in progress, or any salt remains unstored, in the licensee's Salt Works ; or

(b) any salt manufactured by the licensee remains in store in any Salt Store, the licensee shall, if required, pay into such Government treasury or sub-treasury as the Assistant Commissioner shall appoint, such sum as the Assistant Commissioner shall prescribe on account of the cost of the guarding establishments maintained by Government at such Salt Works or Salt Store ;

provided that, when the Salt Works of two or more licensees are so situated that they can be effectively supervised by a single establishment, or that when two or more licensees store their salt in a single Salt Store, one establishment only may be employed for the guarding of such Salt Works or Salt Store, as the case may be, and that the cost of it shall be recovered from the several licensees in such proportions as the Assistant Commissioner may direct.

Provided also that if, after the expiry of the license, it shall be found that the cost (the prescribed pensionary and leave allowance contributions included) of the Government guarding establishments actually employed at the Salt Works and Salt Store during the period of the currency of the license, or the licensee's proportion of such cost, as the case may be, has not exceeded five per centum of the revenue derived by Government during such period from the levy of duty on salt manufactured in the licensee's Salt Works and issued from the Salt Store for consumption on payment of duty, the whole amount of the monthly sums paid as aforesaid shall be refunded to the licensee; and that, if such cost or proportion thereof has exceeded five per centum of such revenue, in that case five per centum of such revenue shall be returned iv.—No alteration shall be made in the pans, wells, or other plant of the Salt Work as existing at the date of the license without written sanction from the Salt Revenue Officer in charge of the Circle.

v.—Any wilful breach of the conditions of his license by the licensee, or by his servants with his connivance and privity, or by his heirs, administrators or assigns, shall entail forfeiture or suspension of the license at the discretion of the Assistant Commissioner in addition to any penalty which may by law be imposed for such breach vi.—All salt remaining in any Salt Work, the license to manufacture salt at which has been cancelled or suspended, shall be stored in the appointed place within fifteen days of the date of such cancelment or suspension; and all salt manufactured in any such Salt Work, which shall be in store at such date or shall subsequently be brought into store as hereinbefore provided, shall be removed on payment of duty within six months of such date The Assistant Commissioner may cause any salt which may not be so stored after such period of fifteen days or which may remain in store after the expiry of such period of six months, to be stored, or to be put up to auction, and sold if the price offered be equal to the excise duty leviable thereon, as the case may be. If the Assistant Commissioner shall cause such salt to be stored, the cost of such storage, including the expenses of transport, if any, shall be recovered from the licensee. If such salt be so sold, and if the price bid be less than the excise duty leviable thereon, the Assistant Commissioner may cause the salt to be destroyed in such manner as he shall think fit.

Such licenses shall also be subject to such further conditions as the Assistant Commissioner may from time to time prescribe for the protection of the Government revenue.

5. The licensee shall commence and close manufacture within such dates as may be prescribed by the Assistant Commissioner, and shall at the commencement of each manufacturing season intimate in writing to the officer in charge of the Circle the number and extent of the pans which he intends to work in that season.

6. The licensee shall fence in the place of manufacture and the drying-grounds, and shall keep the fences in a proper state of repair to the satisfaction of the Assistant Commissioner, and shall refrain from injuring the same by entering or leaving the works by other than the authorised pathways. Permission will not be granted to commence manufacture in any year unless and until this condition is complied with.

7. All salt scraped shall be removed to the drying-ground before sunset of the same day. The officer in charge of the Works may order all salt not so removed to be destroyed in such manner as he shall deem fit.

8. Salt removed to the drying-ground shall be kept there only in such places as may be directed by the officer in charge of the Works.

9. Unless in the case of floods, or from other unavoidable necessity, salt shall be moved from the drying-grounds only to the Salt Store, and to the Salt Store only for the purpose of storage after permission to store has been obtained, at such times and in such quantities as may be ordered by the officer in charge of the Works.

10. In all cases in which he may consider it necessary for the protection of the revenue, the Assistant Commissioner may direct that no salt shall be moved from the drying-grounds to the Salt Store except in sealed bags, into each of which an equal weight or quantity of salt shall be placed, and under a written pass from the Salt Revenue Officer in charge of the Works. Such pass shall specify the name of the manufacturer, the number of his license, the route by which the salt is to be transported, the number of bags, and the date on which the pass is granted. A copy of every such pass shall be forwarded by the officer granting it to the Assistant Commissioner. All salt removed under such pass shall be weighed or estimated by measurement previous to such removal by the Salt Revenue establishments. The bags shall be sewn on the inside and sealed in such manner as the Assistant Commissioner may from time to time prescribe, and shall be conveyed direct and without unnecessary delay from the Works to the Salt Store by the route prescribed in the pass, which shall be delivered for record to the officer in charge of the Salt Store, without removal of the seals or undoing the fastenings or otherwise tampering with the bags or the abstraction of their contents. All expenses connected with the weighment and bagging of the salt and with the sealing of the bags shall be paid by the licensee.

11. If the whole or any portion of a consignment of salt despatched from the Works to the Salt Store be not delivered at the Salt Store within the time mentioned in the pass, or if any bag or bags comprised in any such consignment be found, on arrival at the Salt Store and on inspection by the officer in charge thereof, to have been tampered with by removal of the seal or seals, or in any other manner, the licensee shall, on demand in writing, pay to the Assistant Commissioner enhanced duty on the said consignment, or on the portion thereof which has not been so delivered, or on the salt contained, at the time of their despatch from the Works, in the bag or bags so tempered with, as the case may be, at such rate as the Assistant Commissioner shall direct, not being more than double the rate for the time being imposed by rule under section 7(a) of the Act on salt manufactured in the Orissa Division; and shall also, if so required, forthwith remove from the Salt Store the said consignment or portion thereof, if subsequently received at the Salt Store, or the bag or bags so tampered with, as the case may be. Any such consignment or portion thereof, if subsequently received at the Salt Store, or bag or bags appearing to have been tampered with, may be detained by the officer in charge of the Salt Store pending the orders of the Assistant Commissioner. If the owner of any such consignment, &c., as aforesaid shall refuse to pay enhanced duty as aforesaid, or if he shall fail or neglect so to pay within seven days after the receipt of demand, the Assistant Commissioner may sell the whole or any part of such consignment, if subsequently received at the Salt Store, in such manner and at such time and place as he may think fit, and may credit the proceeds to Government. Before a demand for enhanced duty is made on a licensee under this rule, the Assistant Commissioner must be satisfied that an offence under section 9 of the Act has been committed, and, where the salt exceeds five seers in weight, he must make the report required by section 13.

Provided always that no such demand for the payment of enhanced duty as aforesaid shall be made if the owner of any such consignment as aforesaid shall satisfy the Assistant Commissioner or his official superior that the failure to deliver the said consignment or any part thereof at the Salt Store within the time specified in the pass, or that the removal of the seal or seals from a bag or bags, or other appearance of tampering with a bag or bags, was due to stress of weather or to accidents occurring to the boats or vehicles used in the transport of such consignment, or to other unavoidable cause beyond his power of control.

12. If the officer in charge of the Salt Store be satisfied that salt delivered to him has been transported according to rule and to the conditions of the pass, if the salt has been removed from the Salt Works under pass, he shall permit the licensee to store the salt.

13. The salt shall be stored in such places and in such manner as the Assistant Commissioner may from time to time authorize and direct by the servants and at the expense of the licensee.

14. All salt shall be stored within forty-five days of the date on which it was made, and within thirty days of the date fixed for the closing of manufacture.

15. The Assistant Commissioner may extend the above period of forty-five days and thirty days respectively in case storage should be unavoidably delayed by rain or by any other sufficient cause.

16. If a licensee shall fail to store his salt within the periods above prescribed, the officer in charge of the Circle shall take such steps as he may consider necessary for its storage; and the cost of such storage shall be recovered from the licensee.

17. No salt so stored shall be permitted to be removed from the Store on sale and payment of duty until the cost of such storage has been paid by, or has been recovered from, such licensee.

18. The officer in charge of the Circle may refuse to allow the storage of salt which he considers to be insufficiently dried for storage.

19. All salt shall be weighed into store under the supervision and directions of a Salt Revenue Officer of such rank as the Assistant Commissioner shall appoint. The buildings in which storage is made shall be previously approved by the Assistant Commissioner, and shall be divided into compartments in such manner as he shall direct. In each such compartment, so long as so much salt shall be available for storage, an equal weight of salt, not being less than five hundred maunds, shall be stored. No additional storage will be allowed in any compartment from the salt contained in which any removals may have been made, except after the re-weighment of the remainder of the salt and before the resumption of removals from such remainder.

20. The licensee shall keep in a proper state of repair, to the satisfaction of the Assistant Commissioner, all buildings used for the storage of his salt. If he shall fail to begin any repairs which the Assistant Commissioner may order him to make within ten days of the receipt of a written notice from the Assistant Commissioner directing him to make such repairs, or shall fail to complete any such repairs within the time specified in such notice, the Assistant Commissioner may proceed to have such repairs executed, and may recover the cost thereof from the licensee.

21. The licensee shall provide and maintain suitable and secure fastenings to the buildings in which the salt is stored, to the satisfaction of the Assistant Commissioner, for the attachment of locks to be provided by Government. The keys of all such locks will be retained by the officer in charge of the Salt Store, but the licensee will be at liberty to affix his own locks also, provided that he shall always, on the requisition of the Assistant Commissioner or of the officer in charge of the Circle, or of the Salt Store, immediately remove his locks.

22. The Assistant Commissioner may, at his discretion, call on the licensee to store any sifted or refuse salt manufactured by him which may be lying unstored within the limits of the Salt Works, or, at the option of the licensee, to destroy the same. If the licensee shall fail either to store or to destroy such salt within ten days of the receipt of the order so to do, the Assistant Commissioner may cause such salt to be destroyed, and may recover the cost of such destruction from the licensee; and the Assistant Commissioner shall have authority to determine finally, and without appeal, whether any salt is sifted or refuse for the purposes of this rule.

23. Unless in the case of floods, or from other unavoidable necessity, no salt shall be removed from any Salt Store except for consumption on payment of duty under a permit.

24. Persons wishing to remove salt from a Salt Store for consumption on payment of duty shall first pay the charges due thereon into such Government treasury or sub-treasury as may from time to time be appointed and shall receive in return a receipt.

Fractions of quarter maunds shall be paid for as quarter maunds.

25. The receipt shall be presented with a written requisition to the Salt Revenue Officer in charge of the Salt Store, who will grant in lieu a permit for the removal of the salt, and will depute a subordinate officer to supervise its weighment and issue to the holder of the permit. If, however, the officer in charge of the Salt Store suspect the genuineness of the receipt or other fraud, he may refuse to issue the permit except under security equivalent to the full value of the salt covered by such receipt, together with the duty leviable thereon, and shall refer the case for the orders of his superior.

26. No permit will be granted for the removal of less than twenty-four maunds of salt at one time, except to complete the clearance of a compartment, or as a sample, for which latter purpose one maund of salt may be removed from each compartment on not more than three occasions.

27. Salt will only be issued on such days and at such times as the Assistant Commissioner may appoint for each Salt Store. All salt shall be removed on the day on which it is weighed out, and shall, for this purpose, be placed in bags, to be provided by the holder of the permit to the satisfaction of the officer in charge of the Salt Store, into each of which the same weight of salt shall be placed. When the weighment and bagging of the salt is completed, the bags will be retained, until check-weighed by an Inspector or Assistant Inspector, who will countersign the permit, and allow the removal of the salt.

28. If on check-weighment of any consignment of salt by an Inspector or Assistant Inspector as aforesaid it is found to exceed the quantity entered in the permit, the following practice shall be observed by the Inspector or Assistant Inspector:—

(a) If the excess is not more than one per cent., he shall allow the consignment to pass unquestioned.

(b) If the excess exceeds one per cent., he shall—

(1) if the officer in charge of the Circle, and if satisfied on enquiry that an offence punishable under section 9 of the Act has been committed, either detain the whole consignment and make complaint to a Magistrate and institute proceedings with a view to the confiscation of such salt, or release the consignment on payment of such penalty under section 13 of the Act as he may think proper, provided that no salt shall be released on payment of a penalty if the excess shall exceed 3 per cent., except under the orders of the Assistant Commissioner; or

(2) if subordinate to the officer in charge of the Circle, detain the whole consignment and report the matter without delay for the orders of the officer in charge of the Circle, who shall dispose of it in the manner last hereinbefore provided.

29. All salt shall be weighed, both when stored and also when removed on payment of duty, with the scales provided by Government for the purpose, in such manner as the Assistant Commissioner may from time to time direct.

30. No storage or removals of salt will be allowed on Sundays or authorized holidays, or on days on which, in the opinion of the officer in charge of the Store, the state of the weather is such as to render storage or removals unadvisable.

31. Licensees shall furnish the labour for conveying the machines and weights to be used in the storage and removal of salt from the place where they may be to the place where they may be required to be used for storage and removals. The licensee for the storage or removal of whose salt any machines or weights are last used on any day shall supply the labour for replacing the same in the place where they are usually kept, and for cleaning the same to the satisfaction of the officer in charge.

32. Licensees shall be responsible for all damage, other than fair wear and tear, done to machines or weights in the storage or removal of their salt.

33. Nothing in these rules shall apply to the manufacture of salt by or on behalf of Government.

34. The Assistant Commissioner may prescribe all forms necessary for the administration of the Act.

Protected Area, and the Possession, Transport, and Sale of Salt therein.

35. The area defined for the purpose of section 6, clause (e), round the Salt Works of Orissa shall extend to a distance of two miles from the boundary of each panga Salt Work on all sides. Such areas are termed "protected areas."

36. No person shall possess or transport more than one seer of salt within a protected area, unless it be—

(i) protected by a rawánah;
(ii) within the boundaries of a salt work;
(iii) in transit from a salt work to a salt store;
(iv) in the possession of an officer of Government;
(v) in the possession of a person licensed under Rule 44.

37. Rawánahs for the transport of salt within protected areas will be issued by the officer in charge of the Salt Store from which the salt is removed, or by such officers as the Assistant Commissioner may appoint for the purpose.

38. Rawánahs shall be current and valid for such periods as the officer issuing them may fix as reasonable and sufficient to allow of the salt reaching its destination or passing beyond the limits of the protected area or areas concerned, as the case may be. The date on which the currency of a rawánah terminates shall be specified therein.

39. An officer issuing a rawánah may specify therein the route by which the salt shall be removed, and such rawánah shall not be valid except along the route so specified. He may also specify the hour at which the currency of a rawánah shall terminate.

40. Every rawánah shall be returned to the Inspector of the Circle in which it was issued, either by hand or by means of a registered letter within seven days of the termination of the period for which it was current.

41. Rawánahs shall always accompany the salt to which they refer, and shall be produced on demand for the inspection of any officer of the Salt or Police Department. Such officer shall be at liberty to endorse such remarks thereon as he may think fit.

42. Any officer of the Salt or Police Department may detain any consignment of salt covered by a rawánah within a protected area for the purpose of weighing the same. Such weighment shall be made by such officer as the Inspector of the Circle may generally or specially appoint for the purpose.

43. If on weighment of salt so detained it is found to exceed the quantity entered in the rawánah, the weighing officer shall proceed as prescribed in Rule 28.

44. The Assistant Commissioner may issue licenses for the possession and retail sale of salt within any protected area, subject to such conditions as he may from time to time prescribe. Such license shall only cover the possession and sale of salt within the licensee's shop, the position of which shall be clearly defined therein.

45. Every person retailing salt under such a license shall keep a register of sales written up daily, and such other accounts as the Assistant Commissioner may prescribe, and shall permit any officer of the Salt Department, of not lower grade than a Sub-Inspector, to examine such accounts on demand, and to weigh the salt in store on his premises.

46. On the arrival of a consignment of salt at the shop of any licensed vendor, he shall within twenty-four hours notify its receipt in writing to the Inspector of the Circle, specifying in such notice the number and date of the rawánah, the quantity and description of the salt covered thereby, and the store from which it was obtained.

47. Every person licensed to sell salt within a protected area under Rule 44 shall, on the first day of each month, submit to the Inspector of the Circle within which his shop is situated a statement signed by him specifying the quantity of salt received and sold by him in the previous month. Such statement shall be in such form and shall contain such particulars as the Assistant Commissioner may from time to time prescribe.

48. Clause V of Rule 4 shall apply to licenses for the retail sale of salt within protected areas.

Disposal of persons arrested.

49. Salt Revenue Officers who may make arrests shall, unless empowered under the ante-penultimate paragraph of section 20, at once send the persons arrested, with any independent witnesses whose attendance they may be able to secure, to the nearest police station, at the same time making a full report of the circumstances under which the arrest was made through the Inspector of the Circle, to the Assistant Commissioner.

Seizure, disposal, or destruction of things liable to be seized or destroyed under the Act.

50. All property seized by Salt Revenue Officers as liable to confiscation under the Act shall be sent for safe custody to the officer in charge of the Circle, or to the nearest Salt Store or police station, as most convenient.

51. When property is sent to a police station, it shall be accompanied by a written request to receive and retain it.

52. When illicitly manufactured salt is thus handed over to the police, the senior police officer present at the station shall, in the presence of the witnesses to the seizure and of the accused person, if present, after weighing and recording the weight of each, take from each distinct kind or quality of salt seized (if there be more than one such kind or quality) three samples of not less than 5 tolahs each, which he shall seal with the official seal of the police station, and, after numbering them, deliver two of them to the officer who made the seizure, recording at the same time, on the printed form of request to receive the property which will be presented to him, a note specifying the total weight of each kind seized, according to the weighments made before him, and the corresponding numbers of the samples. The remainder of the salt and the third sample shall be sealed up with the seals of the officer who made the seizure and of the police station, and shall remain in a secure place in such station till such time as a written order shall be sent by the officer in charge of the Circle, either for the destruction of the articles seized, which shall be carried into effect by the officer presenting such request in the presence of some officer of the police station, and the same certified on the reverse of the order, or for the delivery of the same, or part thereof, as the case may be, to the bearer of the order for production in Court.

53. When salt is delivered at a Salt Store for safe custody, the officer in charge thereof shall adopt the same course with respect thereto as is in Rule 52 prescribed for adoption by the police.

54. When a seizure is made by an officer in charge of a circle in person, or when salt is delivered to any such officer under Rule 50, he may either follow the foregoing procedure, deputing one of his subordinates present at the seizure to take the salt to the police station and receive the samples, or he may himself on the spot take out and seal up the samples and the rest of the seized salt with his own seal. He may then either take the salt seized with him to deposit where he considers it will be safest, or send it for deposit to the nearest or most accessible Salt Store or police station, to be kept, as in the previous case, until further orders. If, however, an officer in charge of a Circle himself seals the salt, he must in the event of the identity of the salt produced in Court being denied by the accused, be prepared to attend and prove the same in person.

55. When any property other than illicitly manufactured salt is sent for safe custody to an officer in charge of a Circle, or to a Salt Store, or to a police station, such officer, or the officer in charge of the Salt Store or police station, as the case may be, shall make such arrangements as he shall think fit, and as shall be suitable, according to the nature of the case, for the safe custody of such property, pending the orders of a Magistrate, or of the officer in charge of the Circle, or of the Assistant Commissioner, or of the Commissioner of the Division, as the case may be.

56. When anything is seized and detained under the Act or the rules made under the Act, it shall not be released until all duty, penalties, and charges due on account thereof have been paid by the owner to the officer who is in possession of such thing.

If the thing is reported for confiscation, it shall not be released unless orders for the release are received from competent authority.

57. If the property so seized and detained shall be an animal, the owner shall provide for its due care and keep, in default of which the animal may be sold to defray charges.

58. If orders are received from competent authority for the release of anything seized and detained, and no duty or penalty is payable in respect of such thing, it shall at once be given up to the owner or his agent on his paying all charges incurred.

59. Should no one be present to receive the thing released, the officer in charge thereof shall do his best to give notice to the owner of the order of the release, and shall cause a similar notice to be affixed on the office premises, at the Assistant Commissioner's office, and at the police station nearest to the owner's residence.

If within two calendar months from the date of the notice no person, entitled to receive the thing, claim it and pay all charges incurred, it shall be sold and the proceeds placed in deposit. After a further period of three calendar months, the money shall be credited to the Government.

60. If any duty is leviable or penalty is imposed by competent authority in respect of the thing seized, unless such duty or penalty, together with all charges incurred, be paid within seven days of the receipt of the orders of competent authority for release subject to such payment, the thing shall be sold, and from the proceeds the duty, penalty and charges shall be deducted, and the balance made over to the owner or his agent.

Should no one be present to receive the money, notice, as under Rule 59, shall be given, the money being kept in deposit for three calendar months.

If not claimed within the period, it shall be credited to the Government.

61. When orders are received from competent authority for the confiscation of anything seized and detained, it shall, with all convenient despatch, be sold or destroyed as the Assistant Commissioner of Salt Revenue may direct.

62. When a Magistrate orders the confiscation of works, materials or implements under section 9 of the Act, they shall be sold or destroyed by dismantling or otherwise under the orders of the Assistant Commissioner of Salt Revenue.

General.

63. All Salt Revenue Officers and all gazetted officers of other departments shall at all time have free passage over all works for the manufacture of salt at which a license has been granted under these rules.

64. The Assistant Commissioner may establish such guard stations at and around Salt Works and Salt Stores as he shall think necessary for the safety of the revenue, and may require that all salt removed from Salt Works for transport to a Salt Store, or from a Salt Store for consumption on payment of duty, shall be taken direct to such guard station as he shall prescribe for examination and comparison with the quantity and other particulars entered in the pass or permit. The Salt Revenue Officer in charge of any such guard station may detain any such consignment of salt which he may find not to correspond with the entries in the pass or permit, pending the orders of the officer in charge of the Circle.

65. Under such general rules as the Assistant Commissioner shall prescribe, all Salt Revenue Officers, not below the rank of Assistant Inspector, shall be at liberty to examine and weigh the salt in store in any Salt Store at any time.

66. The licensee and his servants shall have access to the places where salt is manufactured and stored only during such hours as the Assistant Commissioner may fix for the purpose.

Appeals.

67. Subject to the provisions of these Rules, any person dissatisfied with an order passed by a Salt Revenue Officer may appeal to the immediate superior of such officer. All such appeals shall be accompanied by authenticated copies of the orders appealed against, and shall be forwarded through the officer whose orders are appealed against. For the purposes of this rule, the immediate superior of an Assistant Commissioner, who is an Assistant Commissioner of the Madras Salt Department, shall be the Deputy Commissioner of Salt and Abkari Revenue of the Northern Division, Madras Presidency, and the immediate superior of an Assistant Commissioner, who is a Deputy Commissioner of the Madras Salt Department, shall be the Commissioner of Salt and Abkari Revenue, Madras Presidency. An order passed on an appeal by the Commissioner of Salt and Abkari Revenue, Madras Presidency, shall be final.

Chief Secy. to the Govt. of Bengal.

NOTIFICATION—JUDICIAL.

The 16th February, 1888.

No. 300.—In accordance with the provisions of section 37, sub-section (1), of the Births, Deaths, and Marriages Registration Act, No. VI of 1886, the Governor-General in Council is pleased to publish, for general information, the following draft rules which His Excellency in Council proposes to make under sections 26, 28, and 36 of the Act.

The draft will be taken into consideration on the expiration of two months from the date of this Notification:—

In exercise of the powers conferred by sections 26, 28 and 36 of the Births, Deaths and Marriages Registration Act, 1886, the Governor-General in Council is pleased to make the following rules:—

1. In these rules, unless there is something repugnant in the subject or context,—

(1) "the Act" means the Births, Deaths and Marriages Registration Act, 1886:

(2) "schedule" means a schedule to these rules:

(3) "Registrar-General" and "Registrar" mean, respectively, a Registrar-General of Births, Deaths and Marriages and a Registrar of Births and Deaths appointed under the Act: and

(4) "sign", used with reference to a person who is unable to write his name, includes mark.

2. Notices of births and deaths shall be in the forms set forth in Schedule A and Schedule B, respectively.

3. Every such notice shall be signed by the person giving it, and shall specify the capacity in which the person claims to be authorized to give it.

4. Every such notice shall ordinarily be presented to the Registrar for the local area in which the birth or death occurred within three months of the date of the birth or death to which it refers, as the case may be:

Provided that the Registrar may, of his own authority, for any reason which he considers sufficient, accept notice of a birth or death at any time within six months from the date of its occurrence, and with the special sanction in writing of the Registrar-General, after that time.

5. An appeal against an order of a Registrar refusing to register a birth or death on any other ground than that referred to in proviso (a) to section 19 of the Act shall lie to the Registrar-General, who may, in his discretion, either confirm the order of the Registrar or direct him to register the birth or death.

6. Registers of births and deaths shall be kept in the forms set forth in Schedule C and Schedule D, respectively.

7. When a birth or death has occurred during a journey, or when the person giving notice of a birth or death was compelled by duty, or urgent necessity, or unavoidable accident, to leave the local area in which such birth or death occurred, so soon after its occurrence that he was unable to give the prescribed notice to the Registrar for that local area, any Registrar may receive notice of such birth or death, and register the same as if it were a birth or death which had occurred within the local area for which he has been appointed.

8. The provisions of rule 4, as to the time within which notice of a birth or death must be given, shall apply to every notice of a birth or death given under the circumstances described in the last foregoing rule.

9. In every case of a birth or death admitted to registration under rule 7, the Registrar to whom the notice of the birth or death is given shall record in his register the reason why the notice was not given to the Registrar of the local area within which the birth or death occurred, and shall, within one week from the date of the registration of the birth or death, forward to the Registrar-General, and to the Registrar of the local area within which the birth or death occurred, a copy of the entry in the register relating to the birth or death.

Every Registrar shall paste into a book kept by him for the purpose all copies of entries received by him under this rule, and the book containing the copies shall be, at all reasonable times, open to inspection by any person desiring to inspect it.

10. The Registrar for any local area including a port may register any birth or death which has occurred on the high seas on board any ship arriving at such port:

Provided that notice of the birth or death is given to such Registrar within sixty days after the arrival of the ship.

In the notice of such birth or death, and in the entry thereof in the register, there shall be specified, in lieu of the name of the place at which, the name of the ship on which, the event occurred, and the name of the Commander of the ship and the approximate latitude and longitude of the ship's position at the time of the birth or death.

11. Every certificate of registration of a birth or death given by a Registrar under section 23 of the Act shall be in the form set forth in Schedule E.

12. At the foot of every copy of an entry given under section 9 or section 25 of the Act there shall be written a certificate, dated and subscribed by the Registrar-General or officer authorized under section 9, or by the Registrar, as the case may be, that the copy is a true copy of the entry.

13. Every Registrar shall keep, in the form set forth in Schedule F, a register of all certificates of registration and copies of entries given by him.

Every Registrar-General shall keep a register in a similar form of all copies given by him of entries in the certified copies of the registers sent to his office.

14. The copies of entries of births and deaths which Registrars are required by section 24 of the Act to send to the Registrar-General, shall be certified in the form set forth in Schedule G, and shall be sent at intervals of three months, on or as nearly as possible after the 1st January, April, July and October in each year.

Should no entries be made in a register during the preceding three months, a certificate to this effect shall be sent to the Registrar-General.

15. The indexes which are required by section 7 of the Act to be made of the certified copies of registers of births, deaths and marriages sent to the office of the Registrar-General shall be in the forms set forth in Schedule H, Schedule I and Schedule J, respectively.

Every entry in an index shall be made alphabetically with reference to the initial letter of the name of the person indicated by the entry.

In the index of certified copies of entries of marriages, the names of both the husband and the wife must be indexed.

In the case of a person of European descent the initial letter will be the first letter of the surname, and in the case of any other person, the first letter of his name, and not that of his rank, title or class.

16. A Registrar may, of his own motion, correct, in manner prescribed in section 28 of the Act, any error in form made in an entry of a birth or death in a register of births or register of deaths kept by him under the Act.

In every case in which an entry is corrected under this rule, intimation thereof shall (if practicable) be communicated, within one week from the date of the correction being made, to the person who gave the notice of the birth or death.

17. When an error in substance in any entry of a birth or death in a register of births or register of deaths is asserted to have been made, the Registrar may correct the error, in manner prescribed in section 28 of the Act, on application made in writing, and signed in the presence of two witnesses attesting the signature, by any person authorised under section 20 or 21, as the case may be, to give notice of the birth or death to which the entry relates:

Provided that the Registrar is satisfied that the application is well-founded.

An appeal against an order of a Registrar under this rule refusing to correct an asserted error in an entry in a register shall lie to the Registrar-General, who may, in his discretion, either confirm the order of the Registrar or direct him to correct the error.

18. Without the special sanction in writing of the Registrar-General, an application for the correction of an entry in a register of births or register of deaths shall not be entertained after the expiration of one year from the date on which the notice of the birth or death was given.

19. The sums specified in Schedule K shall be the fees payable under the sections of the Act there referred to:

Provided that soldiers and non-commissioned officers of Her Majesty's Regular Forces and all seamen shall be exempted from the payment of any fees.

20. Every Registrar-General and Registrar shall keep a register, in the form set forth in Schedule L, of all fees realised under these rules, and shall forward the fees at the end of each month to the nearest treasury to be credited to Government. The treasury officer shall give the Registrar a certificate of the amount so credited, and the Registrar shall send a copy of the certificate to the Registrar-General.

Such refund shall be made under the orders of the Magistrate.

CALCUTTA AND SUBURBAN MUNICIPALITIES AMALGAMATION BILL.

THE HON. SIR HENRY HARRISON moved that the clauses of Chapter II, Part I, of the Bill to consolidate and amend the law relating to the municipal affairs of the Town and Suburbs of Calcutta be further considered for settlement in the form recommended by the Select Committee.

The motion was put to the vote and carried.

The HON. SIR HENRY HARRISON moved that in line 2 of section 9, for the words "(e) or (f)" the words "or (e)" be substituted.

The motion was put to the vote and carried.

The HON. SIR HENRY HARRISON moved that in line 1 of the fifth paragraph of section 9, for the words "a person qualified under clauses (a), (e) or (f)" the words "a person claiming to vote under clauses (a) or (e)" be substituted. He explained that this was a verbal alteration, the only difference being the substitution of the words "claiming to vote" for "qualified."

The motion was put to the vote and carried.

The HON. BABU KALI NATH MITTER moved that section 10 be omitted. He said:—This is an innovation introduced by the Select Committee. It was not in the Bill as it had been passed by the Committee on the former occasion In his speech in Council on the 7th January last, Sir Henry Harrison by way of justification for this novel measure said:—

"It seemed to have been left out of sight altogether, he did not say by all persons, but by many, and he could cite several of the reports which had been addressed to this Council in illustration of this, that there was a middle course which widely differed in principle from this allegiance to majorities, viz., that it was advisable and expedient in the highest sense, in the cause of good government, that those classes and persons in the town who were most fitted to understand its interests and guide its administration wisely, should be associated together in that administration, and that, as these classes knew best who understood their views and their wants, they should not have representatives chosen for them by the Government, but should elect their own representatives as Commissioners. This principle held up fitness and not numbers as the final test, and nomination was expressly maintained side by side with election on purpose to secure a proper voice to the classes who possessed fitness without numbers. He himself had no doubt, and he thought that most of those he was addressing would agree, that this was the truer interpretation of the intention of the Legislature in introducing the elective system, and at any rate it was the only sound principle which could be applied to the government of a city like Calcutta. This was the view of the electoral system which he had consistently held from the time he had had any voice in the government of Calcutta, and he had observed that it led to continual misrepresentation of his views on one side or the other. If he said anything or wrote anything deprecating the divine right of majorities, he was accused of backsliding and of advocating official absolutism. If he said anything in praise of the good work done by the elected representatives, it was at once assumed that he was desirous of seeing democratic institutions introduced into India, or at least into Calcutta. Now the question of the plural vote did seem to him to have some bearing on this very important principle. We naturally took the English electoral system as our model, and there we found two systems working in local bodies: the system of one-man-one-vote and the plural vote. If anything, the plural vote seemed the more favoured, but in boroughs the one-man-one-vote system was the law."

This change was made owing to the representation made by the Trades' Association. They object to the plural voto as it exists at present, on the ground that certain classes of persons get an advantage which they should not derive, and they suggested that the system of allowing the plural vote as it exists should be disallowed. On that suggestion the Select Committee thought fit to introduce this section in the Bill. It seems that if the present system of plural voting is objectionable, the mode of remedying it should be to abolish it, and not to allow different classes of the community still further power of plural voting. In all the elections of Town Councillors in English cities and boroughs, this system was not followed; the system of one-man-one-vote was rigidly adhered to. It was at parochial elections that plural voting was allowed, but such elections were different from those of Town Councillors, and were not so important. That being so, it seems to me that it would be infinitely better to take our precedent from the rules regulating elections in large towns and not from those which prevail in parishes. It is obvious that if the system proposed in the Bill be adopted, one of the principal communities in Calcutta would suffer very much—I mean the Mahomedan community. In the first place they will suffer because the small number of Commissioners hitherto returned by them will be reduced by two, inasmuch as only two Commissioners will be allowed to each ward, instead of as at present three to some, which enabled them to return in each of the two latter wards one Commissioner from their body; and secondly, they will suffer, inasmuch as being a comparatively poor community they will not have the advantage of plural votes. It is a singular fact that all the Mahomedan Associations have unanimously objected to the system of plural voting, and entered their protest against it. The Mahomedan Commissioners have also in a body objected to it. In paragraph 4 of their representation they say:—

"We now come to the most important sections—we mean sections 10 11, and 12—which provide for plurality of votes. It is a well-known fact that of all the three sections of the community, the Mahomedans are the poorest, their proportion to Hindus as regards landed property is concerned is not even 1 to 200; while their proportion to Christians as regards income is not even 1 to 100; such being the case, the result of these sections cannot but be most prejudicial to Mahomedan interests. It is stated that it has been the rule in England to recognise plurality of votes in measures of local self-government, and in support of their contention, the Select Committee have cited three Acts passed in different years. But we have learnt (vide Hon. Kali Nath Mitter's speech at the Municipal meeting of the 21st) that there is no town or borough in the whole of England enjoying the privilege of electing Town Councillors where the system of plurality of votes is allowed."

and they conclude by saying:—

"It is true that the plural voto has hitherto been exercised in Calcutta. Members of Hindu and Mahomedan families had the privilege of voting separately, but so had the Europeans, each member of a firm or each of the occupiers of a house, if he paid proportionately Rs. 25, was entitled to vote separately."

Then they have given a tabular statement, showing that, if the plural vote is allowed, they will suffer as well as the Europeans. How far that is a correct description of what is likely to happen I leave the hon. member in charge of the Bill to say. There can be no doubt that the adoption of the proposed measure will injure the prospects of the Mahomedans, and it may also injure the prospects of the Christian inhabitants of the town. I have not gone through the statistics with that amount of care necessary to be able to say whether that will be the inevitable result, but I have no doubt the hon. member in charge of the Bill will be able to enlighten us on the subject. So far, however, as the Mahomedans are concerned there is no difference of opinion. Now let us see what the Hindus say. The Indian Association in their representation of the 26th January say:—

"The Committee would beg to record their humble but emphatic protest against the principle of plurality of votes which has been recognised in sections 10 and 11 of the Bill. These proposals, the Committee submit, are distinctly retrogressive in their scope, and they will serve to perpetuate invidious distinctions between voters. They cannot fail to concentrate enormous influence in determining the elections in the hands of a few wealthy families and mercantile firms. The Committee are not altogether without apprehension of particular wards being converted into pocket-boroughs by the operation of these clauses. Further, the clauses will operate with special hardship upon the Mahomedan community, the members of which are not generally wealthy, and for the most part live in houses that are not heavily rated. The Committee would in this connection refer to the provisions of the Mofussil Municipal Act to which some attention should be paid, as it is now proposed to incorporate a Mofussil Municipality. Under the Mofussil Municipal Act the one-man-one-vote principle prevails to such an extent that within the limits of the same Municipality a voter is not even allowed to have votes for different wards though he may have property in them. And the Committee submit that it is a salutary principle, as it prevents particular families and special interests from acquiring that preponderance in the Municipality which would be fatal to the interests of local self-government."

The Indian Association, it is well known, represent the middle classes of the people, who will not be benefited by this system to the extent that they will be injured. Therefore their representation will not necessarily attract that amount of sympathy from the Council as that from another body who will mostly be benefited by this provision, and who are yet strenuously opposed to it. It is a fact impossible to deny that of all persons in the town the members of the British Indian Association will be mostly benefited by the plural vote, inasmuch as they represent the landed proprietors of the town, and necessarily will have a larger number of votes given to them. They say:—

"The Select Committee urge that if the one-man-one-vote principle is adopted, 'it is certain that as the poorer rate-payers, who will everywhere be the majority, learn to use their power, the status of those who present themselves for election will gradually but inevitably decline; while if wealth is given its due weight, better and more influential persons will be willing to offer themselves for election.' The Committee of the Association regret very much that they cannot subscribe to such a doctrine. If it were sound, the best course to follow would be to limit the franchise to the wealthy alone by raising the limit of qualification to a sum far higher than Rs. 25. The Parliamentary franchise has been gradually extended to include less wealthy classes than before, but it may be allowed that the status of members of the House of Commons has not suffered by the change. The qualification of a candidate in the Bill has been reduced to half of what it is under the law in force. If the status of the candidates was at all in question, the limit assigned to the qualification should have been raised, not lowered.

"The Select Committee ask: 'Are all rate-payers, who contribute up to a certain minimum, to be placed on an equal footing, or are those who contribute most, and who, in the great majority of cases, are better qualified to judge of the needs of the Town, to have a more influential voice?' The last question involves a solecism. It can hardly be maintained that the ranks of those who pay most alone include persons who are qualified to judge of the needs of the Town; they may as well be found among those who pay least. The Committee would prefer to have, in the election of a candidate, the opinion of all such persons, whether found among the most or the least paying, and are unhesitatingly in favour of placing all rate-payers possessing the franchise on an equal footing."

Of the whole number of representations which have been received on this subject, all are in favour of this principle, except the Calcutta Trades' Association, which is not very much in favour of it, though it has accepted it. In their letter, dated 24th January, they say in paragraph 7:—

"The Committee have given their best attention to the provisions of sections 10 and 11, and are prepared to accept them as an improvement on the legislation hitherto proposed on this all-important matter. They cannot, however, but consider that too much weight is being still accorded to the owners of property at the expense of the tenants, and are of opinion that the scale for additional votes under section 10 should be reduced."

That is the only body, so far as the public is concerned, which is in favour of the system, whereas the representations of all other bodies are against it. Now as to whether it is a retrograde movement or not. Our predecessors in 1876 thought fit not to sanction anything of this kind, but they went so far as to object to the plural vote as it exists at present. At one period they were decidedly opposed to giving separate votes to individuals who possessed property in different wards, but ultimately, on the motion of the late Hon. Kristodas Pal, the Council was pleased to sanction plural voting as it now exists. The privilege, however, was of such a limited character that it would not justify the Council now to enlarge it, but rather, considering the objections against it, it would be necessary to curtail it. Finding so many persons opposed to the system of plural voting, I am not prepared to agree to such an innovation in the law.

The Hon. Moulvie Abdul Jubbar in supporting the motion said:—It does great credit to the hon. member to ask for the omission of section 10, and thus to plead the cause of the poorer classes of tax-payers. This section would not so much affect the interests of the community to which he belongs, but it affects seriously the interests of my poorer fellow-subjects, the Mahomedans. The principle of plurality of votes will not prejudice the Hindu rate-payers; but, as already observed by the hon. member, it will lay the axe to the root of the election of Mahomedans. If the new sections 10 and 11 of the Bill are not expunged, it will make the cause of the Mahomedans worse than it is; their return at the general elections will depend entirely on the suffrages of the Hindu electors.

The Hon. Dr. Gooroo Das Banerjee said:—I also support this amendment, which is in fact also an amendment of my own, and the object of which is to omit the provisions in the Bill relating to the scheme of plural voting. I do not contend that the principle of one-man-one-vote is always a perfect principle. But I oppose the scheme of the Bill—first, because it is not based on any sound principle or sufficient precedent; secondly, because it is not required to remove any inequality or injustice; thirdly, because it would be a source of evil in itself. And I adhere to the existing scheme, because under present circumstances the balance of convenience is greatly in favour of it. As the question involved is a very important one of principle, I beg leave to submit my reasons for it. Now the principle on which the scheme of the Bill is based is stated by the Select Committee to consist in "recognising the right of those who contribute most to the maintenance of the Corporation to a more potent voice in electing the governing body." That would be justifiable only if it were true that all rate-payers had votes, and the duties of Municipal Commissioners consisted only in the application of the municipal funds, so as to give to the different classes of the rate-payers advantages proportional to their contributions. Let us see how far these assumptions are correct. Of course, if every rate-payer had a vote, then as the poor would always outnumber the richer classes, the latter might fairly claim the privilege of plural votes to restore the balance; but when, as is the case, the poorer classes who form the great majority of the rate-payers and pay small sums individually, but a large sum in the aggregate, are altogether precluded from voting, any scheme of plural voting for the rich, instead of restoring the equilibrium of interests, will have the effect of disturbing it most seriously to the prejudice of the lower ranks of the electoral body. Indeed, at one time, I had a mind to give notice of an alternative amendment to the effect that a scheme of multiple votes for the higher ranks of the electoral body ought to be supplemented by another scheme of sub-multiple votes for the lower ranks, so that two, three or more of the smaller voters might count as one. But I gave up the idea, not only with the view of avoiding complications, but because I am convinced that the pecuniary value of rates paid is no real indication of the qualification of the voter, but only an indirect test of a certain degree of intelligence, the really necessary qualification which cannot be directly tested in any other way. Now let us examine the other assumption and see how far it is correct. If the duties of Municipal Commissioners were like those of the Directors of Joint Stock Companies, and consisted merely in applying the funds to the greatest advantage of the different contributors in proportion to their contributions, then one might understand the propriety of giving to the rate-payers votes in proportion to the rates they pay. But the duties of Municipal Commissioners are really of a very different nature. It is true that they have to spend municipal funds for municipal improvements, though I may observe in passing that if the plan which has been recently adopted in connection with the opening out of a certain road were to meet with general favour, improvements could be effected without any cost but rather at a profit to the Corporation. But let that pass. Municipal Commissioners in spending the funds of the municipality for effecting improvements for the benefit of the rate-payers should have regard more to the magnitude of the wants of the rate-payers than to the magnitude of their contributions. This is their plain duty: to do anything else would be a gross dereliction of duty. On this ground no case can be made out. But this is not all. Besides spending money and doing other acts affecting the property of the rate-payers Municipal Commissioners have other far more important duties to discharge which concern the convenience, the comfort, and the health of the rate-payers, and these are matters in which I submit the poor have from the very helplessness of their condition much greater interests at stake than the rich. Therefore I submit it is not easy to understand how on principle it can be maintained those who contribute more largely ought to have a greater voice in the election of the governing body. And mark the extremely artificial and unsymmetrical character of the scheme proposed. While the unit vote corresponds to a certain annual value of the property of the rate payer, double, treble and other multiple votes do not rise in proportion to the increase in that annual value, and the scale stops suddenly with the additional tenth vote given. For aught one knows there is no reason why it should not go on multiplying up to, say, the fifteenth, or why it should not stop at the fifth. I do not wish to be hypercritical, but I submit that the burden lies heavily on those who propose an artificial scheme like this in supersession of the natural scheme of one-man-one-vote, to make out not only the general fitness of the scheme, but to establish every matter of detail it involves. For by stopping short at any one point, we may be unwittingly giving an advantage to one section of the community at the expense of another. Were the scale to stop at 15 or at 5, it might have had just the opposite effect. So much for the principle of the scheme.

Now let us examine how far it is supported by precedent. The English Statute Book has been referred to, and the Public Health Act of 1875 has been cited as a precedent. My hon. friend, the mover of the amendment, has already pointed out to the Council that the Public Health Act applies to small parishes and unions, but without taking any notice of that, and without saying anything as to the difference in condition of the two countries, it will be sufficient to observe that if the Public Health Act of 1875 furnishes a precedent in favour of the proposed scheme, the English Municipal Corporations Act of 1882, which is a later enactment, supports quite a contrary view, and is decidedly in favour of the principle of one-man-one-vote. Then as regards the Calcutta practice, the instance which has been referred to of members of joint Hindu families voting is, I submit, no instance of plural votes. When a joint Hindu family or a joint Mahomedan family pays a certain rate or tax, the payment of that tax or rate is a sufficient test of the status of the family and of the possession by the members of that family of the requisite degree of intelligence. It also proves that they own property in the municipality. And these conditions being satisfied, there is nothing wrong in the individual members of that family being allowed separate votes. Nor even is the fact of the same individual having votes in different wards an instance in point. Each ward constitutes a distinct electoral unit, and if a man is qualified to take part in the election of each of these units, there is no reason why he should not be allowed to do so. So much for the principle and precedents upon which the scheme is based.

A scheme so little supported by principle or precedent should require the strongest grounds of necessity for its justification. But the only ground of necessity which has been brought forward, either in the report of the Select Committee or in the speech of the hon. member in charge of the Bill, consists in this, that wealthy and influential voters will not be induced to take part in the elections, unless you raise the importance of their votes, and that unless they take part in the elections, the status of candidates for election will decline. I should be most reluctant to accept this view as correct. Indeed the former of these two propositions reads almost like a libel against wealth and influence. But if this view is correct, with all my respect for wealth and influence, I feel bound to say that the wealthy and influential voter who requires the not very creditable stimulus of personal vanity to induce him to take part in the elections, is not likely to raise the tone of the elections very much. The truth, however, is, as I imagine, that the rich and influential keep aloof from these elections out of mere indifference, induced by a confidence, generally well founded, that their interests are not likely to be neglected, whatever the results of the elections may be. They further know and feel, and we should also bear that in mind, that even where their interests are neglected, the consequences of such neglect to them will not probably be so injurious as in the case of others. These then are the real explanations why, comparatively speaking, the poorer rate-payers, the educated middle classes, take such a lively interest in the elections, while the rich and influential keep aloof. But we should also bear in mind that whenever the rich and influential condescend to take part in the elections, their position and influence always exact for them such deference to their views from numerous bodies of tax-payers within the range of their influence—and all this without any coercion or undue influence exercised on the part of any body—that they really enjoy the privilege of having many more votes than one: so that in the self-adjusting economy of nature wealth and influence have all that they deserve without our aiding them with any artificial scheme like this. I would also advert to the letter of the British Indian Association. That Association represents the wealth and influence of the native community; and by opposing this scheme, it has not only borne ample testimony to the healthy influence exerted by the educated middle classes in this matter, but has furnished the strongest evidence against any necessity for the proposed change.

Lastly, I submit that the scheme proposed will be productive of evil. It will, to say the least, mar the growing popularity of our municipal institutions. I beg leave here to refer to the words of a great English thinker, who has written on the subject:—"I do not deny," says John Stuart Mill, "that property is a kind of test; education in most countries, though anything but proportional to riches, is on the average better in the richer half of society than in the poorer. But the criterion is so imperfect; accident has so much more to do than merit with enabling men to rise in the world; and it is so impossible for any one by acquiring any amount of instruction to make sure of the corresponding rise in station, that this foundation of electoral privilege is always, and will continue to be, supremely odious. To connect plurality of votes with any pecuniary qualification would be not only objectionable in itself, but a sure mode of discrediting the principle, and making its permanent maintenance impracticable." And if this is true in England, where wealth and intelligence have had sufficient time to adjust themselves to one another, it must be still more true in this country, where honorable poverty and indigenous Oriental learning have ever gone hand-in-hand where proverbially Lakshmi and Swaraswati, the goddesses of wealth and intelligence, are in perpetual discord, and where Western education, which may not underrate wealth so much, is an exotic plant of but recent importation. Considering the poverty of the people for whom these elections are meant; considering that we are about to extend the limits of our municipality suddenly and to increase taxation over a large additional area inhabited by a poor population; considering also that our municipal administration has to interfere constantly and minutely with the daily life of a heterogeneous body of rate-payers—considering all these things, I do submit that it is desirable, for every imaginable reason, that the popular element in the electoral body should have the preponderance. This is the only way in which we can secure popular confidence and disarm popular opposition. Measures of municipal improvement very often involve the certainty of present inconvenience and hardship, with perhaps but a doubtful chance of future good. And men of advanced ideas, who have been styled the party of progress—I say it in no disparagement of them—are apt often to be led away by enthusiasm to force their measures of reform without due regard to the capacity of the people. In such cases, unless their measures are leavened largely with the element of goodness and sympathy for the people, which can be secured only by having the popular element present in a large degree, their measures are sure to prove distasteful and oppressive. It is therefore in the true interests of progress that I would oppose this scheme, which would earn for municipal government the not very enviable name of oligarchy of wealth.

The Hon. Sir Henry Harrison said:—The objections which have been raised to the plural vote are partly that it has been vehemently opposed by the leading Associations and the outside public, and partly that it is a novelty and not sufficiently supported by precedent. I attach much more importance to the second of these objections than to the first. If it is true that this is a practical novelty, and also that it is not supported by the precedent of local self-government in England, I shall be much less sanguine of the propriety of introducing it than I am. I understand that we are now discussing the principle of plural voting and not the details. I am much surprised that no hon. member has suggested any alterations in matters of detail, because I am far from sanguine that the details of the Bill in respect of plural votes are the best that can be devised. But in voting on the principle of plural votes, we should not allow questions of detail to influence us in its consideration. The proper way to meet objections as to details would be to suggest modifications in those details; and therefore, until such modifications are proposed, it should be remembered that we are discussing the question of principle only, and all who support the principle ought to vote for it even though they may differ as regards details. The plural vote, as has been pointed out in the report of the Select Committee, has been exercised in Calcutta substantially from the outset. The provision by which everybody who has paid Rs. 25 is entitled to vote could be worked in such a way that all the members of a joint Hindu family could vote, and as a matter of fact in a considerable portion of the town the plural vote has been exercised to a very large extent. It really has been the case that in some instances a constituency has been almost swamped by one or two rich houses. I therefore thought it necessary to introduce some check, and therefore the check was to limit the plural vote to six members of a family. Up to that stage not a word of objection was raised by the public against the plural vote. That practice has prevailed for four elections in succession. Next, the exercise of the plural vote was enlarged in the Bill so as to include to the same extent Europeans in association as partners. Still no objection was heard. Eventually the first objection came from the Trades' Association, which in an extremely intelligent and well-considered representation pointed out that to some extent the plural vote even as modified handicapped Europeans, and I then suggested that we should not abandon the principle that paying higher taxation should give higher representation, but should make it absolutely equal for all communities, and make it more intelligible by making it an undisguised plural vote. As the Europeans on the average pay higher rates this evidently tended in their favour, and as soon as this was done, the proposal was received with a chorus of disapprobation from all the Native Associations Not only from the Mahomedans, against whom the principle would tell most severely, did objections come, but from a community who ought not in principle to object, and who would scarcely, if at all, lose by it. I think this fact is very suggestive indeed. I will return to this hereafter. Now as regards the question of novelty, how far can it be supported by English precedent? I say that it has overwhelming precedent in favor of it. It is perfectly true that in the elections of Town Councils in England the principle of one-man-one-vote obtains, but the boroughs have been at all times the stronghold of English democratic feeling from which the liberal party has drawn its chief support; but my hon. friend overlooks the fact that that system was as widely different from the system in Calcutta as possible. The first principle of that system was that an owner was not allowed a vote qud his ownership. Are those who object to the system of plural voting prepared to adopt that principle as well? If they wish to take English towns as their model, they should be prepared to follow the example in its entirety. But the Parliamentary boroughs excepted, at every step of English legislation you will find the plural system introduced. The primary unit was the parish where the plural vote was allowed not only at elections, but actually in voting on measures The most important unit of local self-government in England is that of the unions in which parishes are united into unions, which dispose of more taxation than any other body. Unions have always been governed by a mixed body consisting partly of ex-officio members, namely, the Justices of the Peace, and partly of guardians elected by the system of plural voting. When highway guardians were constituted, there again the principle of plural voting was adopted So again when the Commissioners of Sewers and Burial Boards were appointed, they were elected by the system of plural voting Then came the Local Government Boards for the improvement of sanitation, and here also you have the same system of plural voting up to a maximum of six votes. In 1870 a Select Committee was appointed by the House of Commons to consider the system of local taxation. This Committee was under the Chairmanship of Mr. Goschen. The report of this Committee was, I believe, the last authoritative report issued on this subject. The system of voting was specially examined into by them, and the Committee refused to condemn the plural system though specially asked to condemn it by the Chairman. On the other hand they did report unfavourably of the borough system of voting by which owners were excluded. Five years after this report was sent in, we had the all-important Public Health Act of 1875. I listened to my hon. friend with great care when he referred to that Act, and I thought it very extraordinary that he should refer to it, as it was so entirely against him, but he passed it over lightly, and went on to the Municipal Act, 1882, which was simply a consolidating Act. That Act recognised the system which had always prevailed in towns of the one-man-one vote principle, and nothing more. But the Public Health Act of 1875 was a fundamentally construction Act. By it the whole kingdom was divided into 985 urban sanitary districts with a population of 14 millions, and 575 rural sanitary districts with a population of 8½ millions; and in these urban sanitary districts Local Boards were elected by plural voting, the maximum being six times the minimum. These urban sanitary districts in a great many instances included boroughs, and the Local Boards exactly adopted the recommendation of the Committee of 1870. So here is an Act thirteen years old—an Act passed after a Parliamentary Committee had reported on the subject, we had this principle adopted for the whole country; and if we are to follow English precedent, I cannot see how it can be said that the plural vote is a novelty or without sufficient precedent.

That being so, let us turn to the principle itself. At first sight it commends itself to the most ordinary intelligence. Taxation or the payment of rates is the basis of representation, and it naturally follows that the higher the taxation, the higher should be the share in the representation. We know that in certain countries and for certain reasons that system is condemned. Mr. John Stuart Mill is only one of many radical writers who could be referred to to prove that in the advanced democratic stage that principle is objected to; but India is not in an advanced democratic stage. Therefore, if we in India allow representation in return for taxation, why should we say that a person who pays higher taxation should have only the same vote as a person who pays much less? The objection to plural voting is taken by two sections of the community; by the Musulmans who naturally object, as they are the poorest rate-payers; but they will not loose relatively to what the state of things was before. In the case of the Hindu tax-payers, the plural vote is already exercised. No person would suppose that naturally the Hindu voters in the town would be eight times as much as the Mahomedans, and yet, except in the last elections, it has been much more. But no doubt the Mahomedans will lose the position which they would occupy under the one-man-one-vote system, if the principle of the plural vote is adopted, and I shall very much regret it. That is one of the details which I regret as the result of the system, but I cannot admit that because one community is poorer than another, a system of such extreme importance should be thrown over. Then when we come to the Hindus, I think the strength of their opposition is in inverse proportion to the force of the arguments adduced to justify it. To make his position strong, my hon. friend was obliged to pose as the champion of the Mahomedan interest. The moment he passed to the objections of his own community, his arguments grow weak. We find the opposition as unanimous as possible amongst their public bodies, but the reasons for that opposition are to be sought for anywhere than in the arguments ostensibly advanced. This is due to one of two causes. The Hindus in their own wards most unquestionably will not lose as a body by the plural vote: the only question will be as to the number of votes they can give in the other wards? Is their opposition then due to their desire to influence more potently the elections in the European wards—the Chowringhee and Theatre road wards. I do not believe it is so. I believe they will be perfectly satisfied to see Europeans have the representation of their own wards. I feel no doubt that the secret of their opposition is that they see in the plural vote a principle which makes something besides bare numbers the basis of representation, and that is precisely the very reason why I press the Council to adopt the principle of plural voting. The Council has heard an extract from the report of the British Indian Association read, but I have had a letter sent to me by a gentleman well known to the Council, himself an ornament to the High Court from which he has retired, and also once a member of this Council—I mean Babu Mohiny Mohun Roy. The letter is addressed to the Council, but I have his leave to read it in the first instance.

"I request you will be so good as to lay before the Legislative Council the following remarks and suggestions which I beg to offer on the provisions for plural votes contained in the amended Municipal Bill:—

I. The principle of plural votes has my hearty approval. It has caused me some surprise and regret to find that Associations which represent very conflicting interests, and which seldom agree in anything, have rushed in to oppose a principle so just and equitable. 'When they do agree, their unanimity is wonderful.' My legal experience has taught me, however, that judgments from which both the contending parties appeal are rarely wrong.

II. The rule of one-man-one-vote is founded upon socialistic notions and is wholly foreign to Hindu ideas. Where the elective franchise is high, the rule may be worked without much manifest disadvantage. But its practical disadvantages come prominently into view where the franchise is low. There the masses completely swamp the classes and carry the elections, and are themselves carried by artifices and electioneering tactics which no one would wish to see take root as an institution in India, but which are fast growing with the growth of the elective system in our municipalities.

III. You can cure this growing evil in either of the two following ways:—By raising the elective franchise, or by making such an equitable distribution of the votes as to give a larger voice at the elections to those who bear a larger share of the burden of municipal taxation. The first is objectionable, in that it will altogether disfranchise a large number of persons. The second, which is no other than the scheme of plural votes, recommends itself at once to our minds as the right remedy. It will not disfranchise any body, but it will effect a cure by a much milder treatment, viz. by lowering the value of each vote. The depreciated value will be the ratio between the number of present votes (n), and the same (n' plus the additional votes (m) which will be given to plural voters. The Algebraic expression for the depreciation will be as follows :—

$$\text{Depreciation} = 1 - \frac{n}{n+m} = \frac{m}{n+m}.$$

IV. I have no data for making the calculation. But I am certain that the additional votes will never come up to anything like the present votes. There is, therefore, no ground whatever for supposing that the plural voters will have it all their own way, and the objections founded upon such fine phrases as plutocracy and oligarchy will necessarily lose some of their force. I am only afraid that the scheme, with the proposed limit of six additional votes, will be inadequate to give the plural voters—that is, persons of wealth, position and respectability—such a potent voice at the elections as may be desirable in the best interests of municipal administration.

V. I have always held a very strong opinion in favour of plural votes. After the Committee of the British Indian Association had sent in its communication, I saw several leading members of the Association, and they agreed with me that it was a very good principle and one quite in unison with Hindu ideas and feelings. Outside of the many Associations with which Calcutta is blessed, I saw several native gentlemen of education and position, and explained to them the principle of plural votes. They felt surprised that any possible objection could be made to it."

The letter then contains a suggestion which I need not take up your time by reading I read this letter not so much on account of the weight due to the writer's opinion, but on account of the clear and forcible manner in which he has explained the principle which I am anxious to introduce into the representation of this town. We cannot raise the elective franchise without disfranchising a great many persons who now exercise it. We have gone low enough, but do not go lower still. But we endeavour to reclaim their fair and legitimate influence to the more wealthy persons and those who pay a larger share of taxation by the system of plural voting. It is all very well to say that as the lower classes have no votes you must maintain the principle of one-man-one-vote as a kind of average counterpoise. I protest altogether against putting the whole power into the hands of the middle classes as we find them in Calcutta. Poor men of light and learning are by no means the representatives of gharrymen and hackney carriage owners, of petty shopkeepers and men of the labouring classes. I therefore strongly press the plural vote on your acceptance, for what I am sure is the very reason that the Hindu Associations oppose it, viz., that it asserts the principle that Calcutta is a city in which wealth and intelligence, and not numbers only, should be entrusted with power.

Lastly, there is a point of very great practical importance which has not been touched upon, and that is that we are introducing the system of polling with the object of purifying the elections. So far as polling is concerned, it has been truly pointed out that it will operate in a way which will be regrettable, namely, that a great number of the more influential will abstain from voting. But I am sanguine that if the principle of plural voting is carried it will go far to correct that. When it is known that a person can give ten votes, pressure will be put upon him, and he will sacrifice a little time to give his votes. But when he knows that his vote is simply a unit, that its effect will be cancelled by the very next man who pays a rate of Rs. 25 and goes to the poll, it will be a strong temptation to him to say that he cannot afford the time, and that he does not care to give his vote.

On these grounds, I shall be sorry if the Council does not see its way to adopt the system of plural voting.

The Hon. Sir Alfred Croft said:—The hon. member who has just sat down suggested in the beginning of his speech a means of escape from what I felt to be a position of considerable difficulty. He suggested that those in favour of the principle of plural voting should vote against the present amendment, but should afterwards propose any modification as to details which they thought desirable. I may state at once that I am in favour of the principle of plural voting for reasons with which, after the speech of the last speaker, I will not trouble the Council. I agree, as I said on a previous occasion, that the principle which should govern the electoral qualification is the having a pecuniary stake in the town, and the greater the stake the higher the qualification; but that is just the reason why the provisions of sections 10 and 11, when compared with one another, seems to me to be inequitable. The scales in these two sections, for owner and for occupier, respectively, are precisely the same, but because they are the same, they produce an inequality of a serious character. The difference between that stake in the town which the owner has and which the occupier has, in respect of property of the same value, seems to me to be very great; and I cannot avoid the conclusion that by these two sections the owner of property gets far more than his position entitles him to. To narrow the point, I will compare one additional vote given in section 10 on an annual rating of Rs. 600, with one additional vote given in section 11 on the same rating. Is it possible to say that the owner of a house rated at Rs. 600 is a person of the same wealth and position as the occupier of the same house? It seems to me that the occupier is in a far higher position. All we know about the two men is that one is the owner and the other the occupier. Therefore, so far as the terms of the section go, the owner has an income of Rs. 600 only, while the occupier must have an income of a great deal more, because he pays Rs. 600 for the mere rent of his house. In England it is commonly estimated that the rent a man pays for his house should be 10 per cent. of his income. In India it is probably higher; and if we put it at one-fourth or one-fifth, it will perhaps be nearer the point. On the principle to which I refer, the occupier of such a house would seem to occupy a position equivalent to that of the owner of a house rented at Rs. 2,400 or Rs. 3,000. I would therefore ask leave, while accepting the basis upon which section 10 is framed, to propose a modification of it, viz., that the left-hand column of section 10 should be multiplied by four throughout, so as to increase the ownership qualification. I suggest this merely by way of indication of what I mean, without binding myself for the moment to any particular scale. But assuming the scale I have named, the result would be that one additional vote, which in the case of an occupier would be given by the occupation of a house rated at Rs. 600, would in the case of an owner be given by the ownership of a house rated at Rs. 2,400.

The Hon. Babu Kali Nath Mitter said:—As the arguments for and against the principle of plural voting have been fully laid before the Council, I shall be as brief as possible in my reply. With reference to the complaint of the hon. member in charge of the Bill that this objection was not taken at an early stage, the answer is very clear, namely, that what the Select Committee at first did was to put into the law the existing state of things, and therefore nobody took any exception to it. If the hon. member thought the existing state of the law objectionable, it was his place to have taken the objection. Instead of that, he himself proposed what was first introduced, and it was adopted. There is this difference between what was then adopted and what is now proposed; whereas in the one case individuals had votes, in the other case the vote is given to property. That is the principal difference between the two cases, and the difference is of such importance that one must be struck at it. It is said that the members of joint Hindu families have hitherto exercised the right of plural voting. But in what way? They have to show that each of the members of the family pays a sufficient amount of rates to entitle him to vote: when they establish that fact, they are allowed to vote. But is the case precisely the same now? No; now the head of a family who pays large rates, instead of exercising a single vote, would have 10 or 12 votes; and therefore the difference is very great in principle. We are not legislating for parishes and unions, but for the metropolis of India, and therefore we should follow the principle adopted in large English towns, and not the principle followed in parochial elections. But my hon. friend prefers to follow the precedent of the small elections in parishes and unions, which are nothing more than a certain number of parishes added together. My hon. friend, as a sort of threat, asked whether owners are prepared to be dealt with precisely in the same way as the law deals with them in England, but he forgets one important thing, namely, that in England owners have not to pay rates. There owners do not pay rates, and therefore they do not vote Here you make the owner pay rates, and yet you ask whether he is prepared to be dealt with in the same way as under the English practice. If the offer were made to owners to be relieved from the payment of rates if they would give up the privilege of voting, it is not very difficult to conceive what the answer would be. Therefore we must not be staggered with that argument; it has no bearing on the matter, and it does not in the least help my hon. friend. I would ask whether the Hindus, as a body, would lose by this provision. I say they would not, and yet they unanimously object to it. Therefore my objection to this principle becomes very forcible, because it comes from a quarter which is likely not to be affected by it. My hon. friend says, if the Hindus will not lose by it, why then all this agitation? They object to it on the ground that it is a retrograde movement altogether. Then my hon. friend also points out that no notice was taken of the argument advanced by him on various occasions in support of this principle, that rich and influential people will much sooner go to the polling stations, if they had a number of votes to give and could thus largely influence the return, than if they had only a single vote, like any ordinary rate-payer. If that is so, then the remedy is this, that instead of compelling persons to go to the polling stations, the present practice of voting by means of voting papers should be maintained—it would be a mistake to raise the importance of any particular class of the community, simply because it is anticipated that persons representing it will not otherwise go to the poll. In the same way, to meet the objection of the Trades' Association you should disallow all plurality of votes, and not give plurality of votes to all classes. My hon. colleague must have noticed one of the amendments on the notice paper (No. 18), which runs thus—that "in the case of joint-owners the principal member shall be entitled to vote, and in the case of joint-occupiers the one who pays the largest share of rates, or in whose name the rates are paid. Should there be any dispute as to the person who would be entitled to vote amongst the joint-owners or joint-occupiers, the Chairman shall decide between the contending parties." From which it will be seen that I anticipated this objection, and am prepared to make this sacrifice on behalf of the rate-payers, by treating the large owners in the same way as other voters, though it should not be forgotten that in the case of elections of members of the House of Commons plurality of votes is allowed to persons having property in different districts. It is on this ground that plurality of votes is allowed under the present Municipal Act. As to allowing plurality of votes to joint-owners and occupiers in coming to construe the law, it was considered that as it enacted that whoever paid on his own behalf rates to the amount of Rs. 25, members of joint undivided families, who paid rates amounting to Rs. 25 per head, were entitled to vote. If that is a ground of complaint let it be removed; but it does seem to me that neither that complaint, nor the complaint that rich and influential persons will not go to the polling stations, are such as to justify our adopting plurality of votes.

The motion being put, the Council divided :—

So the motion was negatived

The Hon. Sir Alfred Croft said:—With the permission of the Council, I beg to move the following amendment:—

"That in the second clause of section 10, for the figures '600, 1,000, 1,500, 2,000, 2,500 3,000, 3,500, 4,000, 4,500, and 5,000,' the figures '1,000, 2,000, 3,000, 4,000, 5,000, 7,500, 10,000, 15,000, 25,000, and 50,000' respectively be substituted."

I will not detain the Council with more than a very few words in support of this amendment, because I have already stated the grounds upon which the principle involved in it is, in my opinion, reasonable and fair. There are only one or two points I wish to notice. It will be observed that instead of a simple multiple of four, which I suggested a few minutes ago, a sliding scale, ranging from Rs. 1,000 to Rs. 50,000, has been substituted. Next, it has been pointed out to me that there are two arguments which may be used against my proposition, and which certainly escaped me when I submitted it to the Council just now. The first is that the principle of equal electoral power in respect of ownership and occupation has already been accepted in section 8, under which the owner and occupier alike have each one vote if the property in respect of which the vote is given is of the value of Rs. 300 a year. That no doubt is a fair argument against the proposal; but I conceive that the practical importance of it is but small, and that the real importance of this principle comes in when the higher values are reached. The second argument is based on the fact that under the Municipal Act the owner and the occupier pay rates equally, and therefore are presumed to have an equal stake in the town Still, even that I would not accept without some reservation; because it appears to me that the business done by the occupier of a house such as the Great Eastern Hotel, and the transactions that he carries on in respect of such occupation, are very much larger and more varied than those with which the owner of the house as such is concerned. I do not deny the force of those considerations, but I should still wish to submit the point to the decision of the Council.

The Hon. the Advocate-General said:—I am very much surprised at this amendment, which seems to me to rest upon a principle unsound and unsubstantial. I understood the hon member in charge of the Bill to say that the extension of the principle of plural voting arose from this, that it had hitherto been the practice to give additional votes in certain cases according to the amount of taxes paid by rate-payers, and on that the principle of regulating votes according to the amount of taxes paid recommended itself as a sound one. This Bill contains a provision that a consolidated amount of taxes is to be divided between the owner and occupier. Starting from that point of view, it is obvious that the occupier who occupies a house of the annual value of Rs 600 should have the same number of votes as the owner of that house. The principle underlying plural votes, as disclosed by the Bill and maintained by the mover, is in direct conflict with the principle (if any) on which the amendment is rested. A strange proposition has been enunciated. The hon. mover of the amendment contends that a man who pays Rs. 600 annually for the house he occupies in this town must be necessarily considerably wealthier than the man who owns that house. I am not prepared to admit that proposition. I know a number of men who occupy houses at Rs. 300 per month or more who do not possess half the wealth of the owners of such houses, and it is only in regard to a house in which the occupier dwells the hon. member's contention can be supposed to make an approach to the startling proposition he desires to maintain; the moment it is assumed that the house occupied is used as a shop, boarding-house, or for any other purpose of trade, the asserted proposition falls to the ground. It is needless to say more on this subject, as it must be apparent the more the matter is probed the weaker it will become.

The Hon. Sir Henry Harrison said:—The Hon Sir Alfred Croft's proposal is, as the learned Advocate-General has pointed out, an extension of the principle of the plural vote, but I do not think it is a contradiction of it. Assuming that greater taxation should be recognised as a ground for higher representation, the argument comes nearly to this, that a person who pays the higher taxation is on the average more intelligent and understands municipal wants better than persons who pay a lower rate of taxation. Although it may be sometimes true that the occupier of a house of Rs. 5,000 may not be richer than the owner of that house, if the owner has ten such houses he will get votes for each such house in other wards. My own views are very divided as regards this amendment. I am satisfied with the Bill as it stands, and I do not think the owner will have any undue weight under it. In the Parliamentary Select Committee already referred to their efforts were entirely in the other direction; their fear was that the occupiers would outvote the owners; and they proposed as a distinct recommendation that the owners should vote separately from the occupiers and should have separate members. I have no objection to see my hon. friend Sir Alfred Croft's amendment adopted; but I regard it as a new development of the principle adopted by the Bill.

The Hon. Dr. Gooroo Das Banerjee said:—I will add my feeble voice to the forcible opposition of the hon. the Advocate-General against this somewhat strange and startling amendment One could understand the principle that wealth contributed to the Municipality might be made the basis of representation. But that is not the amendment before the Council, and we find not wealth contributed by the voter, but wealth possessed by him proposed as the basis of representation. Such a proposition nobody has yet heard of. It has been said that a man who pays a rent of Rs. 600 for a house is a richer man presumably than the man who owns the house. That may or may not be the case. The question was not whether a man was richer, but whether he contributed more to the Municipality. The hon. mover of the amendment has not been able to assert that the man who pays Rs. 600 as house-rent is necessarily more intelligent. Wealth may vary with the rates levied, but intelligence does not so vary. It may be that a man who pays Rs. 600 house-rent may have larger concerns to carry on, and for that purpose a greater interest in the affairs of the Municipality, but the hon. mover of the amendment forgets what is very evident, that a man who owns a house has a more abiding interest than the sojourner who comes here for the exercise of his profession, or his calling, and then leaves the country. Any municipal improvement which may be carried out has a permanent effect on the property of one man, but only a temporary effect as far as the other is concerned. From this point of view also, I submit that this amendment should not be supported.

The motion was put to the vote and negatived.

The HON. SIR HENRY HARRISON moved that for the first paragraph of section 10, the following be substituted—

"A person qualified to vote under clause (b) of section 8 may give two votes in each ward in which he is entitled to vote, or one vote if only one Commissioner is to be elected for that ward; as well as additional votes according to the following scale:—"

The motion was put to the vote and carried.

The HON. SIR HENRY HARRISON moved that for the first paragraph of section 11, the following be substituted:—

"A person qualified to vote under clause (c) of section 8 may give two votes in each ward in which he is entitled to vote, or one vote if only one Commissioner is to be elected for that ward; as well as additional votes according to the following scale:—"

The motion was put to the vote and carried.

The HON. SIR HENRY HARRISON moved that for the first paragraph of section 12, the following be substituted:—

"A person qualified to vote under clause (d) of section 8 may, if he holds a license under Class IV of the third schedule, give two votes, or one vote if only one Commissioner is to be elected for the ward in which he may be entitled to vote under this qualification; if he holds a license under Class III, one additional vote; if under Class II, two additional votes; if under Class I, three additional votes."

The motion was put to the vote and carried.

The HON. SIR HENRY HARRISON moved that in line 2 of section 13, after the word "includes" the words "a Hindu joint family" be inserted; and that in line 3, after the word "or" the word "other" be inserted.

The motion was put to the vote and carried.

The HON. DR. GOOROO DAS BANERJEE moved that for the fourth paragraph of section 9, the following be substituted:—

"A person qualified under clause (a) of section 8 shall vote in the ward in which his place of business is situated, or in the ward in which he resides."

The object of this amendment, he said, was shortly this. A rate-payer possessing the necessary qualification by reason of his paying a license fee in respect of his business may reside in one ward, and have his place of business in another. Presumably, he is interested in the welfare of both the wards, and ought to be allowed to vote in either. Where his place of residence has more permanence or more importance, he would select that as the ward in which he would vote. There are other instances in which the reverse may be the case and the voter may prefer to vote in the ward in which he has his place of business. But in either case he is the best person to decide the affairs of which ward interest him most, and therefore he ought to have the right to choose the ward in which he will vote, instead of the Act fixing the ward for him. My amendment leaves him that option to the fullest extent, whereas the clause of the Bill does not. Therefore I submit that the amendment meets the requirements of the case better than the provision in the Bill.

The HON. BABU KALI NATH MITTER said:—The Bill, as originally passed by the Select Committee, contained this clause:—"A person qualified under clause (d) shall vote in the ward in which the person exercises his calling or carries on the business in respect of which the license is taken out." My hon. friend the mover of the amendment wants to extend that principle, and leave an option to the person as to whether he will vote in the ward in which he lives, or in the ward in which he carries on his business. That is a further extension of my own amendment, and I support it. But the real object of the amendment is this, that, if the proposal of the Select Committee is carried, a very large number of persons carrying on business in Ward No. 12 will not be able to vote in that ward. The whole of the barristers, pleaders, and attornies, who at present can vote in that ward, will be precluded from voting if this provision of the Bill is not altered. I think they are persons eminently qualified to select their representative, and I do not see why they should be deprived of the right of selection. In the report of the Select Committee, it is pointed out that in Ward No. 12 the resident voters suffer, because these outsiders elect one or two members by their numbers. As the Bill provides that each ward should return only two members, the resident members will return one, and probably the barristers, pleaders and attornies the other. A great deal of importance has been attached to the residential voters, but after the provision which has been passed by the Council allowing the Trades' Association to elect four members, they will be persons who will be most interested in Ward No. 12, and they will have another member elected under the general clause. I do not see why it is necessary to deprive this non-residential class of the right of voting in this ward for the benefit of the residential voters. If you do so, you will deprive a large number from voting at all. Suppose four persons living in Howrah carry on business in Calcutta; they will, under the Bill, have no vote at all; whereas if they are allowed to vote in the ward in which they carry on business, they will then be able to vote. I am told by the hon. mover of the Bill that residence in the town is meant, but the hon. and learned Advocate-General will no doubt tell the Council that there is a decision on the point. The question came up under the provisions of the Bankruptcy Law where the term used was "residing" A person living on the other side of Circular Road applied for the benefit of the Act, and the High Court held that carrying on business in Calcutta was sufficient residence to bring him within that section. And yet an amendment was thrown out the other day which provided that a person who carried on business in the town would be entitled to vote. It seems to me only right and proper not to deprive these persons of their right to vote.

The Hon. the Advocate-General said:—The meaning of the expression "carrying on business," according to all the decisions, is that the person should have his place of business and pay rates. Section 8 allows him to do that, and it comes within the rule. But I never heard that a man is held to be resident in a place if he has not a place in respect of which he pays rates and taxes. The meaning of the term "resident" in section 8 is that they should be bodily or generally resident; and section 9 provides that "a person qualified under clause (d) shall vote in the ward in which his place of business is situated, otherwise in the place in which he resides." But we are now asked to introduce a third condition of voting, viz., that a person who has no place of business for which he pays taxes, but has an ambulatory business and is not resident in the town, should still be entitled to vote. With regard to what fell from my hon. friend Babu Kali Nath Mitter, I find it stated in Maxwell on Statutes that "in general a place of business will not be regarded as the place of voting."

The Hon. Sir Henry Harrison said:—If this amendment is carried, the elections might be swamped even by clerks who come daily into town for the purpose of attending the public office in Ward No 12. The object of this section has been correctly stated by my hon. friend Babu Kali Nath Mitter, that the residents of Ward No. 12 may be able to elect the members of Ward No. 12. It is one of the wealthiest wards in the town. Wards 12 and 5 pay on the whole the largest amount of taxation. Ward No. 12, in which this Council Chamber is situated, is the ward in which the business of European firms is carried on more than in any other part of the town; therefore it is the part of the town in which European business ought to find its representatives. But owing to the way in which the section was worded before, the High Court being also situated in this ward, representation was given not only to those who live in the ward or have large business houses and pay rates in it, but also to the barristers, attornies, and vakeels of the High Court, because they take out licenses of Rs. 50 annually and practice their profession in the Small Cause Court or the High Court. It will be quite sufficient to indicate the necessity of this section if I say that in the four elections since 1876, nine out of the twelve members elected in this the chief business ward of the town have been pleaders or attornies. I hardly think it necessary to put the facts stronger than to say that the residents of the ward could not do more than secure one member against the vote of the legal element. If it is in the new Corporation the wish of the Council that Ward No 12 should be represented by one legal member and one resident member, then this amendment ought to be passed; but if they think that the residents of the ward have a right to elect their own representatives, then I think the section as it stands is perfectly correct.

The motion was put to the vote and negatived.

The Hon. Mr. Irving said:—I have the honour to move that for section 18, the following be substituted:—

"Whenever an equal number of votes is given to two or more candidates at any election under this Act, the candidate for whom the greatest number of rate-payers have voted shall be held to be elected; and in case of an equality of votes in this respect, the Chairman shall give a casting vote, and the candidate to whom such vote is given shall be held to be elected."

It will, I think, be admitted that it is desirable to relieve the Chairman as far as possible from the often invidious and unpleasant task of giving a casting vote in order to decide the election of a candidate. The custom of England is, I understand, to elect the candidate for whom the greatest number of rate-payers have voted in case of an absolute equality of votes. In the highly improbable contingency of a dead-heat also occurring in the number of rate-payers voting for two candidates, the Chairman might then be called upon to give his casting vote.

The Hon. Sir Henry Harrison said:—I am willing to accept this amendment, but its importance is not great, because the Chairman of the Corporation has never yet had to give a casting vote. In France, when such a case occurs, the elder of the candidates is selected; in Bombay they cast lots. I understand the meaning of the amendment to be this, that if each candidate has 1,500 votes, then if in the one case 700 voters make up the 1,500 votes, and there were 600 voters on the other side, then the candidate for whom the greater number of persons voted would be declared to be elected. If that is the meaning I have no objection.

The Hon. Dr. Gooroo Das Banerjee supported the amendment on the ground that it would in theory at least be a good corrective of the scheme of plural votes.

The Hon. Mr. Reynolds said:—In the event of such a contingency happening, will there be any difficulty in ascertaining which candidate has the greatest number of supporters? In the case of there being 1,500 votes on each side, will there be any difficulty in ascertaining that 700 rate-payers voted for one candidate, and only 600 for the other?

The Hon. Sir Henry Harrison said:—That can easily be ascertained from the returns. I am glad to see that the objection to the plural vote has dwindled down to such a small compass that the objections to it would be corrected by so comparatively trifling an amendment as this.

The motion was put to the vote and carried.

The Council was adjourned to Saturday, the 18th February 1888.

ILLUSTRATION OF REPORTS BY MAPS.

REVENUE DEPARTMENT—MISCELLANEOUS.

Calcutta, the 8th February 1888.

RESOLUTION.*

READ—

A circular issued by the Government of India, Revenue and Agricultural Department, No. 64G, dated the 2nd November, 1882, containing a proposal to insert maps in administration and other reports to illustrate the questions discussed therein.

Read also—

Letter from the Government of India, Home Department, No. 22—749, dated the 26th May, 1883, with enclosure.

Resolution, dated the 10th June, 1884, issued by this Government to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, and the Heads of Departments, calling upon them to consider how skeleton maps could best be utilised to show, by shades of colour or in other ways, such administrative features as might in their opinion be conveniently illustrated by means of maps.

Letter from the Sanitary Commissioner, Bengal, No. 3447R—A, dated the 28th June, 1884.

Letter from the Protector of Emigrants, No. 1925, dated the 6th December, 1882.

Letter from the Director of Public Instruction, Bengal, No. 5582, dated the 20th July, 1884.

Letter from the Director of the Department of Land Records and Agriculture, dated the 29th August, 1887.

Letter from the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, No. 361B, dated the 3rd May, 1887.

Letter from the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, No. 449A, dated the 28th June, 1887.

As far back as in 1882 the Government of India, in their Circular of the 2nd November of that year, quoted in the preamble, suggested the more general use in Administration Reports of illustrative maps corresponding in size with the pages of the reports themselves. The Survey Department, it was ascertained, were prepared to supply skeleton maps of the kind required, and the Board of Revenue and the Heads of Departments in these Provinces were requested to consider what features of the administration dealt with by them could best be indicated in the manner proposed.

2. The Lieutenant-Governor considers that the object in view is a desirable one, and has determined to give immediate effect to the suggestion made by the Government of India. The replies of the Officers and Departments consulted are generally in favour of the proposal, but it has been urged by the Board of Revenue that it is calculated to occasion delay in the submission of reports and to entail considerable expense. With regard to the anticipated delay, the Lieutenant-Governor, however, is of opinion that, if the preparation of the maps be taken in hand with forethought, not when the reports which they concern are complete, but as soon as the statistics which they are designed to illustrate have been compiled, there will be no difficulty in submitting them in proper time, and it must be clearly understood that the dates hitherto prescribed for the submission of reports must continue to be adhered to. It may on occasion be found necessary to despatch the maps at a later period to be bound up with the reports, but this procedure should be entirely exceptional, and is to be avoided. In the matter of expense it must also be distinctly understood that no addition can be made to existing departmental grants on this account, and that whatever is done must be done within the limits of budget provision.

3. Sir Steuart Bayley does not desire to indicate once for all any stereotyped plan on which maps should be prepared, but must leave it to the Heads of Departments themselves freely to use their discretion in the matter, so as to illustrate by this means the special features of the particular branch of administration treated during the year under report. The person writing a report will generally be the best judge of the question what statistical information can on each occasion be embodied in maps with the greatest advantage. It may be observed that the Sanitary Commissioner proposes to indicate, by shades of colour or other appropriate devices, the extent to which operations have been carried on in different localities, the progress of disease, the intensity or persistency with which it has prevailed, the local circumstances which have influenced its prevalence and procedure, its effect on the population, and other cognate matters; while the Director of Public Instruction desires to show the general spread of education as tested by the proportion of scholars to population, the spread of secondary and higher education on the same principle, the spread of secondary and higher education among Muhammadans, and the spread of female education. These suggestions are cited as illustrations of the principle on which the maps should be prepared.

4. For the purposes above set forth, it is thought that maps of the Province on a scale of 80 miles to the inch, or of 64 miles to the inch, are quite sufficient Either of these scales should be adopted, and it is desirable that one or other of them should be used in preference to any larger scale which would involve the folding up of, and less ready reference to, the maps. In certain cases it may not be practicable to show what is aimed at with distinctness except on a larger scale, but ordinarily the 80-mile or 64-mile scale should suffice, and no map of these Provinces on a larger than the 32-mile scale should accompany the annual report of any Department.

5. The Board of Revenue and the Heads of all Departments will be authorized to indent direct on the Survey Department for their requirements, and the latter will be requested to make arrangements to supply such indents as speedily as possible.

ORDER.—Ordered that the Resolution be published in the Calcutta Gazette, and that copies, with copies of the correspondence annexed, be forwarded to the Board of Revenue, Lower Provinces, and the Heads of Departments for information and guidance, and to the Surveyor-General for information.

Ordered also that a copy be forwarded to the Government of India, in the Home, and Revenue and Agricultural Departments, for information, with reference to the Circular from the latter Department No. 64G, dated the 2nd November 1882.

By order of the Lieutenant-Governor of Bengal,

P. NOLAN,

Secretary to the Government of Bengal.

SUMMARY OF THE METEOROLOGICAL AND RAINFALL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL, AND OF THE METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN ASSAM, FOR THE MONTH OF JANUARY 1888.

THE normal meteorology of January is very similar to that of the two previous cold-weather months, except that in this month the north-east monsoon conditions are, if anything, more strongly developed than in the earlier part of the season. Temperatures continue low throughout the month, there being a considerable difference between the day and night temperatures, the latter being frequently very low. Fairly strong northerly winds, with practically cloudless skies, prevail, though sometimes towards the end of January southerly winds set in at the stations on the sea coast in the south of the province. Pressure is also usually high throughout the month, and humidity is moderate. Under these normal conditions rainfall is practically absent from the whole province, but from time to time the normal conditions are liable to be almost entirely reversed by the formation or appearance of barometric depressions over Northern India, which subsequently drift in a southerly or south-easterly direction through Central India and the North-Western Provinces, and may even pass over Bengal. These disturbances give southerly and south-easterly winds in Bengal, with heavily clouded skies and damp rainy weather; the day temperature during such times becoming very low, but the minimum or night temperatures rise very rapidly. During the occurrence and passage of these depressions or feeble storms, therefore, weather conditions in Bengal became almost entirely reversed, and these disturbed conditions may last perhaps three or four days at a time.

The average rainfall of January in Bengal is very small, and is entirely brought up by the disturbed conditions just referred to. The rainfall is in most districts only equal to about half an inch, while the largest variations are from a fall of 0·32 inch in Orissa to one of 0·61 inch in Behar.

Meteorology of the month.—The chief features in the meteorology of January 1888 have been—

1. Pressure has been decidedly in excess over the whole of the Province of Bengal, the excess averaging about 0·033 inch, the distribution of the excess being fairly equal in different districts. In Assam pressure has been almost normal.
2. Temperature has been decidedly below the normal over the whole of Bengal, the mean temperature being in defect by 1·3°. In Assam, on the other hand, temperature has been almost normal.
3. Humidity has been decidedly below the normal at almost all stations.
4. Cloud proportion has been decidedly larger than usual at almost every station in Bengal and Assam.
5. At the latter end of the month a very well marked and influential barometric depression travelled from near Quetta through Central India, and passed through the south of the province entering the Bay of Bengal near Gopalpore, and crossing it to near Akyab, where it again passed inland or disappeared.
6. Comparatively heavy rainfall has been received over Chutia Nagpur, South Behar, Orissa, South-West and East Bengal, and light rain in North Bengal and North Behar.

The only point of interest in the meteorology of the early part of January was the formation of a cyclonic storm in the Arabian Sea, which travelled in a northerly direction up the Bombay coast, and which reached Bombay about the 4th or 5th of the month. The existence of this storm apparently accounted for the partial reversal of the north-east monsoon or cold-weather conditions which took place in Chutia Nagpur and South Behar, and over parts of Bengal from about the 4th to the 6th of the month, during which time moderate rain fell over Chutia Nagpur and South Behar. From this time, up till about the 20th of the month, there were no changes of any practical importance, and fine settled weather obtained for the greater part of the time; but from this date the settled conditions commenced to change. On the 20th the weather conditions over the whole of India were fairly normal, except that a large low pressure area was appearing, the centre of which was south of Quetta and west of Jacobabad. On the 21st the area of low pressure moved to the east-south-eastward, and a large diffused depression existed over Sind, Guzerat, Central India and the Berars. On the 22nd the depression concentrated and became rather more local, and the centre appeared to the west of Ajmere and Jeypore. On the 23rd the depression travelled slowly south-eastward, and the centre was near Seoni in the Central Provinces, while on the 24th it had advanced to near Raipur. On the 25th and 26th the depression continued its east-south-easterly advance, and on the 27th it was near Gopalpur, and it subsequently entered the Bay of Bengal, crossing it apparently in an almost due easterly direction, and on the 29th it was approaching the east coast of the Bay, and its centre was not far from Akyab, while on the 30th it had apparently passed inland into Upper Burma, or perhaps had broken up, and the depression ceased to exert any further influence on the meteorology of India. This important storm, though only of decidedly feeble nature, had therefore a life history of at least ten days, and it certainly travelled over a distance of practically two thousand miles, if not considerably further.

This depression or feeble storm naturally very materially influenced the weather in Bengal, and the usual north-east monsoon conditions became almost entirely reversed. The reversal of the conditions commenced in the western and northern districts, and gradually spread over the eastern and south-eastern. Thus from about the 22nd, skies clouded over and rain commenced to fall in South Behar and Chutia Nagpur; these conditions extended to parts of South-West Bengal on the 23rd, and on the 26th and 27th disturbed conditions existed over the whole province, and moderate to heavy rain became general in all districts. At this time the depression was lying over Orissa, and the whole province was influenced by it. At the same time the northerly wind current which had been previously blowing over Bengal became almost reversed, and light southerly winds were reported in many instances. Humidity also rose very rapidly, while the night temperatures increased, though the day temperatures still remained low. With the continued south-easterly or easterly movement of the depression, the area of rainfall moved to the eastward, and on the 28th rain fell pretty generally in East Bengal and at the stations in and near the hills of North Bengal, while a few showers fell in Orissa; but after this date skies cleared rapidly, temperature and humidity decreased, and pressure rose very generally, while a strong and very cold northerly current flowed over Bengal, the air currents at this time being of a particularly low temperature, owing apparently to the cooling effect of the accumulation of snow on the hills, and to the heavy rainfall over Upper India. The snowfall in the hills, due to this storm, appears to have been very heavy, and several stations reported falls of snow several days in succession. At the close of the month therefore the cold-weather conditions were present over Bengal and Assam in a well marked manner.

Pressure.—The variations of pressure during the month have been rather large; during the first week pressure was above the normal by 0·072 inch; in the second week this excess had fallen to 0·05 inch, while in the third week a rapid fall had taken place, and pressure became 0·014 inch in defect. A slight recovery took place towards the end of the month, and for the last week pressure was again in excess by 0·02 inch. For the whole month, taking into consideration only those stations from which observations have been received for a series of years, and which therefore yield reliable averages, the mean pressure of the province of Bengal has been 0·033 inch in excess of the normal. The largest excess registered is one of 0·046 inch at Berhampore. In Assam the variations of the mean pressure from the normal have been very small, the largest being an excess of 0·01 inch at Sibsaugor, while the average pressure of all the stations has only been 0·005 in excess.

Temperature.—The variations of temperature have also been large, particularly towards the end of the month, and at some stations the day temperature for the last week averaged 8° and 9° below the normal. As during the earlier part of the month temperature had been in certain cases rather considerably above the normal, the mean variation for the whole month is comparatively small, and temperature in Bengal has generally been 1·3° in defect. The largest defect has been in Chutia Nagpur, where it has averaged nearly 3°. In Assam, on the other hand, the variation of temperature from the normal has been a defect of only 0·3°.

The actual variations and oscillations of temperature for the month are best shown in the following table, where the average maximum, minimum and mean temperatures at nine typical stations in different districts of the province are given week by week, and compared with the normal values for the same periods. Speaking broadly, it may be said that temperature was very considerably above the normal during the first week, slightly below it in the second, that the defect had increased somewhat in the third, while in the fourth week the variations below the normal were very large, particularly in the maximum or day temperatures.

Rainfall—Has been heaviest in Orissa, the stations of which average about one and a third inches, which is about four times the normal fall; East Bengal and Chutia Nagpur have each received an average of about one and a quarter inches, or rather more than twice the normal fall. In South-West Bengal and South Behar the rainfall has averaged nearly an inch, or about twice the usual amount, but in North Bengal and North Behar the falls have been smaller than usual; in North Behar the fall has been less than half an inch, or about four-fifths of the normal, while North Bengal has received on the average less than a quarter of an inch, or about half the normal fall. The rainfall during the month has been very well distributed and very general, and except at a few stations in North Bengal, all stations in the province report fairly good rain.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven Meteorological Divisions of the province for the month of January 1888:—

The mean pressure, temperature, &c., are deduced from the traces of the Barograph and Thermograph.

The maximum and minimum temperatures are obtained from self-registering thermometers. All the thermometers are verified, and the readings have been corrected to a standard constructed and verified at the Kew Observatory. They are exposed under a thatched shed open at the sides, and are suspended four feet above the ground.

The barometer readings are corrected approximately to those of the standard Newman's No. 86, formerly at the Surveyor-General's Office.

The hygrometric elements are obtained from Tables III, IV, and V of the official tables computed in the Meteorological Office, and based on Regnault's modifications of August's formula.

The directions and the movement of the wind are taken from the trace of a Beckley's anemograph.

The mouth of the rain-gauge is one foot above the ground.

CALCUTTA, the 21st February 1888.

SUMMARY OF THE RAINFALL AND METEOROLOGICAL OBSERVATIONS TAKEN IN BENGAL FOR THE WEEK ENDING FRIDAY, THE 17TH OF FEBRUARY 1888.

At the close of the previous week a low pressure area had been developed over Orissa and parts of West Bengal, and on Friday, the 10th, the depression had drifted in an easterly direction and had established itself over East Bengal, giving moderate to heavy rain over this district. On the 11th or the first day of the present week, however, pressure increased briskly over East Bengal and Assam, and slightly over the other parts of Bengal, and the depression practically disappeared and weather conditions therefore rapidly improved over the province, while temperature commenced to fall rather rapidly, and on this day rainfall was practically absent over the whole province. On the 12th, however, owing to rather irregular barometric changes which took place over Upper India, a large shallow depression was formed over North-Western India, Gnzerat and the Central Provinces, and with the formation of the disturbance a few showers fell in Orissa. On the 13th the barometric depression apparently moved towards the east, and it commenced to affect the weather in Bengal and Orissa when winds strengthened in Orissa and conditions again became unsettled. Skies also clouded over and rain commenced to fall, rainfall being received at a considerable number of stations in Orissa and in South-West and East Bengal, and at a few in North Bengal. On the 14th the depression enlarged and became more shallow, and through it still extended over a considerable part of Bengal its effect was feeble, and again on this day rain showers were received only in parts of Orissa, South-West and East Bengal, and the rainfall did not extend to the other districts, though a few local showers were reported from Chutia Nagpur. On the 15th the low pressure area was still more feeble, and on the 16th it had entirely disappeared. For the remainder of the week therefore conditions in Bengal became settled and rainfall ceased.

The winds blowing over the province during the greater part of the week have been more or less northerly at the majority of stations, but at all the coast stations and at some of those inland, and particularly when affected by the depression, southerly winds set in for several days. As usual, also, with the setting in of southerly winds, humidity and temperature increased rather rapidly. In these respects therefore the conditions have been those which usually mark the commencement of the transition from the north-east monsoon to the hot season.

Pressure.—The variations of pressure during the week have been rather large; on the first day pressure rose rather rapidly, but from the 12th up to the 15th (inclusive) pressure fell steadily and rather rapidly, the fall in many cases exceeding a tenth of an inch; on the 16th pressure increased, but on the 17th it again fell at many stations. The mean pressure of the whole province for the week has therefore been 0·06 inch below the normal.

Temperature.—For the first four days of the week temperature steadily rose, and at some stations there was an increase in the mean temperature of nearly 10° during this period. A slight fall then set in which became rather rapid at the close of the week. In addition, too, on the 16th and 17th, there was a very rapid fall in the humidity. For the whole week the mean temperature of the province has been 0·8° in excess of the normal

The distribution of temperature during the week is best seen from the figures given in the table below, where the average maximum, minimum and mean temperatures at nine typical stations in different districts of the province are given and compared with the normal values for the same period. At these stations the day temperatures have been considerably below the normal, while the night temperatures have been above it. The mean temperature is more nearly normal.

Rainfall.—The stations in East Bengal and Orissa have received an average rainfall of rather more than half an inch, while those in South-West Bengal average a quarter of an inch. The stations in North Bengal have received about a tenth of an inch. The other districts have been practically rainless.

The following table gives the summary of the temperature and rainfall data of each of the seven meteorological divisions of the province for the week ending Friday, the 17th of February 1888:—

* A special census of the Europeans in the Darjiling Municipality was recently taken, as the census of this section of the community, taken in February 1881, was not reliable owing to the Europeans being at a minimum in that month. The number of the natives remains as before, as it was not necessary to re-census them. The ratios have consequently been calculated on the revised population under all heads in the above table, except "Age," the ratios under which have been omitted, inasmuch as the census of the Europeans above alluded to cannot be employed as a basis of calculation owing to the results of the census under this head not having been recorded under the authorized form of age classification.

(2) To revoke or suspend any certificates under section 8.

(3) To hear any appeals preferred by owners of boilers under section 9.

V.—After sanction of such schedule, the Commissioners shall have the power to appoint the Inspector, Assistant Inspectors and clerks, &c., and they shall also have power to suspend or remove such officers. The Inspector shall also be Secretary to the Commission, and he shall attend the office and keep such registers and accounts as the Commission may direct under rule III.

VI.—The Secretary shall be the head of the branch of the office of the Commissioner of Police which is set apart for the work of the Boiler Commission, and shall be responsible to the Commissioner or Deputy Commissioner of Police for the good order and management of the office. XIV.—There shall be two kinds of inspection of boilers—

HIGH COURT NOTICES.

IT is ordered that, in substitution for the rules passed on the 26th day of January last, the following rules be read and passed as the rules and orders of the High Court of Judicature at Fort William in Bengal, to take effect from the 1st day of March 1888 :—

1. A list of references of every description which are ripe for hearing and are pending before the Court itself, or before any of the officers of the Court, or any other Commissioner appointed to take accounts or make enquiries, shall be published at such times and in such manner as the Judge, ordinarily taking motions on the Original Side of the Court, may from time to time determine.

2. The printed cause list for each day shall contain a list of the references liable to be heard on that day by the officers before whom such references are pending.

3. Such list of references shall be divided into two parts: the first of such parts to consist of references of an urgent nature, or which can be quickly concluded, and to be styled "List of urgent references;" the second part to consist of all other references and to be styled "List of ordinary references."

4. Urgent references shall include the following:—

Accounts in mortgage suits.
Sales by the Registrar.
The settlement of proclamations, of conditions of sale, or of conveyances.
Enquiries under section 267 of the Civil Procedure Code, or under section 90 of the Probate and Administration Act.
Enquiries as to what would be proper to be allowed for maintenance or marriage expenses.
Enquiries as to whether proposed terms of settlement would be for the benefit of a minor.
References as to the appointment of guardian, and such other enquiries and references as may be determined by the Court or a Judge.

5. Any Judge sitting on the Original Side may order any particular reference or enquiry to be transferred from either list to the other. Such order need not be made in Court, but may be made upon a representation made by the Registrar or other officer or Commissioner. It shall not be made except by consent or on notice.

6. No reference shall be placed in the list of references for the day unless it be ripe for hearing.

No ordinary reference shall be deemed ripe for hearing until a Judge or the officer to whom the matter is referred has certified that the points in issue have been ascertained.

7. The Registrar or other officer shall, at the commencement of each daily sitting, hear applications with regard to pending references, and shall not hear any reference until such applications have been exhausted; but such application shall not ordinarily be made or heard on any day after the hearing of references have been commenced.

8. The officer or Commissioner shall on each day in the first place hear in order the urgent references on his list for the day, and shall then proceed to hear in order the ordinary references on his list for the day.

9. Each reference shall, unless otherwise ordered by a Judge, be taken in its turn, and it shall be continued de die in diem until it be concluded.

No reference on the list of causes for the day shall (without leave of the Court or a Judge) be postponed or adjourned, except under circumstances which would justify the postponement or adjournment of a cause.

10. References not on the list of causes for the day can, at the discretion of the person to whom they have been referred, be postponed or adjourned, but subject to the control or orders of the Judge taking motions on the Original Side.

11. Any Judge sitting on the Original Side may, by an order made upon notice in Court or in Chambers, postpone or adjourn any reference pending before himself or before any officer or Commissioner.

12. When, in the opinion of the Judge taking motions on the Original Side, it is necessary that some or all of the references pending before any officer of the Court or Commissioner should be heard by the Court itself or by some other officer or Commissioner, such Judge may recall such references into Court, and any time make such order as may be necessary for the purpose aforesaid, or if the parties should consent to any such change he may make such order without recalling the reference into Court.

13. The Registrar or other officer taking a reference may at any time, pending the reference or on its conclusion, apply for the opinion of the Court on any question which may arise in the reference, and for such purpose may report specially. Such special reference may be made at the instance of either of the parties, or at the instance of the officer himself.

14. In case an officer refuse or decline to make special reference when requested by a party so to do, such party may apply in Chambers by a petition on notice to the other parties to the reference for an order requiring the officer to report specially.

The Judge may in his direction make such order upon such terms as to costs or otherwise as he may think fit.

15. These rules are to be read with and to form part of the general rules of the Original Side.

16. These rules shall come into operation on and from the 1st day of March 1888.
